Cleveland Noses Out Braves, 4-3, Wins Series

Bearden's Relief Work Halts Boston's Dying Effort in Two-Run Eighth

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Boston, Oct. 11.—The Cleveland Indians collected two big ninth-inning pelts with a double play, snuffed out the Braves, and won the World Series in this disillusioned city today.

By a score of 4 to 3 they won it, wriggling out of a ninth-inning situation that saw the Braves put the tying run on base with none out, and 40,103 proper Bostonians whooping it up wildly in Braves Field.

With the packed premises clamoring for a hit or a sacrifice that would put the tying run in scoring position, the Indians had the perfect antidote—their fourth double play of the afternoon.

Then the Indians Explode

That took the innards out of the Braves but it wasn't quite all. The Indians had to wait until Tommy Holmes flied to Bob Kennedy in leftfield for the final out, and then they exploded emotionally.

Manager Lou Boudreau raced across second base to grab up Joe Gordon in a madly happy embrace with the championship won in six games. Out of the dugout bolted a dozen Indians to carry Pitcher Gene Bearden off the field. The Indians made all the noise.

Owner Bill Veeck hippety-hopped on his artificial leg into the runway to greet his champions individually.

The Braves had themselves a decent burial, however. They dug out from under a 4-1 deficit to knock their second-game conqueror, Bob Lemon out of the box, with two big runs in the eighth inning, and win anew the affections of their Boston fandom.

Double Plays Kill Braves

Boston literally bled for the Braves today and last night. Dozens of fans were hurt in the violent jamming at the stadium gates for standing-room and bleacher tickets that were on sale. But this afternoon, the Indians were making those dratted double plays to blunt four Boston threats to get some runs.

They tied the score at one point in the fourth inning, 1 to 1, and then Joe Gordon, the old Yankee, jolted the town out of it satisfaction with a sixth-inning homer that soared far over the leftfield wall to put the Indians in the lead again.

There was particular satisfaction for the American Leaguers today because it was against their tormentor of yesterday, Southpaw Warran Spahn, that they collected a big eighth-inning run that was to be decisive, with three consective singles by Ken Keltner, Thurmond Tucker and Eddie Robinson.

Before the game, Manager Lou Boudreau refused to announce a seventh-game pitcher in the event the Braves won today, confidently declaring 'there won't be any seventh game."

And so in the eighth inning today he called in Gene Bearden, the man who was going to be his seventh-game pitcher, if Boudreau was wrong on today's outcome. Bearden stepped into an eighth-inning situation to leave the

As 'Chief Prosecutor'

Dewey Intends to Destroy The New Deal, Truman Says

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 11.—President Truman tonight raised the banner of Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal and charged Gov. Thomas E. Dewey would "destroy it."

All day, across 250 miles of Ohio countryside, Mr. Truman hurled brickbats at his Republican opponent, saying he was "afraid" to discuss the issues.

Then tonight, in industrial Akron, the President emerged in the role of the New Deal's chief custodian and protector.

He said the Republican Congress "tasted blood" when it passed the Taft-Hartley Act and wants a Republican President to help "do a real hatchet job on the New Deal without any interference."

Labeling Dewey "chief prosecutor" of the GOP attack on Roosevelt laws, Mr. Truman told Buckeye State voters:

"I completely reject the idea that we should 'eliminate' the New Deal. Instead, we should build upon it an always better way of life."

Mr. Truman spoke in Akron's bulging armory, after threatening weather forced cancellation of plans for an open-air rally in the huge Rubber Bowl. Thirty thousand persons lined Akron streets to cheer the President en route to the armory.

A group of Wallace supporters gathered on one corner near a sound truck playing 'It's the Same Old Merry-Go-Round." They flaunted "Wallace-Taylor" placards and shouted "we want Wallace" as Mr. Truman rode by.

The armory was crowded to its 2600 capacity and some 7000 listened on loudspeakers outside.

It was a noisy, enthusiastic audience that yelled and whistled when the President pummeled his opponent. They shouted "no" when Mr. Truman asked if they were going to let Governor Dewey "destroy" the New Deal and loudly cheered his attack on the Taft-Hartley Act.

Personalizing his attack on Governor Dewey, he said his opponent not only dodged issues but would be "helpless" against GOP bosses in Congress. Mr. Truman bounced off his train in Cincinnati to address a 7 a. m. Democratic breakfast and literally dotted Ohio with speeches before dusk.

He commended Senator Robert A. Taft as "frankly conservative" but dared the voters to "try to find out where that other fellow stands."

Mr. Truman's Cincinnati reception was literally the chilliest of the day. The rain was falling as he left the train. His arrival wasn't front-page news in the Cin-

Great Parking Plan Evolved For Baltimore

Voters to Pass Upon 5-Million Bond Issue At Coming Elections

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 11.—Baltimore's voters will go to the polls next month to decide whether the city should borrow five million dollars to do a "pump-priming" job on parking facilities expansion.

The fund, which would be financed by a bond issue, would be used to "advance money to parking lot owners and others for expansion either by addition of property to existing lots or adding decks or garages."

The plan was explained by George E. Finck, assistant director of public works and acting director of the off-street parking commission of Baltimore City.

He emphasized that if the borrowing is approved, the "city will not go into the parking business," but rather will create a "pump-priming fund" to spur off-street parking projects by loans at low rates of interest ranging from 2 to 4 per cent.

Has Different Approach

These loans, according to Finck, would be individually negotiated by the commission subject to final approval by the board of estimate, the city's guardian of funds. They would be self-liquidating.

Baltimore's approach to the parking problem differs from Washington's in four major respects:

1. Washington parking facility expansion is being accomplished with private capital, although assisted by technical advice from city experts in the motor vehicle parking agency.

2. Baltimore's two fringe parking lots are operated by the local transit firm, which also runs the shuttle buses connecting them with the commercial area. In Washington, the lots are operated by private firms with the transit firm providing bus service only.

3. The Baltimore lots are designed to attract all-day parkers, not shoppers—as in Washington.

4. No parking meters are used in Baltimore.

Filled From Start

Charles T. McGavin, parking expert from Washington's motor vehicle parking agency, toured the facilities with a reporter of The Washington Post today as part of his survey of parking services and fees in four large Eastern cities.

The first of the lots, located on a block area at Howard and Preston sts., was opened August 26, 1946, and started off at almost its capacity of 2?6 vehicles. It has continued at that rate with few exceptions.

The second, however, has failed to "catch on" thus far. It is located on a city-owned pier along Pratt

Initial Gifts In Chest Drive 8% of Quota

Four Units Collect $384,679; Two Goals Are Oversubscribed

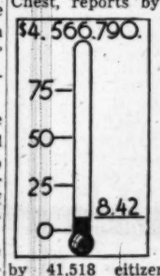
A total of $384,679.87 has been contributed so far to Greater Washington's 1949 Community Chest, reports by four campaign units revealed at the Chest's first general report luncheon yesterday in the Hotel Washington.



The gifts, representing 8.42 per cent of this year's $4,566,790 Community Chest goal, were donated by 41,518 citizens of Greater Washington.

Majority of the contributions reported yesterday were made to the Government Unit, which has filled 21.72 per cent of its $1,524,557 quota since soliciting began September 20 among Federal employes.

Business Unit II, Alexandria, and residential units each reported filling about 6 per cent of their individual goals.

The two groups in the Government Unit, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the International Refugee Organization announced going over their goals, with contributions of 106 per cent and 121 per cent, respectively.

About 200 persons at the luncheon watched 9-year-old Carole Walters, 1327 4th st. sw., bestow a Red Feather Oscar statuette on Chauncey G. Parker, general chairman of the Greater Washington Chest, who was chosen "Red Feather Citizen" of the day.

Next general report meeting is scheduled for Thursday at 12:30 p. m., in the Washington Hotel.

Finger in Throat, Woman Coughs Up Numbers Evidence

A suspected numbers operator yesterday reluctantly coughed up 90 cents in evidence after a thorough search of her house and her person had failed to produce the marked coins.

The suspect, Miss Viola Smith, 43, of 1005 1st st. sw., was charged with accepting a 90-cent numbers play from an undercover policeman. Detectives found numbers slips but no money.

A physical examination at the Women's Bureau revealed nothing. Taking one last chance, Policewoman Eleanor Phillips suddenly poked a finger down Miss Smith's throat. She hit the jackpot. Up bounced the coins.

Oklahoma U. to Admit Negro Following U. S. Court Order

Oklahoma City, Oct. 11 (AP).—Admission of a Negro graduate student to the University of Oklahoma was ordered today by the University board of regents.

The order paves the way for opening a white educational institution in Oklahoma to Negroes for the first time in the State's history.

The Negro is G. W. McLaurin, retired professor. He seeks a doctor of education degree.

The resolution of the regents was approved at a secret special meeting yesterday.

A three-judge Federal court ruled September 29 that the university had acted unconstitutionally in denying McLaurin admission. Oklahoma constitution and statutes made it a penal offense for Negroes to attend white colleges. The Federal court ruling declared the statutes unconstitutional as they apply to McLaurin.

No Negroes live in Norman, site of the university.

Dewey Lash Falls Full on Democrats

Administration 'Miserable,' He Says In Pittsburgh Talk; Praises Labor Act

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Pittsburgh, Oct. 11.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who has been taunted for using "high-level platitudes," reverted to his slashing district attorney style today and heaped invective on the Truman Administration.

In a major speech on labor here tonight he indorsed the Taft-Hartley Act as a courageous measure that reduced strikes by 50 per cent. He said it would be changed whenever changes seemed to be needed, but he made no specific promises.

What impressed those aboard the "Dewey Victory Special" was the sharp change in the Republican nominee's oratory.

Uses Strong Terms

He said that the Truman Administration was a "blundering" and "bungling" Administration; that it was "bankrupt," "miserable," and "pusillanimous," and he accused it of telling the Russians just what they wanted to hear by supporting "an infamous falsehood that America is going to have a bust."

In this one day of campaigning, Gov. Dewey loosed more wrath on his Democratic opposition than he did in the whole of his campaign swing.

On his arrival in Pittsburgh, Governor Dewey was welcomed by small and not very demonstrative crowds.

Tonight, however, 13,000 persons turned out to hear him in Hunt Armory, and thousands more gathered in the streets outside.

Pennsylvania Gov. James H. Duff, who fought Dewey at the Philadelphia convention, introduced him tonight as "a courageous leader." He assured the New Yorker that every segment of the GOP in Pennsylvania was behind the Dewey-Warren ticket and that the State's electoral vote would certainly be in the Republican column in November.

Draws First Applause

Gov. Dewey got his first outburst of applause when he said.

"We are electing a Republican administration that will unfailingly back up the work of its representatives in the United Nations for peace."

The crowd obviously took this to be a crack at President Truman's discarded plan to by-pass the U. N. by sending Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow to confer with Premier Stalin.

As Dewey moved into his main theme, he recalled how Pittsburgh was paralyzed by strikes in the Autumn of 1946. Discussing the Taft-Hartley Act, he said that an "overwhelming majority" of Americans approve its provisions. He added:

"The new law is not perfect. No law, nor any other human handiwork, is perfect. It can always be improved and wherever and whenever it needs change it will be changed.

Cites Railroad Strike

"But it does insure that collective bargaining is encouraged and that the wage-earner has an inalienable right to quit his job. It does this by safeguarding these principles against the damage which incompetent, frightened men may do to them as this Administration tried in the railroad strike."

Governor Dewey pledged himself to seek an increase of the minimum wage set by law, but didn't name any specific figure.

He said he was for extending the coverage and increasing the benefits of the Social Security system.

Mediation Efforts of Neutrals Stalled as Big 3 Stands Firm; Blockade End Held Essential

Marshall Flying To Paris; Calls Vinson Incident Harmful Influence

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Secretary Marshall was on his way back to Paris last night, ready to give new assurances of American unity to Western European leaders.

The Secretary was hopeful, but not at all certain, that he had heard the last echoes of President Truman's abortive plan to send Chief Justice Fred Vinson to Moscow.

He told reporters at the airport that disclosure of the President's plan "certainly had harmful influence" on the Western powers' handling of the Berlin crisis. When a reporter asked him whether British and French alarm over the incident had been dispelled, he said:

"I can answer that better after I get back to Paris."

Resignation Rumors Denied

The Secretary looked worn out, and seemed to be suffering from a cold when he stepped aboard the Presidential plane, the Independence, for the tiring journey back to Paris.

But he seemed encouraged by the statements made over the weekend by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as well as by the President. He said these bipartisan statements showed the world that "we have a completely united foreign policy."

He then volunteered this statement to reporters:

"Incidentally, I have either read in the press or heard on the radio reports, which were called authoritative, that I was threatening to resign. There is no truth in that. That isn't the way I do business, and there should be no doubt about it."

Vinson Affair Closed

He repeated several times that the Vinson affair was a closed issue as far as the United States was concerned.

He emphasized again, as he had at his press conference on Saturday, that the President promptly dropped the plan on his advice last Tuesday, and that the international furore and confusion about the plan resulted from its disclosure in the press.

European delegations at Paris, who had no inkling of the proposed Vinson mission, got the impression that the plan was still alive when newspaper "leaks" about it were cabled back to them on Saturday.

Similar Outcry In May

This was not the first time the British and French had shown themselves abnormally sensitive to any suggestion that the United States might make a deal with Russia behind their backs. A similar outcry came last May, when Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith presented a note in Moscow saying that the door was always open to a settlement of strictly Soviet-American problems.

Traveling with the Secretary on the Independence were Ambassador Smith, on his way back to his post after his first visit home in more than a year, and Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul Hoffman. Hoffman is going for quick consultations with Special Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, prior to a meeting on October 19 of all the 16 chiefs of ECA missions in Europe.

The hustling ECA administrator plans to fly back to the United States Thursday, and then back to Paris again for the meeting of his mission chiefs.

Kremlin Answer Is Awaited in Attempt to Settle Dispute on Berlin

Paris, Oct. 11 (AP).—Attempts by "neutral" nations in the United Nations Security Council to mediate the Berlin crisis apparently were stalled tonight.

Spokesmen for the United States, Britain and France declared that the Western powers are standing firm on their demand that the Soviet blockade be lifted. The three powers were reported to feel that there had been enough time for mediation, and the Council should go ahead with meetings.

Argentine Foreign Minister Juan A. Bramuglia talked privately again with Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky. Informed sources said the Soviet deputy foreign minister told him that no answer had been received from the Kremlin on mediation efforts.

Western Powers Firm

Western power spokesmen said in the absence of new Soviet proposals they assumed Moscow still insists that the Berlin case must go to the four-power Council of Foreign Ministers packaged with the whole German problem. The spokesmen repeated that "the blockade must be lifted before we go to the Council of Foreign Ministers."

Bramuglia has been attempting to mediate the East-West differences since last Wednesday, as temporary president of the Security Council and as spokesman for the "neutrals"—Argentina, Canada, China, Belgium, Colombia and Syria.

In the face of the apparent deadlock, the Security Council is expected to meet Wednesday or Thursday to go over the Berlin situation, and perhaps open full-scale debate. Only the Western powers have spoken so far, accusing the Soviet Union of threatening world peace. Russia is boycotting the discussions.

"Combination" Settlement?

Dr. Philip C. Jessup of the United States, Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain and Alexandre Parodi of France conferred tonight in the wake of reports, some from official sources, which indicated the three powers might be willing to accept a possible "combination" settlement of the issue.

The reports apparently grew out of a declaration by Western spokesmen earlier that the U. S., Britain and France are "not unwilling" to accept a Berlin settlement which would combine lifting the blockade with a call for a foreign ministers' conference. It was explained that this merely meant that if the "neutrals" could work out some formula that would let the Russians and the West meet each others terms, it would be considered.

Berlin occupied the major share of attention in U.N. halls, but arms reduction and Palestine came up.

Britain put a resolution before the Assembly's Political Commit-

Value of Corn On Farms Now 6⅓ Billions

3568-Million-Bushel Crop Is Estimated; 10% Above Record

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The United States is about to harvest a corn crop valued on the farms at present prices at more than six and one-third billion dollars.

It is worth about 2½ times as much as our near-record wheat crop, already harvested or about finished.

The Government Crop Reporting Board yesterday reported that last month's estimates on corn which predicted an overwhelmingly record crop were not optimistic enough. This month's report, published yesterday, added almost 40 million bushels to the yield.

This year's corn crop—the Nation's most important crop—will be almost 10 per cent higher than the all-time record of two years ago, which Agriculture experts at that time forecast wouldn't be excelled in years.

Estimate Now About Sure

The estimate for corn, now about sure, is for 3568 million bushels. Last year only 2400 million were harvested; in 1946, the previous high, it was 3250 million.

The total value on the farms (as of September 15) of the five grain crops this year is $10,289,090,990. The totals are:

Wheat: 1,283,770,000 bushels, worth on the average $1.97 a bushel on the farm, $2,529,026,900.

Main Changes Noted

"Indications are that the total outcome of all crops will be 8 per cent above the record set in 1946," the board reported. The main changes in the report since September 10 are noted as follows:

"A few crops were adversely affected by September weather. Among these were cotton, as dry weather limited boll development; sugarcane, damaged in Florida by a tropical storm; and sorghums, reduced in yield by lack of rain in the Southwest. Peanuts did not set as many nuts as the growth of vines had indicated, but the

Britain Lays Ruin-Europe Plan to Soviet

White Paper Charges Reds Seek Ruhr Voice To Sabotage Recovery

London, Oct. 11 (AP).—Britain today blamed the breakdown in the Berlin crisis talks to a desire by Russia to undermine the recovery of western Europe.

"The Soviet government has no intention of reaching agreement (over Berlin) save on its own terms," said a 40,000-word White Paper issued by the Foreign Office.

The White Paper was similar to the United States statement of September 27 listing the futile negotiations in Moscow and Berlin step by step. But it went further in its charge that Russia oppresses Germans in its occupation zone and seeks a share in control of the mineral-rich Ruhr to "sabotage" recovery in the west.

Charges Duress on Berlin

"In the light of the Soviet attitude toward the European recovery program," the document said, "it became clear that the Soviet claim to participate in control of the Ruhr was in fact a claim to be allowed to sabotage recovery."

The Soviet blockade of Berlin was described as a "carefully prepared attempt to compel the western occupying powers to abandon under duress their rights in Berlin."

The White Paper said it became clear after seven weeks of talks in Moscow and Berlin that Soviet terms, including a demand for control of the Anglo-American airlift into the German city, were not an "acceptable basis of negotiation."

Says Thousands Kidnaped

It said "Soviet authorities in Berlin have tolerated attempts by minority groups sympathetic to their aims to overthrow the legal municipal government of the city."

In charging Soviet oppression, the paper said:

"Thousands of people including children have been arbitrarily arrested and confined to concentration camps within the Soviet zone or deported to the Soviet Union. Skilled workers also have been forcibly removed to the Soviet Union."

The document said Soviet authorities are violating in their zone of Germany fundamental personal and political freedoms prescribed by the Potsdam agreement, and the people are not accorded freedom of speech or information.

Baby Porpoise Killed as Adults Battle Whales

Marineland, Fla., Oct. 11 (U.P.).—A baby porpoise, said to be the only one ever born in captivity, was killed today in a battle between nine large porpoises and three small whales.

Attendants at the Oceanarium here were aroused at 3 a. m. by the roars of the whales and the violent thrashing of the porpoises in the tank. The battle continued throughout the day.

Four of a school of 44 whales which beached themselves near St. Augustine, Fla., Thursday, had been put into the tank with the porpoises. One died Saturday night.

The smaller dophins were the attackers, charging headon at the whales, some of which weigh more than 1000 pounds.

One porpoise, weighing 450 pounds, butted a whale of 800 pounds, knocking him completely out of the water. The whale emitted a sound "like the roar of a lion."

Dolphins grabbed the tails of the whales and dragged them to the bottom of the 40-foot tank where the other porpoises butted them.

But the five-month-old baby porpoise got in the thick of the battle and was killed.

Curator McBride said he believed the presence of porpoises in the Atlantic may have driven the whales onto the beach last week.

Court Will Decide Issues In Contest of Patterson Will

Issues to be presented for trial in Countess Felicia Gizycka's challenge of the will of her mother, the late Eleanor Medill Patterson, will be decided in District Court today.

Counsel for the countess and for the estate of the late owner-publisher of the Washington Times-Herald will present arguments before Judge James W. Morris on a motion to "frame the issues" in the $16,586,571 will contest case.

Attorneys said a principal legal issue at stake will be whether the whole will could be ruled invalid if it can be proved that portions of it are invalid, and if so, what portions this would hinge on.

In her petition in the case, the countess utilized all possible points of holding a will invalid in the District—alleging that the will was improperly drawn, that her mother was not of "sound and disposing mind" at the time, that it was obtained by fraud, deceit, undue influence or coercion, and that it was not the last will, properly signed.

Under the will, which gave the Times-Herald to seven top employes, Countess Gizycka was given an annual income of $25,000 plus real estate in New York State and North Dakota and specified personal property.

The names of 17 persons who are to continue to receive from the estate certain unspecified weekly or monthly payments they had been getting from Mrs. Patterson were disclosed yesterday.

The will itself, which did not identify them, stated: "For a long time I have made a practice of paying to certain friends of mine sums of money, either weekly or monthly, as will be indicated by my books," and directed continuance of these payments.

Among the 17, listed as "persons entitled to notice of proceedings,"

Lewis Voted $50,000 Salary As Miners' Dues Are Doubled

Cincinnati, Oct. 11 (AP).—The Nation's coal diggers today voted John L. Lewis a $50,000 yearly salary, about the highest fixed pay for any labor leader in the world.

Then the miners, in convention here, raised dues and initiation fees to fatten the United Mine Workers' treasury against possible new strike troubles and fines.

Lewis warned the 3000 delegates they should make ready for the future by building up a strong reserve. He said the next fine, if there is one, might be 10 million dollars or more.

A $1,420,000 fine imposed by Federal Justice T. Alan Goldsborough for contempt of a back-to-work order in last spring's pension strike is being appealed to the Supreme Court.

By voting to double the dues—from an average of $2 a month to a flat $4 throughout the country—the 400,000 soft-coal miners and the 80,000 anthracite diggers were handing over to their international officers more than one million dollars a month.

The international will get half of

Railroads Now Ask 13% Freight Boost

The Nation's railroads served notice yesterday they want to raise freight rates another 13 per cent instead of the 8 per cent asked on October 1.

They will file a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission today requesting the added 5 per cent.

The total hike, if granted, would add about $1,092,000,000 a year to the shippers' freight rate bill on the basis of present railroad estimates of next year's business.

It would bring to $4.1 billion the total of increased rail costs for freight and passengers since the war. Increases already granted have added $3,503,000,000 to the railroad's income.

The petition will be filed jointly by all the railroads. They say the 5 per cent is needed to pay for a 10-cent hourly wage rise granted to 175,000 members of the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

A spokesman said the 10-cent figure would set a pattern for other railroad workers. If all rail workers get it, he added, railroad expenses will go up $371 million a year.

In Philadelphia, President M. W. Clement of the Pennsylvania Railroad said rates must rise if railroads are to meet the "necessities of the country as we see them before us."

He told an employes group that rail expenses have increased 77 per cent during the past 10 years while freight rates have risen "only 46 per cent and passenger fares 40 per cent."

In their new petition the railroads will ask that the 8 per cent hike be granted immediately, and the extra 5 per cent as soon as practicable.

The proposed 13 per cent rate is an average. It would not mean that each individual rate in the complicated rail rate structure would go up by exactly that amount.

the $4. The local will get $1 and the district organization will get the other dollar.

Pensioners and unemployed miners will pay only $1 a month as inactive members.

The dues of Canadian miners in the union and members of Lewis' catch-all District 50 will be fixed by the UMW executive board from time to time. The union claims 600,000 members in all.

Initiation Fee Raised

The fee to join the union was jumped from $10 to $50. The local will take $20 of the new fee, and the international will take the other $30.

The boosts in dues and initiation fee were not approved without a struggle.

When the fee hike uproar began to look serious, Lewis strode to the rostrum to argue for the administration proposal. He pounded home the idea that the union must be strong financially to meet the future.

Opponents protested that times might get worse and they would not be able to afford such a high monthly dues checkoff.

Lewis Gets Showdown

But their objections were overwhelmed when Lewis grabbed the gavel and shouted for a showdown. Only a sprinkling of hands was raised against the dues.

Vice President Kennedy and Secretary Treasurer John Owens got the biggest raises. Their salaries were increased from $10,000 to $40,000.

Lewis announced that district presidents would notify operators in their areas that there will be a mine holiday on election day, November 2. The holiday was voted by the delegates a week ago in connection with their political action resolution.

The union changed its constitution to hold conventions only once in four years. The scale convention, in between the four-year constitutional gatherings, was eliminated. If the executive board wants a convention it can call a special one.

Otherwise, the next one will be in 1952, when Lewis will be 72 years old.

Lewis Seeks Return of Huge Fines

John L. Lewis asked the United States Court of Appeals yesterday to return the $1,420,000 he and his united mine workers union paid in contempt of court fines as a result of the soft coal strike last spring.

Attorneys for the UMW president asked for reversal of Federal District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough who fined Lewis and the union for continuing their walkout in defiance of a no-strike order.

They argued that Goldsborough had no authority to issue the injunction and therefore could not legally punish them for disobeying it. They asked for an order directing him to refund the fines—$20,000 to Lewis and $1,400,000 to the union.

The walkout started last March 18 when Lewis notified the miners that the soft coal operators had "dishonored" their wage contract by refusing to grant pensions to retired miners.

The Government obtained an injunction in Justice Goldsborough's court, but the UMW chieftain ignored it, asserting that he had not called a strike and could not force the miners to go back to work if they didn't want to.

The walkout ended April 12, when Lewis announced he had won a pension plan providing payments of $100 a month to aged miners. That plan is still being contested in the courts by the operators.

Lewis back-to-work orders, however, came too late to save him and the union from being held in contempt and fined.

5 Wine Pressers Killed When Vat Bottom Open

Burgos, Spain, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—Five wine pressers were killed today in the village of Fuentespina when the bottom fell out a vat in which they were trampling grapes with their bare feet.

The workers fell into the pipe used to drain off the juice and were suffocated by the fumes of the half-fermented grapes.

Victor Plants Hope to Reopen In Md. Today

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 11 (AP).—Officials of the Victor Products Corp. hope to reopen their two strike-bound plants here tomorrow.

R. J. Funkhouser, West Virginia publisher and industrialist and president of the Victor board, indicated that the company planned to hire new personnel to replace the 850 workers who struck a week ago.

Funkhouser said, however, that he had offered the workers an interim wage increase of 7 cents an hour to remain in effect for four months while company and union officials negotiated a new contract. The old contract expired last week.

Meanwhile, Paul Wagner, international representative of Local 842, CIO United Auto Workers, issued a statement saying that the union has "leaned over backward" and would not accept a "watered-down contract." The union wants a 13-cent increase.

Wagner said his men will continue to picket the plants until an agreement is reached.

AFL Dock Hands Ignore CIO, Vote To Unload Ships

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 11 (AP).—AFL longshoremen voted at a mass meeting today to work all ships in the Tacoma Harbor, starting at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

CIO longshoremen and AFL workers scuffled this morning as attempts were made to stop work unloading ships. Sixteen vessels lie at docks here and others are in the stream. CIO leaders charge many have been diverted here from other ports strike bound in the coastwise maritime tie-up.

"We will recognize legitimate picket lines, but we refuse to recognize phony picket lines," George Miller, president of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association, said. "We will go back to work on all ships at 9 a. m. Tuesday."

Miller explained later that a "phony picket" was one "who has no business on the docks or ships in Tacoma."

Hapless Harless And Bride-to-Be Delayed Again

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 11 (U.P.).—The "jinxed" wedding of Representative Richard Fielding Harless (D., Ariz.), and former Ziegfeld Follies beauty Meredith Howard was postponed again today so the bride's twin sister could be present.

The marriage was first set for yesterday in Knoxville, Tenn., then moved to Tulsa, postponed until today and now delayed again.

Harless explained that Miss Howard talked to her sister, Virginia, who is in Mexico City, and the twin insisted she should attend the ceremony.

"Just as quick as the two get together we'll proceed with the wedding," he declared. He did not say when he thought the wedding will take place.

Overtime Based on Bonus Pay Sustained by Supreme Court

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

The Supreme Court yesterday declined to reconsider a previous decision that employers must include premium pay for night and holiday work in computing overtime.

Its action was promptly followed by a Labor Department announcement that its wage-hour division, beginning Monday, would require compliance. Although the original decision was handed down last June, the Government had not required compliance pending an appeal.

Government Sought Reversal

On the ground that it was "erroneous" and "virtually impossible" to carry out, the Government had asked the court to reverse its previous ruling. Yesterday's refusal to do so was by a vote of five to three, with Justice Douglas not taking part. Justices Frankfurter, Jackson and Burton, who dissented from the June decision, voted for reconsideration.

The original decision was given on an appeal from a lower court's finding in a case involving longshoremen in the Port of New York. The lower court held that longshoremen, who had received a 50 per cent bonus for many years for night and weekend work, must under the wage-hour law.

In its first business session of the 1948-1949 term, the court, acted on 264 appeals accumulated during the summer recess. It agreed to review 30 of these and in the remaining 234 upheld the lower court, refused to hear an appeal or dismissed the case.

Other Labor Action

Two other labor cases on which the court acted have widespread application. In these it:

1. Declined to review a decision of the United States Circuit Court in Cincinnati that an employer must bargain with the union representing its employes before awarding individual merit raises in pay. The refusal to review has the effect of upholding the lower court.

2. Consented to review a decision of the United States Circuit Court at New Orleans that a Georgia textile mill did not violate the labor laws when it granted a blanket raise without notifying the CIO Textile Workers Union. The National Labor Relations Board appealed, contending that collective bargaining would be impaired if the lower court's decision were allowed to stand.

Other Rulings Announced

Among other labor case rulings announced yesterday, the Court:

1. Agreed to review a Missouri Supreme Court decision that an AFL union violated State law when it picketed a Kansas City ice plant to halt deliveries of ice to nonunion peddlers.

2. Denied a request of the Air Pilots Association that it review a refusal of the Civil Aeronautics Board to permit the union to intervene in a hearing at which temporarily increased mail rates were granted National Airlines. The union, on strike against NAL, contended "the power of Government has been injected into an economic contest . . . on the side of one contestant." The CAB action was upheld by the United States Court of Appeals here.

3. Declined to rule on legality of an "income sharing plan" used by a Mississippi company in computing pay.

Boycott Review Granted

4. Agreed to review a California Supreme Court decision that a California law banning secondary boycotts by labor organizations violates the Federal Constitution.

5. Agreed to review a decision of the Circuit Court in New Orleans which the wage-hour administrator said cast serious doubt on the validity of numerous injunctions against employers under the Fair Labor Standards Act. The Circuit Court refused to hold a Jacksonville, Fla., paper company in civil contempt for alleged violation of a 1943 District Court injunction. It held the violations were not "willful."

6. Declined to review an Illinois Appellate Court decision that a local of the AFL Teamsters Union acted unlawfully when it halted delivery of gasoline to filling stations whose operators were not union members.

Kayser Sees U. N. Crisis in Berlin Issue

The Berlin issue may pose for the United Nations its "greatest and maybe its final crisis."

This view was voiced here yesterday by Dr. Elmer L. Kayser professor of history and dean of students at George Washington University. He also likened the struggle for Berlin to the ancient Olympic contests in which the victor received as a prize only a wreath of green leaves.

Berlin as a Symbol

"Our game here is more desperate," he told 300 members of the Washington Building Congress, at the Hotel Mayflower, and "our prize of no greater value."

"A shambles though it was and is," Dean Kayser asserted, "Berlin is now a symbol."

Although the Western nations do not seek "Berlin of itself," they do desire "in the face of Russia's abdication of her duty and obligation to proceed as we have begun in the rehabilitation of western Germany."

He called the Russian problem "nothing new," and emphasized that it is "not a special dish served up for our day and generation." He contended the "Russia of foreign affairs is now and always has been made up of a dominant and ruling group of imperialistic individuals.

Have "Learned Something"

However, he added, this country, "from the inhabitants of 1600 Pennsylvania ave. down," have "learned something" from the present conflict.

Earlier, new officers of the WBC were installed. Louis Justement, architect, took over from John G. Scharf, retiring president. Other officers include P. Y. K. Howat, first vice president; William F. Nelson, second vice president; F. G. Addison, jr., secretary; W. A. H. Church, treasurer; Earl Whittier Shinn, counsel. New board members are E. L. Davis and Frank H. Haines.

Members were urged to support the current Red Feather drive.

Supreme Court Denies Review To Mrs. Durant

Kathleen B. Nash Durant, former Wac captain, yesterday was denied a Supreme Court review of her court-martial conviction in the theft of the Hesse family jewels valued at $1,500,000.

Mrs. Durant was sentenced to dismissal from the Army, forfeiture of pay and five years in prison in 1946. Her husband, Jack W. Durant, former Air Force colonel, was sentenced to serve 15 years in the same case.

She contended that, having been placed on terminal leave when she was arrested June 3, 1946, she was not on active duty and not subject to a military court. She is now in the Federal Women's Reformatory at Alderton, W. Va.

Manila Fire Levels 3 U. S. Business Plants

Manila, Oct. 11 (AP).—A spectacular fire destroyed three American-owned business establishments in the Philippine Education Co. compound. The fire chief estimated damage at two million dollars.

The fire wiped out the Singer Sewing Machine Company branch, the McCullough Printing Co. plant, and a firm handling books, papers and Christmas toys.

U. S. May Lift Ban on German Investments

Essen, Germany, Oct. 11 (AP).—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. military governor, said today private foreign investment in German industry may soon be permitted again.

"We are considering lifting the moratorium," Clay told a news conference.

Simultaneously, the American and British military governors disclosed they are preparing plans to return German coal mines, owned technically by the military governments, to some form of non-Nazi ownership on a temporary basis. The two commanders had come to the Ruhr in an effort to boost coal production.

Clay said one reason for the postwar moratorium on foreign investments was to protect Germany from exploitation at a time its currency was unsound. He added that with the introduction of the new Western Deutschmark, the possibility of permitting foreign investments is being considered.

He said he hopes the future of the Krupp steel works can be made known "before very long."

Replying to questions about Germany's position in western European defense, he said the Allies have agreed to keep Germany disarmed and that he hopes the German people prefer it that way.

Russian Yak Fighters Harass British Planes

Berlin (Tuesday) Oct. 12 (U.P.).—Diving, circling Rusian Yak fighters harassed British planes engaged in the airlift yesterday in incidents resulting in two British protests at the four-power air safety center.

British officials announced today that a Dakota transport flying along the Buckeborg-Berlin corridor last night was buzzed by a Yak which dived within 100 feet of it.

The transport, en route to Gatow Airport from Hamburg, was flying at 5500 feet when a Yak tailed it, looped and rolled near it and finally dived under its nose, the British said.

Earlier, two formations of Yaks had circled a British transport flying the same Hamburg-Berlin corridor.

The incident occurred a few hours after the Russians announced new air maneuvers in the Berlin area, including dive bombing, strafing and antiaircraft practice.

Poland's Envoy Asks Cooperation On Pulaski Day

Poland's Ambassador to the United States, J. Winiewicz, yesterday observed Pulaski Day by appealing to Americans of Polish descent to "foster the links of understanding and cooperation between our two countries."

Pulaski Day commemorates the anniversary of the death of Kazimierz Pulaski, Polish officer who fought gallantly with American forces during the Revolutionary War. He was killed in the battle of Savannah on October 11, 1776.

The Ambassador said Poland's economic recovery program has proved "our ability not only to solve our own vital problems, but to contribute to the wealth of whole Europe."

He said that "in international relations, the only aim of our country . . . is to work for peace."

Vatican Warns Faithful Against Reform Move

Vatican City, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—The Vatican secretariat of state warned Catholics today against a proposed international congress for "religious reform in Italy."

A communique said the congress was being planned by Ferdinando Tartaglia, a former priest who was excommuuicated in 1946, and that many Italian Catholics had received invitations.

Berlin Broke, Budget Head Points Out

Berlin, Oct. 11 (AP).—Berlin's city government said tonight it is broke.

Dr. Fredrich Haas, the budget officer, described the situation as "catastrophic." He said the city's cash balance is wiped out and each department must operate on an emergency 10-day budget until some special measures are taken to obtain funds.

W. T. Babcock, deputy United States military governor, said he knew the city government was living "from hand to mouth," but he had not been told the situation was as bad as Haas had painted it. The Western Allies have advanced funds from time to time to tide the city over.

The city council's financial situation has been stringent since last June when Western and Russian currencies were introduced. The Russians have frozen much of the city's finances which were banked in the Soviet sector.

The council has operated since on the basis of paying its obligations in divided currency, usually 75 per cent in East marks and the remainder in West marks. It has no income from the 1,200,000 persons in the Soviet sector and gets West marks from the 2,250,000 in the three western sectors.

45% of Federal Force Veterans, Lists Show

The Civil Service Commission reported yesterday that about 45 per cent of all Federal employes are veterans.

The commission said its records for August showed that 846,001 of the 1,895,443 government employes in the continental United States were veterans.

In August 1946, only 37 per cent had veteran status.

Russians See U. S. Disunity In Vinson Plan

Moscow, Oct. 11 (AP).—The Russian people were told today that differences exist between President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall over the Berlin question.

The newspaper Pravda published prominently a story on the President's plan to send Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow. Pravda said American political circles have connected Marshall's trip home from Paris with "differences" which appear to have arisen between the American leaders.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, distributed a dispatch saying: "Marshall, in fear of weakening his own position in Paris, recommended to Truman over the teletype (Paris-to-Washington) that he renounce his decision. Truman has agreed to this."

Pravda also described as fantastic the reports that the Soviet Union might walk out of the United Nations and cut relations with the world organization. The newspaper said such reports originated in the United States and intimated that British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin was one of those primarily responsible for them.

Peer Won't Visit U. S. With Miss Douglas

London, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—The Marquess of Blandford, Sharman Douglas' new boy friend, said tonight he has no reason to visit the United States this year, squelching reports he would accompany the beautiful young daughter of the United States Ambassador on a visit home.

The marquess, a relative of Winston Churchill, has been dating both Sharman and Princess Margaret Rose. Until recently he was so attentive to Margaret he was mentioned as a possible husband.

Sharman also has been dating the Marquess of Milford Haven, another beau of Princess Margaret.

U. S. to Add 2 New Steps for Defense

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Two steps to bolster the Nation's military power and readiness were announced yesterday at the Pentagon.

Additional hitting strength and mobility will be added to National Guard divisions and separate regimental combat teams under a reorganization program just started, while the Navy revealed it soon will have operating a new type of vessel to give warning of sneak air attacks.

The radar picket submarine USS Tigrone will be commissioned November 1, it was said, first of a force of Navy craft planned as part of an "early warning" protective air raid network for the North American continent.

Additional Battalions

Each of the National Guard's 25 Infantry Divisions will be given a heavy tank battalion and a self-propelled antiaircraft artillery (automatic weapons) battalion, under the reorganization. The two Guard armored divisions also will be strengthened by a self-propelled 155 millimeter howitzer field artillery battalion, and a self-propelled ack-ack battalion of automatic weapons.

In addition, each Guard infantry regiment—both in divisions and separate combat teams—will add a heavy tank company and a heavy mortar. They'll replace an anti-tank company and a cannon company.

The change parellels a reorganization of Regular Army divisions announced two years ago.

New Picket Submarine

The Navy's first radar picket submarine is a veteran of the Pacific war which was pulled out of the reserve fleet and converted for its new role at the Portsmouth, N. H. naval shipyard.

Especially designed for operations in Arctic waters, the Tigrone is viewed as a prototype of other such craft, which would form a chain of floating warning stations in an emergency. One other such vessel is planned under the current Navy modernization program.

Long-range plans for defense of the American continent contemplate establishment of an outlying radar network. Part of it would be land-based, under control of the Air Force, and part would be at sea.

Some Essentials Exist

Some bare essentials of such a perimeter defense are in existence on the East and West coasts of the United States and in Alaska, but not operating. It has been reported that initial steps have been taken to complete the land-based chain, by establishment of stations in northern Canada, Greenland and Iceland.

A sizeable allotment of funds to give the project a good start is expected to be asked of the next Congress. Estimates of the cost range up to hundreds of millions of dollars. The Air Force says that about 25,000 men will be required to man the land-based network.

The Navy favors submarines for its part of the job, and as for protection of its fleets as a result of the battle for Okinawa. Jap kamikaze planes took heavy toll of the destroyer outposts which gave warning of attacks.

For Detecting the Enemy

After detecting the approach of unfriendly aircraft and radioing back a report, the subs could submerge and be relatively safe from attack.

It is understood that the 511-foot Tigrone has been equipped with a "schnorkel", a German-developed breathing tube which enables a submarine to take in air for its crew and Diesels and thus stay submerged indefinitely.

It is reported that deck guns have been removed from the 1500-ton Tigrone to allow room for extensive radar equipment.

Under the National Guard reorganization, infantry divisions will have a peacetime strength of 14,000 officers and men and a war strength of 19,000. The old strength was 13,000 in peace and 16,000 in war. Armored divisions will have a peace strength of 12,000—an increase of 3000—and a war strength of 16,000—a boost of 5000.

The changeover is expected to be completed shortly after the first of the year.

Strikers Warned

French Rail Wage Boost Is Refused

Paris, Oct. 11 (AP).—The French government refused tonight Communist demands for wage increases in the nationalized railroads, and threatened to fire strikers who keep others off the job.

The position of the government was made known by Transport Minister Christian Pineau as pro-Communist unions pressed toward a general transport stoppage in the face of another high government official's charge that the Cominform had ordered the present strike wave.

Wage Increase Refused

Pineau told leaders of the Communist-controlled National Federation of Labor in conferences today he could not approve raises which would mean another 30 per cent increase in rail fares. He announced concessions on other points.

Pineau said he would punish offenses by railwaymen against the "right to work." He defined these as halting machines or trains, or occupation of security or signal posts.

Charges by Interior Minister Jules Moch that the Cominform had ordered the present wave of strikes were made public. Moch told a closed meeting of the national council of the Socialist Party that French Communists had told the Cominform last July it would be ready for strike action by mid-September, and had named the areas where strikes later broke out.

Unions in the steel mills of the Metz area ordered a 48-hour work stoppage. Neighboring districts are already strikebound.

Communist-led dock workers were ordered out for 24 hours on Wednesday.

Dominions' Leaders Hear British Plans

London, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—Sir Stafford Cripps disclosed Britain's economic plans for the next four years to British Commonwealth leaders today in asking them to support the mother country's role in the Marshall Plan and the Western European defense alliance.

While military matters were not expected to be discussed at the closed-door conference, today's opening session was attended by Defense Minister A. V. Alexander, War Minister Emanuel Shinwell and Marshal of the Air Force Lord Tedder.

A communique said the chancellor of the exchequer gave "a comprehensive survey of general economic problems and prospects of the Commonwealth, and gave details of the economic plans of the United Kingdom for the next four years."

It was said the delegates will discuss a "Commonwealth customs union" before the conference ends this weekend.

The prime ministers and top representatives of the dominions were greeted by Prime Minister Clement Attlee, who emphasized his welcome to India's Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Pakistan's Liaquat Ali Khan and Ceylon's D. S. Senanayake.

Cripps' speech was devoted almost entirely to the effects of the Marshall Plan and the Western European pact on trade with the Commonwealth.

Other problems to be advanced include:

1. Britain's belief no coordinated defense plan exists for the Commonwealth, beyond some links with Australia and New Zealand which fit into the United States pattern of Pacific defense.

2. Dalton's advocacy of an African counterpart to the Western European union.

3. Nehru's proposal for "a federation for southeast Asia" to be included as a bloc in the world's economic and strategic alignment.

Chinese Cities Periled as Reds Start Fall Drive

Nanging, Oct. 11 (AP).—Heavy Communist forces struck savagely today at two central China provincial capitals, Sian and Taiyuan, in what the Reds described as the opening of their fall campaign.

Both capitals were threatened. More than one million regular Red troops were engaged in fighting ranging from the Shensi Province capital of Sian to the Manchurian corridor, near the coast.

Out of this widespread fighting, the national government claimed one victory. A military spokesman said national troops aided by strong naval units threw the Reds out of the Manchurian seaport of Yingkow, lost last year when the garrison rebelled. This same drive, the spokesman said, reestablished direct land communications between Yingkow and Mukden.

A special emissary from President Chaing Kai-shek returned from Taiyuan, capital of Shansi Province, with grave tidings. The emissary, Gen. Hsu Yung-chang, said the situation there was "extremely critical." He predicted the isolated capital would fall soon unless strong reinforcements were airlifted to Taiyuan.

Shansi's capital with its extensive industrial plants including steel mills and arsenals would be a rich prize for the Communists.

Mediation Plans Stalled

tee which would blame Russia for laek of agreement on slashing armaments. Last week Vishinsky accused the Western powers of blocking disarmament plans for the last 20 years.

Hector David Castro of El Salvador submitted a resolution proposing that the arms question be given to the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission when that body finished work on setting up international atomic controls. Delegates generally agreed that the atomic comsion is far from a solution of its own problem and the move would in effect pigeonhole arms limitation for some time.

On Palestine, the British were reported desirous of having a meeting of the Security Council on Holy Land problems. It was said they especially wanted to know what has been done about apprehending the assassins of Count Folke Bernadotte, the U. N. mediator.

Graziani Cites Conquests in Treason Trial

By Gaston Coblentz

Rome, Oct. 11 (NYHT).—Former Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, one of the leading figures of Italian fascism, went on trial here today before a special court of assizes of the Italian Republic.

The white-haired, 66-year-old former viceroy of Ethiopia appeared in the dock in the Palace of Justice in a double-breasted blue serge suit.

He made an impassionate defense of his career as an Italian soldier, saying his conquests in Africa made it possible for Italy to demand her colonies back today.

Charged with high treason for his activities as Minister of Defense in Benito Mussolini's republican Fascist government in north Italy from September 1943 to the end of the war, he is accused of having collaborated with the Germans and with having brutally suppressed antinazi Italian patriots.

The former marshal told the court he was a soldier who would serve his country under any regime that governed it.

"A soldier marches wherever he is ordered," he said. "I would even serve under a Communist government, always for noble goals."

Graziani said that during the heyday of fascism from 1931 to 1938 he fought and worked "in the desert and in the jungle" of Africa in the interest of Italy.

"Now we are asking the colonies back," he said, "if we had not completely occupied them how could we ask for their restitution."

More than 300 police and carabinieri were on duty at the Palace of Justice. About 100 public spectators were allowed in the court room. At the end of the session a few spectators cried: "Long live Grazini" and gave the Fascist salute and the rest applauded.

$88 Million Given China For Arms Since March

By The Associated Press

The White House last night disclosed that $88,275,170 has been handed over as military aid to the Chinese Central Government in its fight against Communist forces in the last six months.

President Truman made public an interim report of the State Department showing that 70 per ceent of the 125 million dollars military funds authorized by the China Aid Act in April has been used for the purchase of explosives, trucks, oil, arms and ammunition.

Simultaneously the White House released a six-month report on the 275-million-dollar fund appropriated for recovery aid to China. It showed shipments made, or now in process, amounting to $97,908,000.

Deliveries to China thus far, Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman reported, represent 91 per cent of the target figure set for the first half-year of the recovery effort.

Airlift Flies Children Out Of Berlin

By Marguerite Higgins

Berlin, Oct. 11 (NYHT).—The Western airlift is flying 80 German children daily out of Western sectors of blockaded Berlin as part of a voluntary evacuation program for the winter designed primarily for youngsters of delicate health, the Berlin social welfare department disclosed today.

Mrs. Margarete Ehlert, head of the department, said approximately 1000 children have left the city in the hitherto secret program which has been going on for about two weeks.

Welfare workers are hopeful that the temporary evacuation scheme can be extended to the aged and sick.

The children, ranging from 9 to 18 years of age, are flown by British planes to the west German town of Luebeck, where they are received by the Red Cross. Only those children with relatives or friends in the western zones are accepted for the trip. On reaching Luebeck, the children are dispatched to the homes of their friends and relatives.

Police Chiefs Get Warning On Saboteurs

New York, Oct. 11 (AP).—The head of the International Association of Chiefs of Police said today an "ever-expanding" organization of saboteurs is operating in this country.

Charles W. Dullea, addressing the association's fifty-fifth annual conference, said these are "anxious times" because of the critical international situation, and the "alarming spread of communism in our own country."

Dullea, former San Francisco police chief, said the purported ring of saboteurs, in the event of war, is prepared to "put into effect the nefarious work in which they are alleged to be most proficient."

"Consequently," he added, "it behooves all law enforcement agencies in the land to set about, without delay, to make adequate plans for combating their efforts before they become effective."

Body of Colin Kelly To Be Reinterred

Madison, Fla., Oct. 11 (AP).—The body of Capt. Colin Kelly, first proclaimed hero of the war with Japan, will arrive here Tuesday for burial with full military honors.

The Air Force hero received posthumously the Distinguished Service Cross and the Distinguished Flying Cross for his bombing of the Japanese battleship Haruna off Manila three days after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Kelly crashed to his death on the return from the bombing mission after his crew had parachuted to safety.

Montgomery Gets Aide

London, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—The war office today named Maj. Gen. R. F. K. Belchem as chief of staff to Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chairman of the Western European Union's committee of commanders in chief.

Berlin by Car

GI Blarneys Way Through Iron Curtain

Berlin, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—A resourceful GI told today how he persuaded 25 Russian soldiers to let him drive his new car from western Germany to Berlin through the Soviet blockade.

Sergt. Ralph Felling of McCook, Nebr., said he used a cambination of "soft soap," luck and "special credentials" — automobile insurance papers and an ordinary Class A Army pass—to crack the iron curtain.

The 26-year-old combat veteran got through a Soviet checkpoint on the British-Russian zonal border Friday. He said he "softened up" Russian border guards by visiting them Thursday night to exchange "small talk" and show them photos of his wife.

He chatted in English and broken German with the Russian noncom in charge of the post for about 20 minutes, while other Soviet soldiers examined the radio, heater, cigarette lighter and dashboard instruments of his new car.

After their chat, the Russians examined Felling's insurance policy and the four-language pass permitting him to leave his post at Berlin's Templehof air base when not on duty.

The guards said that he could not get to Berlin that night because the ferry over the Elbe River had stopped running. When he arrived at the check point the next morning, he was waved through "by my old friends of the night before."

He drove on through Soviet-held territory without incident until he reached another checkpoint on the outskirts of Berlin. There two armed Russians seemed dubious about his "credentials."

"The barrier was up, and I knew if they ever put it down it would stay down," he said. "So I just waved to them, told them I would see them in Berlin, and drove on. They didn't shoot."

Beverley Favors Salary Hike For New Health Chief

Alexandria City Councilman Marshall J. Beverley said yesterday he will propose an increase in the salary of the city health officer to "assure the city of obtaining a qualified and competent man" for the vacant post.

Beverley said he would propose the pay boost at a meeting of the council tonight, when the resignation of Health Officer W. Lewis Schafer will be discussed.

Beverley did not say how much he would propose the salary be increased, but he said he felt the $6000 salary allotted to the health officer in the current budget is inadequate.

He said he would suggest that the council pay whatever amount is necessary to assure appointment of a man "competent and qualified to answer the health needs of a city of 85,000 people."

Beverley, one of four new councilmen who took office September 1, on several occasions has criticized the city's health program which last week drew fire from 15 State Health Department experts who made an exhaustive survey of local health facilties and administration.

K. of C. Forum Assails Reds

Communism is "organized conspiracy" and American Communists in high public office are "committed to treason," the Rev. John F. Cronin, S.S., declared last night.

He also emphasized before an applauding audience of more than 1200 persons at Gonzaga Auditorium, 27 I st. nw., that a Communist is "trained to be a traitor."

The occasion was the first of eight monthly public forums aimed at "Lifting the Mask of Communism," sponsored by the Washington General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus.

Father Cronin, assistant director of the department of social action, National Catholic Welfare Conference, said that Communists should not be tolerated where they can harm American freedom.

"They should be kept from any positon in Government, labor and any field that can influence public opinion so that we will not give over leadership of our country to traitors," he declared.

Despite a widespread belief that the "appeal to Communism" is based on economic reasons, Father Cronin asserted that the most recent figures show that 49 per cent of membership in the Communist Party is "non-industrial."

Many Americans, he said, were of "confused mind" when it comes to dealing with the Communist issue. He cited editorials of The Washington Post and cartoons by Herblock as being "as vicious in attacking anti-communistic programs as in attacking Communism."

A warning that an American war effort "tomorrow" would be Communist-sabotaged at its outset was sounded by Edward P. Morgan, Washington attorney, and a former administrative assistant to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The next meeting will be held at Gonzaga Auditorium at 8:30 p. m. November 1.

A crowd of some 20,000 persons is expected if fair weather permits the ceremony to be held outdoors on the campus. Attendance will be limited to 4500 if rain drives the ceremony indoors to the nearby Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Bradley, who succeeded General Eisenhower as Chief of Staq; Admiral William F. Halsey, Naval hero of the Pacific war; Lieut. Gen. James H. Bromley Oxnam, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and Dr. Stephen S. Wise, founder of the American Zionist organization.

A leaflet barrage urging residents of Census Tract No. 48 in Northwest Washington to clean-up, paint-up and repair their homes and yards will get under way October 20 as part of an intensive campaign to better living conditions in one of Washington's most congested slum areas.

The barrage designed to reach the areas' 31 city blocks containing more than 13,000 persons, will be followed by housing, recreation and clean-block committees of the Social Welfare Council of Tract 48, sponsors of the movement.

At a meeting of the Welfare Council last night with the Washington Urban League at 547 Florida ave. nw., the two organizations also agreed to contact churches, schools and stores in the area.

The tract is bounded by Florida, New York and New Jersey aves, and 7th st. nw.

Galvez Election Stirs Honduran Revolt

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Oct. 11 (AP).—One man was killed and a policeman wounded today in a rebel attempt to capture Toncontin Airport. Other incidents were reported throughout Honduras.

The violence came as an aftermath of yesterday's presidential election in which Juan Manuel Galvez, 61, got 225,000 votes. He was the only candidate but 45,000 eligible voters abstained, apparently in protest.

Galvez, a former minister of war running with government support, was opposed early in the campaign by Liberal Party Leader Angel Zuniga Huete. Zuniga withdrew two weeks before the election, went into hiding and said his followers would abstain as a sign of protest.

The retiring President is Tiburcio Carias Andino.

Police said the group seeking to take over the airport were members of the Liberal Party. Most of the other incidents were reported along the north coast where the Liberals are strongest.

Tokyo, Oct. 11 (AP).—The third special session of the Japanese Diet recessed today a few minutes after convening, awaiting nomination of a prime minister.

The house of representatives approved a motion to limit the session to 30 days.

Kiah Resumes Post Friday At Cheltenham

Baltimore, Oct. 11 (AP).—Calvin L. Kiah will take over again on Friday as superintendent of the the State's Cheltenham School for Negro Boys, a position from which he was dismissed last February.

Edward Wilson, secretary, said today the institution's new board of managers took the action at a meeting last Wednesday. The school is at Cheltenham, near Upper Marlboro in Prince Georges County.

They appointed Kiah temporary superintendent, pending his examination and qualification by the State employment commissioner.

There has been a controversy since Kiah's dismissal over whether he is eligible for reappointment.

Kiah, formerly principal of a Negro high school at Cambridge, Md., first was appointed superintendent of Cheltenham in September of 1947. He stood at the top of the eligibility list on the basis of this score on a competitive examination and the mandatory preference accorded veterans.

The board of managers dismissed him just before the end of his six-month probation period. It said he "failed to demonstrate the prerequisite administrative ability, judgment, temperament and leadership."

Value of Corn 6⅓ Billions crop is early and of fine quality.

"For other crops, changes from September 1 forecasts are relatively slight The most significant is potatoes, resulting from a record yield of 198 bushels to the acre; another boost in flaxseed of 6 per cent; the recovery of the Southern rice crop; more hay, put up under ideal conditions; and more tobacco.

"Other changes include more barley, buckwheat, sugar beets, sweet potatoes, pecans and cranberries, but less spring wheat, oats, dry beans, hops, apples, peaches, pears and grapes."

Other Crop Prospects

Record crops are in sight for corn, soybeans, peanuts, pecans and cranberres. Near record crops of wheat, oats, flaxseed, rice, sorghum grain, dry beans and citrus fruits are in prospect.

Cotton, barley, all hay, potatoes, tobacco, sugarcane, sugar beets, hops, peaches, grapes, cherries and apricots all are above average.

The only crops below average in production in this bountiful year are rye, buckwheat, dry peas, sweet potatoes, broomcorn, apples and pears.

Production of feed grains — which means meat, milk, dairy products and poultry—is "now expected to total 135 million tons, exceeding by nearly 11 million tons the all-time record set in 1946.

The five grain crops are valued at 53 million dollars in Maryland; 105 million in Virginia and 33 million in West Virginia.

Time Is Ripe For Absentee Voters to Act

Some of Washington's "voteless" residents—those who have maintained residence in States in which they formerly lived—are going to help elect the next President of the United States.

To these local lights the time is "definitely now" to clean up any details which remain on absentee voting and registration.

In 24 of the Nation's 48 States it still is not too late to register for the vote. Some States have permanent registrations, which do not require renewal.

Many States have changed their election procedures since 1944. In some cases the only rule they have in common is that a voter must be 21. In Georgia, legal voting age is 18, however.

On hand to help progressive voters this year are three principal services for absentee vote casters in Washington.

These are the Absentee Voting Service of Voteless D. C. League of Women Voters, which operates from 11:30 a. m. to 8 p. m. Monday through Friday in the lobby of the Evening Star building, 11th and Pennsylvania ave. nw., the Republican Absentee Voters Bureau, 1430 K st. nw., and the Democratic National Committee Absentee Voters Bureau in the Ring building, Connecticut ave. and M st. nw.

Those who have been aiding absentee voters believe there are approximately 200,000 such person in Washington, according to Mrs. Clarence E. Fisher chairman of the Voteless D. C. League service.

Both the leading national political organizations offer free notary service to residents who seek aid with their absentee ballots, and it has been rumored about that at least one national political party is handing out free coffee and doughnuts with its absentee ballot advice.

The charts which accompany this story give basic information for Washingtonians who must vote by absentee ballot this year. Election laws are so dissimilar that it is impossible to reproduce the entire list of qualifying data by States. For further information, absentee voters are urged to contact one of the voting services available to them here.

Thurmond Hits Racial Appeals

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 11 (AP).—J. Strom Thurmond, States' Rights presidential nominee, said tonight that the American people would not tolerate an invasion of the Constitution by politicians who seek to satisfy minority factions.

Thurmond, Governor of South Carolina, addressed a States' Rights group here.

Thurmond said in a prepared address that President Truman, Governor Dewey and Henry Wallace had offered to violate the Constitution in a "cheap bid for the bloc votes of a racial minority."

"Thus," he said, "we see the office of President being placed on the auction block while the political leaders of the major parties bid against each other for the favors of a minority machine which cares nothing for the preservation of the democratic way of life."

Thurmond said that it is time for the American people to learn of this political pressure system. He added that "thinking people everywhere have become aroused and are meeting the challenge."

"They are meeting it through the ever-growing voice of the States' Rights Democrats," the South Carolina Governor said.

"We are firm in the belief that if the sovereignty of the States is destroyed, the liberty of the individual will perish," Thurmond continued. "All our history bears out that belief. All our traditions and customs are predicated upon it."

Governor Thurmond emphasized that the States' Rights fight was not sectional or based on race prejudice.

"We have repeatedly shown the untruth of this assertion," he said. "We have repeatedly declared that our determination to oppose the so-called civil rights program has come from a loyalty to the principle of the constitutional rights of States."

"When you invade and violate the Constitution, you attack the personal liberties of the citizens of California and Maine, as well as the liberties of the people of South Carolina and Virginia," he asserted. "You cannot create new rights for one group by taking them away from another."

Almond Asks Va. Party Unity

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 11 (AP).—A renewed appeal for party unity behind the national Democratic slate was sounded strongly here today by Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, jr., as pro-Truman forces slowly swung into action in the Old Dominion.

In an address before the Woman's Democratic Club of Norfolk, Almond declared "the only sane and constructive course to follow is to remain in the house of our fathers—even though the roof leaks and there may be bats in the belfry, rats in the pantry, a cockroach waltz in the kitchen and skunks in the parlor."

Almond left a Sixth District seat in the United States House of Representatives last April to take the post of Attorney General, to which the State General Assembly had elected him.

Almond told today's gathering that Democrats "must do our house-cleaning and fight our battles within" if the two-party system is to be preserved.

President Fears For the New Deal

cinnati Enquirer and few were on the streets to see his procession pass. The Netherlands Plaza Hotel's Hall of Mirrors, in which he spoke, was just comfortably filled.

But his cheering street crowds at Dayton reached a peak 50,000 and thousands continued to turn out at each "whistle stop" en route to Akron—Hamilton, Sidney, Lima, Ottawa, Deshler and Fostoria.

Mr. Truman warmed up as the crowds grew.

"Listen to my broadcast tonight at Akron," he told the Dayton voters. "I'm going to take the hide off 'em from head to toe. I hate to do that but they have it coming."

At Hamilton, he said:

"I think you know that my opponents in this campaign are not speaking plainly or honestly. They haven't got it in them. They're afraid to face these issues . . ."

And at Lima, he shouted: "I've worn out three locomotives and I'm going to wear out three more before I'm through."

Former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, fighting to unseat Republican Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, took a bow with Truman at most of the stops. Until he joind up with the Truman caravan, Lausche was making pretty much of a lone-wolf campaign. He thinks he will run well ahead of the national ticket here.

James M. Cox at Rally

But it was Truman rather than Lausche who got Ohio's cheers today. The President generously passed them around. He said Lausche was "one of the most progressive Governors Ohio ever had" and put in a plug for each Democratic House candidate.

The appearance of white-haired former Gov. James M. Cox, who ran with Franklin D. Roosevelt against Warren Harding in 1920, added a dramatic touch to the midday rally in Dayton's Memorial Hall.

Cox called Truman a "gallant crusader" who has "jarred Republicans loose from their complacency."

"They say, 'Let's forget about the issues, forget about logic, and talk about the need of a change.' We want to know what the change is going to be."

Truman replied that there "wouldn't have been those horrible scandals of the "twenties" if Cox and Roosevelt had been elected in 1920.

UMW chief John L. Lewis, who last week called Truman unfit for office, failed to cross the President's path in Cincinnati and only a handful of UMW delegates, in convention there, silently watched Mr. Truman's motorcade pass the rear of the hall where they are meeting.

Mr. Truman at Akron tonight embraced the New Deal as completely by name as he had done so in theory in a succession of messages to Congress. But there was one significant omission. He did not mention civil rights, storm center of his break with the South. In all other respects it was a bigger and better New Deal he proposed to Ohio voters.

The President said Mr. Dewey was so much opposed to the New Deal that he wrote a book called "The Case Against the New Deal."

But it was the Republican leaders in Congress—the "bosses" Truman charged will run any Republican Administration—that Truman said had been most explicit.

He said Taft was publicly committed to clean away the New Deal "rubble." He quoted Representative Charles A. Halleck (R., Ind.) as saying the New Deal "strangled" industry and farming.

Then he noted that corporate profits had risen from a 400-million-dollar loss in 1933 to a 17-billion-dollar profit in 1947 while farm income had soared from 2½ billion dollars to 18 billion in the same period.

Reviews Hartley Book

"That was some job of strangling," he said.

Mr. Truman charged the last GOP Congress began its assault on the New Deal by converting the Wagner Act, one of the New Deal's broadest reforms, "into an instrument for trust busting by antilabor employers."

Then he delivered a book review of Representative Fred Hartley's "Our New National Labor Policy, the Taft-Hartley Act, and the Next Steps," which has a foreword by Senator Taft.

He quoted Hartley as saying the Taft-Hartley law "corrects in a single piece of legislation the outstanding mistakes of the New Deal," Truman commented.

"Do you get that? The Republicans pass a law to break the bargaining power of the working man, and they call it correcting the mistakes of the New Deal."

After passing it he said the Republican leaders "decided they wouldn't hit labor another blow until after the next election."

Concluding, Mr. Truman said the working people will have to "act quickly if you want to have the benefits of the New Deal."

He pledged he would not only repeal the Taft-Hartley Act and preserve the New Deal, but work for these added benefits:

Lift the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour, expand social security to all uncovered groups, increase insurance benefits 50 per cent, expand national health facilities, provide Federal aid to education, clear slums and build low-cost housing, and do something "at once" about high prices.

He charged that because the Republican House listened to the real estate lobby instead of the people the long-range housing bill died, and he shouted at Dayton "they are selling shoddily built houses to veterans all over this country that aren't worth a third of what veterans have to pay for those houses."

President to Speak At Wagner Dinner

President Truman will be the chief speaker at a testimonial dinner for Senator Robert F. Wagner (D., N. Y.), in New York City October 28, the CIO announced yesterday.

Wagner is to be given the Philip Murray award of the national CIO community services committee.

Dewey Excoriates Administration

the Labor Department and make it equal in Cabinet status to Commerce and Agriculture.

Here Governor Dewey appeared to be promising some things which the Republican-dominated Eightieth Congress refused to deliver. President Truman has accused it of failing to act on a higher minimum wage, of removing thousands from the Social Security system, and of weakening the Labor Department.

Governor Dewey fired the first of his angry blasts today in Erie, Pa., where a rain-drenched crowd turned out to hear him.

"How about the Taft-Hartley Law?" some men in the crowd yelled.

"I'll tell you," Dewey shot back. "For a great many years, we had an Administration that liked to play politics with the rights of human beings. We had an Administration which played politics so deeply that finally they got this country all snarled up in 1946, so that 116 million work days were lost and human misery was widespread.

"They had no program for improving the labor relations of this country. They refused to get one, so that finally when this country was tied up with a railroad strike, this miserable Administration of ours proposed to the people that men be drafted into the Army because they were on strike.

Praises GOP Action

"Who stopped it? It was the Republicans that stopped it and stood against that totalitarian legislation put forward by an incompetent Administration which wouldn't meet the problems squarely when they had a chance."

Then, he said, the country got a Congress that had the courage to pass the Taft-Hartley Act and so reduce strikes by 50 per cent.

"Labor relations are better today than they have ever been before," Dewey said, and went on to describe President Truman's veto of the act as one of the most inaccurate documents to come out of the White House in 160 years.

The New Yorker, in his speech in Pittsburgh tonight, showed plainly that he had been angered by Mr. Truman's charge that a Republican victory in November would start the Nation on a headlong dash toward another depression.

United States "Rock of Hope"

"At this very moment," he said, "we live in a troubled world where the free nations are torn by Communist disruption and live in fear of Communist terror.

"The one rock of hope in the world is a strong and vigorous America. So the propaganda line from the Kremlin and its agents around the world is that communism will win anyway because America is going to have a bust.

"This has been the Communist line for years, but today at this crucial moment in history the Communists now have been given a big boost.

"To support their infamous falsehood that America is going to have a bust they are now able to quote the very people who are running our own Government."

Governor Dewey said that it was a pity that any American would make such a statement.

"Of course," he said, "they are only making it for campaign purposes. They won't say it after election. I can only conclude that the people who are saying America is going to have a bust do not understand what they are saying.

"I am sure they just don't realize that they are unwittingly giving aid and comfort to the Communist offensive against world peace. But however charitably we view their blunders it is desperately urgent that we get an Administration which will not make blunders.

"You and I know that after the election we are going ahead stronger, more productive and better off than we have been in the past. And let me reassure our friends abroad that as a people we are now in the process of uniting ourselves—of replacing a weak and fumbling Administration with a strong and competent one to lead us out of our troubles both at home and abroad."

At the outset of his speech, Governor Dewey said that is was a mistake to try to separate labor from the rest of America.

Wagner Act Twisted

He said the Wagner Act, passed in the Roosevelt Administration, was a fine beginning to settle labor's problem, but he added, those in charge of the Government soon came to use it more and more for political purpose.

"It was used," he said, "to set labor off from the rest of our people. It was used as an instrument for corralling votes rather than for solving problems. It was used, in fact, actually to create many of the bitter problems which have done such grevious injury both to the members of labor unions and to the country as a whole"

He recalled how Communists got into positions of power in some unions, and how, finally, labor suffered the loss of 116 million work days in 1946 because of strikes. It was in that year, he said, that Mr. Truman proposed to draft railroad workers.

Barkley Lauds Trade Program As Required to Support ERP

San Francisco, Oct. 11 (AP).—Junking reciprocal tariffs would contradict the European Recovery Program, Senator Alben W. Barkley said today in a major speech of his tour as Democratic candidate for Vice President.

His address, before the Commonwealth Club, credited the Democratic Party with the trade program, and counseled voters to examine the tariff attitude of "all candidates from President all the way down through both branches of Congress."

Barkley said that in the ERP "we have specifically stipulated that they (the 16 participating nations) shall themselves enter into reciprocal trade agreements" among themselves and with the United States in order to qualify for American aid.

He predicted the American people will not permit collapse of the trade agreements program at the end of the present one-year extension next June 30.

"Such a withdrawal, such a denial of our own sympathetic cooperation in the present position of world affairs, and our leadership in those affairs, to say nothing of the political field in which we are not wholly unconcerned, would be unthinkable," he declared.

Barkley pointed to gains he said reciprocal tariffs had made possible for American foreign trade after the program's 1934 inception.

World recovery, he said, "cannot be accomplished by a return to the days of high tariffs, log rolling and back scratching such as took place in the enactment of the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act, whose inequities and rigidities would still be in effect had it not been for the trade agreements program."

Before the reciprocal agreements were authorized, he added, tariff schedules "were arrived at by trades and agreements brazenly entered into almost on the floor of the Senate itself.

Wallace Caravan To Test Norfolk Noise Ordinance

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 11 (AP).—The new city ordinance regulating sound trucks will be tested Friday by the Wallace caravan, a mobile unit equipped with loudspeakers.

"The ordinance is plainly unconstitutional," said Sanford Berlin, Progressive Party chairman in Norfolk, whose arrest recently for alleged violation of the old ordinance resulted in its section on sound trucks being invalidated in Police Court.

Berlin expects there will be arrests after the caravan arrives and expressed confidence the new section, like the old one, will be thrown out by the courts.

One of the new provisions states that the noise from a sound truck shall not be heard from more than 50 feet from the truck. Another prohibits the use of sound trucks in the downtown area.

Why Millions Like CHEWING-GUM LAXATIVE
• At last a laxative so pleasant, so different, that it has won millions who now refuse to take harsh, stomach-punishing laxatives!
FEEN-A-MINT tastes like delicious, mint-flavored chewing gum. And you chew it like gum! And scientists say chewing makes FEEN-A-MINT's fine medicine more effective — "readies" it so it flows gently and gradually into the system.
And here's the amazing thing! The action of FEEN-A-MINT's special medicine DETOURS the stomach. It doesn't act while in the stomach, but only when farther along in the lower digestive tract . . . where it should! Thus, FEEN-A-MINT won't upset the stomach!

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling
Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.
Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.
To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.
Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.
Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Democrats Exploit West, Warren Says

Casper, Wyo., Oct. 11 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren tonight charged the Administration with exploitation and manipulation of the West solely for the purpose of "political perpetuation" of the Democratic Party.

Coming into the Rocky Mountain region on his GOP vice presidential campaign, the California Governor struck back at President Truman's assertion some weeks ago that the Republican Party wanted to "sabotage" the West.

In an address at a Republican rally in Casper's High School auditorium, he declared, the Republican Party is pledged to:

1. Speed up development of the West's natural resources.

2. Develop "every possible kilowatt of hydroelectric energy."

3. Initiate multiple-purpose reclamation, power and flood control projects to utilize every drop of water—the West's "life blood."

4. Have Western representation in the Cabinet.

5. Establish regional administration and planning "by engineers rather than propagandists."

He emphasized Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's previous declarations for appointing a Westerner to the Cabinet as Secretary of Interior.

"And, be it remembered that in the first 14 years of the present Democratic Administration—with one exception and that for only a short time—there was not a single Cabinet member from any of these 11 Far Western States," he said. En route here from Sioux City, Iowa, Warren made platform talks at Kimball, Nebr., and Cheyenne, Chugwater, Wheatland and Douglas, Wyo.

He rapped the Administration before trainside crowds as "breaking open at the seams" and divided by factional differences.

Ickes Backs President as 'Lesser Evil'

Former Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, who broke with President Truman in an angry dispute two years ago, today came out for Mr. Truman's election November 2. But he said he wished he could vote for someone else.

Ickes said he neither amends nor withdraws the ugly things he has said about Mr. Truman in the past. In effect, he said, he supports Mr. Truman as the lesser of evils.

"As between Thomas Elusive Dewey, the candidate in sneakers, I prefer to support Mr. Truman, who is straightforward and sincere, if at times more unpredictable than I would wish," Ickes said in a statement.

Of the man from whose Cabinett he resigned in a huff in 1946, Ickes added:

"He is at least comfortably earthy and without cant."

Dewey, he said, has declined to commit himself on important issues like conservation, irrigation, and tidelands.

"On those issues, I know where President Truman stands," he added. "He has acted straight and has talked straight."

Disc Jockey to Plug Democrats on Network

New York, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—The women's division of the Democratic national committee came up yesterday with a three-times-a-week nationwide disc jockey show to woo the women's vote with music, nursery rhymes, receipes and wisecracks.

Senator J. Howard McGrath, (D., R. I.), chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said the Democrats felt the election depended on the women.

Mrs. India Edwards, executive director of the women's division, said:

"The program is mostly music politics are going to be integrated as painlessly as possible. We'll have a lot of gimmicks—like giveaway prizes in which we explain that your vote is the most valuable prize. But we'll also have such recipes as "Dewey double talk dumplings."

She played a 15-minute recording of the "Democratic record show" for reporters. The program is to be broadcast at 3:45 p. m. (EST) on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays over a nationwide hookup (ABC).

Dewey Train Steam Blast Injures Flower Girl

Sharon, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP).—A blast of steam from the rear end of the Dewey campaign special train today drenched a young girl who was presenting a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey.

Held aloft by friends, Miss Ann Janet Jones, daughter of Mayor Myron Jones, handed the flowers to Mrs. Dewey and promptly fainted. Friends said the girl was not seriously injured.

C & O Shows Swanky New Cars Today

By John London
Post Reporter

Robert R. Young's cushy cure for "railroad cancer" glided into Union Station yesterday for public exhibition today, preparatory to service on the Chesapeake & Ohio next month.

The stainless-steel cure: railroad luxury liners. The cancer: unprofitable railroad passenger service.

Here for exhibit from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. are six of C. & O.'s 46 new, de luxe passenger cars.

They feature such conveniences as individual seat radios; diaper, formula and movie rooms for the moppet set; and plush primping rooms for milady (not to mention junior and senior-sized toilet seats).

"Interim" Medicine

Such swank service cars constitute the "interim" medicine for the industry's malady, last year's 426-million-dollar deficit for passenger service, in the opinion of Young, stormy petrel chairman of C. & O.

Young believes the industry is "too fatalistic and doleful" in accepting passenger defections to buses, plans and private cars. He does not believe railroad freight profits can indefinitely absorb passengers service losses.

He and company spokesmen point out that C. & O. streamlined equipment on the Grand Rapids-to-Detroit line in 1946, and business has doubled in two years. By 1950, the cost should be written off.

"There's a public craving for sleek new coaches," spokesmen for C. & O. declare, noting that railroad coaches today average 25 years in age.

C. & O. officials admit their 46 new cars will not operate profitably today—they cost six million dollars—twice what was anticipated when they were ordered four years ago.

What C. & O. hopes is that the new cars (1) curtail loss of passengers to other methods of transportation, and (2) encourage other railroads to agree on standardized new equipment. Cost of the 46 cars was high because it constituted too "piddling" an order to make possible mass production savings.

Glamorous as their new cars are, company officials believe they are already outdated. In fact, C. & O. has sold to other lines some 70 more cars of this type now on order.

Train X Coming

C. & O. officials explain that they are banking on "the revolutionary possibilities" of what they call Train X—a radical new model they hope to have on the road by 1951, cheaper by 25 per cent than current passenger trains.

Until Train X materializes, on a mass production basis, C. & O. which last year made a net profit of some 34 million dollars carrying freight, mainly coal, expects to cut its losses—about 20 million dollars last year—on passenger service, spreading the 46 new cars throughout its system.

Dutch Airline Hostess-Bride Interned Here

New York, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—A Dutch Airline hostess, who fell in love with an American aboard an airplane and married him by proxy while oceans apart, was interned by immigration authorities today when she arrived by steamship to join her new husband.

Brown-haired Wilhelmina Johanna Masters, 24, was crestfallen when the immigration agents refused to recognize her proxy marriage to Everett D. Masters, 41, now waiting for her in Glendale, Calif.

They met two years ago, she explained, while Masters was delivering airplanes to Holland. Their romance continued during his numerous ocean hops and last March he proposed.

Wishing to enter this country as an American citizen and not on a temporary visa, the girl, with a cousin acting as a stand-in bridegroom, was married at a proxy wedding in The Hague last July. Masters wanted to meet her boat but she wrote him to wait for her in California to save money.

Authorities were sympathetic but unyielding.

Sen. Taft Appeals To Democrats in Nashville Speech

Nashville, Oct. 11 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) opened a Southern campaign tour tonight with an appeal to Tennessee Democrats to join in support of Republican nominees for President and Senators.

In an address before a rally here and over a Nation-wide radio hookup Taft sharply criticized President Truman for the conduct of America's foreign policy.

"He has just weakened our case against Russia" he said, by proposing to send Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow, just after we had submitted the dispute to the United Nations, thereby discrediting both Secretary Marshall and the United Nations itself."

Blackmailer Sent to Jail By D. C. Court

Merle Revell, 42, of New York City, was sentenced to 20-months to five years in the penitentiary yesterday for attempting to get $25,000 from a local businessman by blackmail.

Revell was convicted by a jury in District Court of threatening to publicly and wrongfully accuse of immoral conduct Miller L. Wimer, 16 Channing st. ne., a beauty shop official.

In another case, Robert E. Walton, jr., 22, 430 11th st. se., and Walter M. Kendall, 19, of 706 8th st. se., got prison terms for robbing George R. Saint-Pol, of 3511 Rodman st. nw., an attache of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organizations.

According to evidence, a young girl pretended that she was having trouble with her automobile. When Saint-Pol drove her to her destination the defendants waylayed him in Rock Creek Park, and robbed him of $120.

Walton was given a four-to-12 years term. Kendall was given one to three years.

James Y. Cathcart, 38, of 522 Butternut st. nw., was sentenced to serve one to three years in prison for taking indecent liberties with a nine-year-old girl.

3 To Hear Stadium Police Pay Case

A three-judge tribunal was ordered yesterday by District Court to decide the constitutionality of a District law requiring the Griffith Stadium management to pay for police protection of the ball park.

The club has petitioned for an injunction to stop the District government from collecting the money, which is estimated at approxmatedly $21,000 a year.

Judge Edward A. Tamm, in ordering the tribunal, said he would recommend November 15 for the hearing.

Cornerstone

Officials of the Pan American Union have chosen Columbus Day for the laying of the cornerstone of their new administration building. The symbolism, however obvious, is appropriate. Columbus discovered a new world. The Pan American Union, as the secretariat of the Organization of American States, can be the vitalizing force of a new concept of international cooperation in the first regional security organization formed in accordance with the United Nations Charter.

We confess a lingering regret that the new building itself could not have been located elsewhere in Washington. It is too bad that the building line along Constitution avenue is to be marred by a structure which protudes farther toward the street, and that another of the city's grassy triangles is to be built up. But the phenomenal growth in scope of the Pan American Union made additional quarters imperative. The thing to hope for now is that the significance of the new building will outweigh the unfortunate facts as to its location.

If that significance is to be fully achieved, there is need to look beyond the diplomatic niceties that will attend today's ceremonies. Collective security is meaningful only so long as it is founded on the economic and political ability of the participants to fulfill their obligations. And much of Latin America today is in a ferment. One cause is the political awakening that is proceeding among the working classes. Another is lagging economic activity born of the contraction of postwar credit and the spread of inflation. Together these conditions amount to a crisis, a crisis in which the United States is doing little to protect its own interest.

As the Bogota revolt showed graphically, these conditions are undermining the ability of even the more democratic Latin governments to maintain stability. The situation cannot be met by merely shrugging off the instability as something that has always afflicted Latin governments. Communism is taking hold in parts of Latin America, not because it appeals to the people ideologically, but because it fills a vacuum and superficially offers them a way to improve their lot.

There is need for positive counter-measures. Much can be done by the Latin governments themselves, such as concerted efforts to halt despoliation of their resources. But some ingredients they cannot supply. Dr. Alberto Lleras, the Secretary General of the Organization of American States, has pointed out that what the Latin nations want is not a hemisphere Marshall Plan, but a resumption of credit, both governmental and private, to enable them to start the wheels of necessary economic endeavor moving again through what he calls a "government capitalism." There are limits to the help this country can give, but certainly the answer is not indifference. In a very real sense the democratic tenet of the dignity of the individual has roots in the economic welfare of the people. Today's ceremonies ought to be the occasion for some fundamental reflections on how to implement the Pan American ideal by making individual liberty more meaningful throughout the hemisphere.

District Pay

When Congress increased the pay of Federal workers by $330 a year beginning last July 1 to meet increased costs of living it left employes of the District of Columbia uncared for in the last-minute rush to adjourn. We pointed at the time to the obvious fact that living costs had gone up as much for District as for Federal workers and characterized the congressional failure to act as a piece of rank discrimination. It was also a demonstration of governmental incapacity. The stage was set for District employes and potential employes to do what comes naturally—take other jobs.

An undetermined number of qualified District workers, probably not very large at this point, appear to have "moved across the street" to better-paying Federal work. A more impressive development, both in numerical size and for the future efficiency and quality of municipal government, shows up in the difficulty of recruiting competent new personnel. People who are seeking jobs take one look at the differential against District employ and go elsewhere. In coming months the District government is certain to suffer even more than it already has in this unequal competition for qualified personnel.

In a narrow sense this issue can be put on the plane of doing justice to workers whose needs have been shockingly disregarded. In a broader sense it is bound up with the whole problem of making ends meet in District finances. Budget requests, despite the Commissioners' order to keep them down, are nearly 14 million dollars over estimated income for the year 1949-50. Giving a cost-of-living increase to District employes would add another 5.5 million dollars to this deficit. In either case the fault and its correction both lie on Capitol Hill.

By tying the District salary increase presumptively to passage of a sales tax and then omitting to levy any such tax, Congress invited deterioration in the municipal government. Fortunately, most District workers are hanging on in the hope that they will get wage justice without any further delay. But it will be important that Congress take up the problem at the outset of the coming session. A 2 per cent sales tax in the District would, it is estimated, bring in about 7.5 million dollars in a full year of operation. The longer Congress puts off action, the less money will be available during the first year. And unless Congress is willing to allow the District to apply a tax on all incomes earned here, it has no alternative to a sales tax.

Since Congress is the city council for Washington, the responsibility of finding revenue for District services falls squarely upon it. It may suffer no electoral retribution for failure to act, but it will assuredly have to stand up for governmental efficiency in this Capital City of all the Nation. And refusing to pay wages and salaries necessary to attract and hold competent personnel is not efficient municipal government any more than it is efficient Federal government.

Recovered Fumble

The finesse with which Governor Dewey has recovered President Truman's fumble of last week adds as much to his reputation as the blundering proposal to send Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow detracts from Mr. Truman's. The President's misguided scheme was far more shocking than even his hasty approval of Henry Wallace's speech which undercut Secretary of State Byrnes back in 1946 when Mr. Wallace was Secretary of Commerce. The ordinary political reaction to such a tragic exhibition of lack of judgment in the midst of a political campaign would be to exploit it to the limit. Instead of plunging into the furor the incident has caused and trying to magnify the President's ineptitude, however, Mr. Dewey has issued a calm statement intended only to reassure "our friends of the free world" that the American people are standing unitedly behind the bipartisan policy initiated by Secretary Marshall at Paris. This is the essence of statesmanship.

In most of our quadrennial contests it is the occupant of the White House who keenly feels the weight of his obligation to do nothing that would jeopardize the national welfare even in the interests of his own candidacy. For the President's obligation to his country is always greater than his obligation to himself. When President Truman succumbed to the impossible scheme of sending Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow, while Secretary Marshall was insisting that there could be no further negotiations with the Russians until the blockade of Berlin has been lifted—when he arranged for radio time for the announcement of this scheme before even consulting Secretary Marshall—his duty as President must have been obscured by his ambition as candidate. We can see no escape from the conclusion that he was ready to jeopardize the policy worked out in collaboration with Britain and France for the sake of giving a fillip to his lagging campaign.

Mr. Dewey, on the contrary, has acted as if he already feels the responsibility of the Presidency upon his shoulders. It may reasonably be said that what he has done is good politics. But this is only to say that a high sense of public responsibility enhances the reputation of any man who aspires to be President. What the present critical situation demands of this country, in addition to economic and industrial strength, is steadiness of purpose and continuity of policy. That Mr. Dewey appreciates this requirement of the world situation and acts accordingly, even after the White House has failed to do so, is a fact of the utmost significance.

Policy Toward Franco

Fear that the United States delegation at Paris might seek to have the General Assembly rescind its resolution of 1946 calling for withdrawal of ambassadors from Spain appears to have passed. Secretary Marshall, consistent with American opposition to that resolution at the time, does not believe that the blackball adopted by the U. N. is properly related to the realities of the present. But he will not take the lead in trying to change it. The extensive criticism that the proposals of Senator Gurney to extend the hand of friendship to Dictator Franco have evoked in Great Britain, France and Belgium as well as in this country confirms the wisdom of Secretary Marshall's position. Franco remains a symbol of aggressive fascism. And, more immediately, any action at present would be regarded, and rightly, as an avowal of a defense policy for Europe based upon the Pyrenees, and leaving the rest of Western Europe in the lurch. The United States could not sponsor Franco's cause at Paris without giving Moscow a field day for propaganda and confusing many nations as to the principles this country is trying to uphold and the strategy it means to follow.

It is well not to forget, however, that the compromise U. N. policy toward Spain, framed in default of Franco's extinction along with Hitler and Mussolini, has failed of its purpose. The sponsors of the 1946 resolution hoped to weaken Franco not only by this blackball, but also by the withdrawal of ambassadors from Madrid, a policy put into effect by all U. N. members except a few minor nations led by Argentina. Apparently, as could have been foretold, it has had the opposite effect. The consensus of informed observers seems to be that this pressure from the outside strengthened Franco's position inside Spain. What the powers did was merely to weaken their own means of obtaining information from and extending influence in Madrid. Gestures of this sort are seldom, if ever, effective weapons against a dictatorial regime, as we have hitherto pointed out in discussions of the fallacy of the nonrecognition doctrine.

There is no logic, moreover, in indefinitely excluding unrelenting Spain from the United Nations while unrelenting Argentina remains a member. When Argentina was admitted to the U. N., it was difficult to establish any qualification for membership based upon performance. Even though Argentina did line up with the Allies in the war at the eleventh hour, the act was, as shown by her subsequent noncooperation in peace, thoroughly hypocritical. Many other dictatorship countries have also got into the U. N. If it is to become the universal organization that it aspires to be, Spain will necessarily have to be admitted, although we cling to the hope that there will be a representative regime, demonstrated in elections, before this step is taken.

Pressure for an American initiative toward Spain comes principally from the strategists. Should war break out, we are told, American troops in Europe and the forces of other Western powers might have to retreat to behind the Pyrenees. Spain might also become an indispensable base for bombing planes operating in the Mediterranean. But to rush into such preparations now would undoubtedly make the task of maintaining the peace more difficult. It would suggest a desertion of our Western Allies, a loss of faith in the United Nations, and an indication that this country was ready to embrace any anti-Communist no matter how repulsive his past record might be. Such a stand would be more hurtful than helpful in the present state of world affairs even from the viewpoint of expediency.

Beyond considerations of expediency is the fact that the United States stands for democracy and decency before the world. We must not be diverted from our principles by every wind that blows. To be sure, the exchange of ambassadors with a dictatorial government is not a violation of our principles. Otherwise we should not be represented at Moscow. But in the case of Spain the withholding of ambassadors has become closely associated in the public mind with the distaste for Franco's regime as a relic of aggressive fascism. It will be a delicate task for the General Assembly to disentangle the reasonable policy of recognizing all stable governments that are ready to assume their international obligations from the more sweeping efforts to whitewash Franco, and we doubt that this task can be reasonably undertaken in the present state of world tension.

Unity Over There

There was so much of a statesmanlike character in Senator Vandenberg's address at the Freedom House dinner in New York Sunday that it is difficult to pick out a single high point. His was no platitudinous review of the accomplishments of the bipartisan foreign policy. What he did show was that full and free discussion has produced not so much a welding of partisan views as the emergence of a single American policy, founded on our national interests, aims and principles. After developing the process through which unity has been achieved here, he was in a stronger position to urge a similar unity among the nations of Western Europe as a concomitant of our efforts to "return Europe to the Europeans." His words have a particular timeliness because of their warning that the next Congress will consider concrete results as a measuring stick for the effectiveness of the Marshall Plan. He said:

> . . . We must not be too impatient. But we must be firm for their sakes as well as ours. They can never recover economic health or independent security in 16 air-tight, competitive compartments. It is not for us to dictate the formula. It is for them to find it in their own intelligent self-interest. They are making progress. Much has been courageously done. Brave plans are on the trestleboard. We cheer these planners and these pioneers. But I am sure it lies within the jurisdiction of a proven friend of the Marshall Plan to urge them that they must get on with the realities of this vital job. A very critical moment for all of us approaches when the next American Congress audits the record to determine the tell-tale values which self-help and mutual aid have produced. This will be the acid test. Concrete results are required to tip the scales.

Americans can scarcely appreciate the difficulties of the task we are requiring of the Europeans. As Senator Vandenberg acknowledges, an impressive start has been made. There is a new spirit in Europe, generated by ERP and growing as the combination of self-help and outside aid produces material betterment. The danger is that there may be a tendency to judge the worth of ERP by what necessarily has been a year of laying the foundations for future accomplishments. Senator Vandenberg has done well to apprise Europeans of this danger. Undoubtedly when and if the first year's accomplishments become an issue, he can be counted on to defend the program with the same broad view and balance which have characterized his foreign relations leadership in the Senate.

In one other area Senator Vandenberg gave needed reassurance by penetrating the gloom that surrounds the future of the United Nations. "Despite its handicaps, its limitations and its failures," he said, "I hesitate to think what would have happened in the last two years if its forum and its restraints, however feeble, had been unavailable." He sees hope in the Security Council debate over Berlin. But, he warns, "we must intelligently avoid any unilateral independent action on our own account lest we confuse our friendly associates, cramp the Security Council, and encourage our opponents to think our appeal to the United Nations is either timid or insincere." In other words, we ourselves must give more than lip service to the kind of cooperative effort we are asking of Europe.

"Reds" In Government

Members of a congressional committee were examining Communistic witnesses. The following is taken verbatim from the report of the committee:

"The Chairman: 'Do you believe in the abolition of all religion?' Mr. Olgin: 'I believe in enlightening all the people so they may stop believing what don't exist.' Mr. Bachmann: 'Since 1922 you owe no allegiance to the American flag?' Mr. Olgin: "Since 1922 I am a Communist and that is a revolutionist.' Mr. Bachmann: 'You are fighting to displace the American flag, is that not true?' Mr. Olgin: 'I am fighting under the Red flag to displace the American capitalism by a government of workers and farmers.'"

And later Mr. Olgin said: "I know of no changes in history that have ever been accomplished without violence and struggle."

See also the statement of witness Bebrits:

"Mr. Eslick: 'If your idea of the new state would come into being at once, a change from our form of Government to the Soviet form of government, would you pay the land owner, the merchant, and the other property holder anything for his holdings?' Mr. Bebrits: 'The land owner, the property owner will not get anything. I hold this, that property owning in my opinion is the result of robbing generations of people.' Mr. Eslick: 'You would take away lands, merchandise, banking?' Mr. Bebrits: 'Yes.' Mr. Eslick: 'All these forms of industry?' Mr. Bebrits. 'Yes.' Mr. Eslick: 'You would make no compensation to the owner?' Mr. Bebrits: 'No.' Mr. Eslick: 'But suppose the capitalist class and individual corporations refused to give their property up, then how would you take it away from them except by force?' Mr. Bebrits: 'All revolutions are conducted by force.' Mr. Eslick: 'And you would go to the extent of killing him in order to take his property?' Mr. Bebrits: 'I guess he will be wiser than to say that he will stand and get killed.'"

The foregoing is from the report of the old Hamilton Fish Committee and took place many years ago. What became of Hamilton Fish? He was hounded out of public life by the New Deal Party pinks with their denunciation of "Red baiter, Fascist," etc.

And do you remember Martin Dies? He was hounded out of public life by the same gang of fellow travelers. And now they would like to shut up Mr. J. Parnell Thomas in the same way. But the jig is up. If Mr. Dewey is elected, it will be primarily because of his promise to kick the Reds out of the Federal Government. MONITOR.

Corporation Directors

The direction of our corporations, both small and large, is in need of a very great change in the manner of selecting and electing the directors. Small stockholders are in a substantial majority, particularly of our larger corporations, yet they have no voice in the selection and election of the directors, because new directors are appointed by the old directors and one name submitted to the small stockholders for each position. The election is a foregone conclusion even before the names reach the small stockholders when they have only one man to vote for each time a director is replaced.

This system of electing directors was brought over from Europe, where it was the means of retaining the power of money and influence in the hands of a monarchical form of government, which is directly contrary to the form of government we have here and is therefore contrary to our much better way of life. However, it can be brought into harmony with our form of selecting and electing men to represent the people by simply giving the small stockholders a chance to help select and elect the directors.

Playless Capital

Cynthia Anthonsen's letter of October 7 prompts me to add my bit of comment relative to our present lack of a legitimate theater in Washington.

As a constant patron of the theater, I, too, sadly deplore our present lack in this city. However, I cannot help but side with the National, for this is the situation as I understand it.

Actors Equity Association, to which all top-ranking actors and actresses belong, forbade its members to appear at the National Theater unless the National reversed its segregation policy. Since Actors Equity allows its members to appear on the stages of numerous theaters throughout the South, in Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, etc., where there is very definite segregation, the National Theater felt it was being imposed upon.

If Actors Equity is so democratic, then it should issue an ultimatum tto all theaters, not just the National in Washington.

War With Russia

Is the United States showing strength or weakness in asking a committee of smaller nations to decide if the Berlin blockade is a threat to peace? Why is it necessary for special emissaries to fly here from Europe to explain to the present President and probable future President what is going on?

The man in the street knows perfectly well that Russian actions are a threat to peace; the only question is whether the United States shall or shall not declare war. Conferences and notes only serve to show that we hesitate; silence would be more effective. We have plenty of provocation. We may choose to wait; but we need not keep up a senseless chatter . . . Is unity of both political parties in foreign policy just a way of proclaiming that America will put up with unlimited outrages and insults rather than fight? H. P. CARTER.

Christ's Way

Reference is made to Cynthia Wilder's letter of October 5 in which she praises the life of Mahatma Gandhi.

Miss Wilder speaks truly and wisely when she says: "We are headed for death and destruction unless we choose the way of life—Gandhi's way of love and nonviolence." However, the way of life has been shown to the world by an example far more glorious than Gandhi's.

Two thousand years ago our world was shown the way of life—God's way of love and nonviolence, by the Prince of Peace—Jesus Christ. The world was shown a love so deep that few men could fathom the meaning of it—a love that led to unutterable agony and death on a cross.

Our world shall never know peace until every man shall have followed Christ and His way—the Christ who said: 'I am The Way, The Truth and The Life."

Anti-Communism In Chile

In a cabled dispatch from Santiago by Mr. Richard Massock, Associated Press bureau manager in Chile, published in The Washington Post of October 3 under the title, "Chile Completing Sweeping Communist Purge," there are a few errors I should like to indicate.

Mr. Massock states that "with congressional elections due next March, the various parties already are fishing for the former Communist votes." And he adds: "Especially active are the Radical Party of President Gonzalez Videla, one-time ally of the Communists, the Conservatives and the Socialists." This statement should be clarified because it gives the wrong impression that political parties in Chile are not united behind the government measures to curb communism.

The Radical Party, of which President Gonzalez Videla is a member, voted solidly in favor of the law checking Communist activities. Furthermore, the Radicals have representatives in the present cabinet, which will carry out the provisions of the law. It can be said without reservation, therefore, that the Radical Party as such is not fishing for Communist votes.

Regarding the Social-Christian faction of the Conservative Party, it is well known that leaders, Senators Eduardo Cruz-Coke and Horacio Walker, opposed the bill. But they did so purely on legal grounds. Time and again they both declared that Social-Christians were definitely against communism; neither could this be considered fishing.

As for the split in the Socialist Party—which Mr. Massock says is due to the outlawing of communism—this occurred more than two years ago. It had nothing to do with the enactment of the anti-Communist measure, coming before the law was passed.

Summing up the real Chilean political situation, it can be safely said that the great majority of the people and of all the important political parties—Radicals, Conservatives, Liberals, the greatest segment of the Socialists, Democrats, etc., are strongly backing President Gonzalez Videla's fearless battle against communism. This is true regardless of their rightist or leftist inclinations.

Meantime, during the debate on the bill, as President Gonzalez Videla has stated, there were no restrictions placed on the Communist members of the Congress. They were absolutely free to discuss and oppose the constitutionality of the "law for the defense of democracy." These congressmen have freely circulated about the country on speaking tours. Nobody, and least of all the government, hindered the distribution of pamphlets and other literature attacking the bill. However, these measures were approved by an overwhelming majority.

In fairness it should be noted, also, that the President, in a letter to a group of Chilean residents of Venezuela, has recently said: "You may rest assured that when you return here you will find our free democratic institutions intact and you will be able to exercise freely all the rights consecrated by our political constitution."

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Dropping The Bomb

IN THE confusion currently prevailing in Washington, it is difficult to tell who is making policy and what policy is from day to day. This is true in matters both large and small.

The latest and most obvious example is the proposal to send Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson as a peace emissary to Stalin in Moscow. This seems to have gone so far that free radio time was requested for a broadcast announcing the move, at which point Secretary of State Marshall persuaded President Truman to call it off.

Such a move would have been worse than futile. It would have cut directly across the whole position of the United States delegation at the U. N. meeting in Paris. And our partners, the British and the French, would certainly have been outraged by such a surprise maneuver.

One reason for the confusion is that so many voices are raised, often with conflicting views, at a time of gravest peril. The public can hardly be expected to discriminate between official policy and the personal views of officials who criticize or seek to persuade opinion to go in another direction.

IN THIS column recently, attention was called to the argument advanced by two Air Force colonels in a technical publication of the USAF that a war can be won by a small fleet of planes dropping atomic bombs on the enemy's strategic centers. By this means, so the argument went, a war could be brought to a victorious conclusion in from one to three months. This happens to coincide, more or less, with aggressive and sensational claims made, usually off the record but sometimes on the record, by Air Force officers of a much higher rank than colonel.

It seemed to me that this had become official policy. I am assured now that it is not official policy, and it is good to have that earnest assurance. In my opinion, such a view publicly advanced can only contribute to the peril of the present moment.

It can contribute to an increasingly dangerous attitude that is taking hold in this country. The best expression of it is, "Well, let's go and drop the bomb on those so-and-sos and get it over with."

The moral and Christian implications of killing 10 to 15 million human beings to try to bring peace and security to the United States need hardly be stressed. There is, however, a practical consideration that bears directly on the planning being done by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, for the Air Force, and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, for the Army, are in agreement that an atomic attack might paralyze the enemy and bring a war to a relatively swift conclusion.

But they also agree that in the event of failure it is essential to plan for a war that might last 10 years or even, as Bradley has said, 30 years.

THEY ALSO know, as does anyone with the slightest imagination or understanding, that a total war—and all war in the atomic age must be total—lasting many years would utterly transform the American economy and in all probability the American political system. We would almost be forced to accept a totalitarian pattern. Civilian defense planners in the Pentagon are completing a plan which would mean the regimentation of almost every phase of economic life with the outbreak of war, and that would be the beginning.

Loose talk about "dropping the bomb on those so-and-sos" does not come from men of responsibility who have soberly considered these possibilities. General Vandenberg's difficulty is that so many propagandists for a superduper, blitz-type Air Force, both in uniform and out of uniform, have filled the air with their claims. They are highly articulate and they tend to obscure the more modest objectives of official policy.

General Bradley's difficulty is that the persuasiveness of the air argument—both of the limited official side and the extravagant unofficial side—appeals to Congress and the public. It confirms a longing that war can be easily won by the Buck Rogers, push-button technique. And there are men serving under Bradley and deeply loyal to him who feel that the Army has been so over-shadowed as to damage morale and raise a serious problem in the event a war should be prolonged through many years.

One point in the policy debate involves the right of men in uniform to express themselves freely on differences of strategy and tactics. On the technical level, this seems to me highly desirable. But when it impinges on top policy, and newspaper headlines about a three-month atomic war certainly get close to policy, then restraint becomes necessary. Applying restraint without suppression is not easy. But in a time such as the present it is vital, and that goes for all departments of Government.

Today and Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Vinson Affair And Mr. Churchill

THE VINSON affair has been so embarrassing to the President, to the Chief Justice, to the Secretary of State and to the Nation, that for the three weeks that are left of this campaign, for the three months during which he will still be in office, Mr. Truman may not wish again to monkey with the buzz-saw.

LIPPMANN

But though this incident is closed, and though similar incidents may have been forestalled by the explosion of publicity, the conditions which produced it will persist until Governor Dewey is in the White House.

MR. TRUMAN is unable, in plain words Mr. Truman does not know how, to be President. He does not know how to conduct foreign relations or how to be Commander-in-Chief. His absences from Washington during the campaign have merely disclosed what has since the beginning been the fact—that Mr. Truman does not govern, and has no control over, the diplomatic and military policy of the United States. But though he does not govern, he continues to reign. He still has the great powers of his office.

Unable to use them to form policy, he is reduced to meddling with policy. Unable to direct the subordinate officials who exercise his powers, he gives them a free hand most of the time. But every once in a while he rebels and tries to circumvent them.

THESE rebellions, of which a few have come to light and many more have been nipped in the bud, reflect the fact that high policy in this Administration has become seriously separated from the democratic process. Except for Senator Vandenburg, no one who plays a deciding role in the ultimate decisions has been elected to his office. The "policy makers" are career diplomats, professional soldiers, and appointed officials who with all their virtues, which are many, with all their competence, need the guidance of a President who is accountable to the people, and the discipline imposed by a Congress which debates the great decisions.

Experts, as the saying goes, should always be on tap but never on top. In the Truman Administration, owing to Mr. Truman's incapacity, there is no one above the professionals and the experts. Consequently they, in a kind of artificial isolation from genuine contact with the people, have developed marked symptoms of the usual diseases—that is to say of a bureaucratic and of a militaristic excess of power and influence. Mr. Truman's occasional meddling springs from a confused and ineffectual impluse to restore that civilian authority which has been lost because of his own inadequacy.

THEREFORE, while to suppress Mr. Truman's propensity to meddle is necessary, and infinitely better than not to suppress it, it is no cure for the condition. The cure is to elect a President who can govern his Administration. For it is no triumph, it is only a case of making the best of a bad job, to have to feel that in the national interest the President must be subordinated to his Secretary of State.

As a matter of fact the best that can be done under these conditions is to temporize for the next few months until an Administration, capable of concerted action, is installed, organized, and made ready to deal positively with the great conflict over the destiny of Europe. During this difficult and dangerous interval it is the duty of statesmen, here and among our friends abroad, to seek by mediation to postpone the showdown, and not prematurely to act on Mr. Churchill's advice "to bring matters to a head and make a final settlement."

WE MAY BE sure that matters will have to be brought to a head and a final settlement made in the fairly near future—that is to say during that limited period of time during which our monopoly of atomic weapons offsets the enormous superiority of the Russian infantry. But that time is not now, not while the Government of the United States is so dislocated. That time will not come until our military power is again under the firm control of civilian statesmen—who know how to use it not to bring matters to a head by war but to a head which produces a settlement.

When that time comes—probably next year—the settlement which will have to be negotiated will not be one which "contains" Russia in the middle of Europe, not one which partitions Germany and Europe. It will be one, as Mr. Churchill said so provocatively, as Senator Vandenburg said so much more quietly, which brings about the retirement of the Russians to their own country, and leaves "Europe to the Europeans."

5 Million Dollar Parking Plan Will Go to Baltimore Voters

Street and presently has space for 878 vehicles. The space could be increased to 1500 without difficulty.

The lot opened on September 11, with 12 cars and yesterday had 16. Finck attributes the low figures to the location, which he feels is "off the beaten path" and not in the major traffic flow.

Both lots are linked by BTC buses running from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m., and 4 to 6 p. m. only Monday to Friday. The charge is 50 cents for all-day parking, which includes free transportation to and fro for drivers. The usual fare of 10 cents is collected from car passengers.

The lots are patronized primarily by downtown workers and no major attempt has been made at attracting shoppers, as in Washington.

Other Plans Discussed

A down town committee, consisting of merchants interested in development of the section, has been organized and has discussed projects such as fringe lots and shuttle buses, but no program has yet been launched, other than the transit firm projects.

Washington's Parking Expert McGavin, after talking to city officials about the land values of tracts used for parking lot ventures, made an intensive, on foot survey of all the facilities on the north and south sides of Howard st., one of Baltimore's principal arteries.

He talked to many operators, discussing fees charged, property leasing contracts, employment problems and expansions contemplated. In addition, he took pictures of most of the facilities visited to incorporate in a report to Congress early in 1949.

The Washington official, an experienced parking engineer as well as a former operator, talked to several Baltimore parking men. Among them was Albert Haar, head of the Haar-Win Parking Co., Inc., operators of 11 lots. Haar worked for the firm which originated parking lots in Detroit, said to be the first in the country.

Business, Not Racket

Haar told this reporter that the public should shoulder much blame for the present attitude toward parking lot operators. "People have to realize parking lots are not a racket, but a big business. We have overhead, expenses and pay substantial rents for the land we use. The days when a parking operator gave a landlord a few dollars a month to use a vacant lot are gone."

As an example, he said he paid $40,000 a year rent on one of his lots accommodating 200 cars. At this rate, each space must bring in revenue from six to seven cars a day before "I can break even," he declared.

McGavin found in an all-day tour of Baltimore lots that none match Washington's top price spot, which charges 30 cents an hour and 20 cents for each additional hour. Figuring all-day charges on the basis of a nine-hour day, he found lots ranged from 35 cents a day to 85 cents, with garages running between $1 and $1.25 a day.

Highest at "Hot Spots"

The rate was highest at the "hot spots," the parking men's term for lots with much turnover usually located near population centers such as department stores, theaters and large employment establishments. It dropped gradually, almost in direct ratio with the distance from such places.

During his tour, McGavin studied the present Lexington Market, a two-block-long city-owned structure housing several hundred retailers and once providing space for farmers bringing produce to Baltimore. Plans for razing the antiquated, frame building and replacing it with a modern multi-story structure have been on the drawing boards for several years. Included has been a plan for a roof-top parking area sufficient to handle 800 cars.

The parking problem in Baltimore, a city of 970,000 persons, is considered a serious one. The city's chief assessor, M. Frank Fitzpatrick, said that property valuations have dropped greatly in the past 15 years resulting in a shrinking of the commercial area. Much of this was due to decentralization, which in turn resulted in good measure from a lack of off-street parking, he explained.

Traffic Speeded Up

In addition to the steps already mentioned, the city has taken others to speed traffic in the downtown area. More streets have been made one-way and an impounding ordinance has been enacted which authorizes the police to haul away any car parked overtime or in a no-parking zone with a consequent $5 to $15 charge to the offending motorist, Fitzpatrick said.

Parking meters have been "agitated for several times but have not been adopted," he said. "Meters are an invitation to park and that's the problem we want to eliminate," Fitzpatrick declared.

Furniture Club Elects Officers

The Furniture Club of Washington, an affiliate of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, held its organization meeting and elected officers last night at the Continental Hotel.

William A. Willberg, merchandise manager of the home furnishings division at Goldenberg's, was named president; George Inoff, general manager of Peerless Modern Furniture Co., vice president; Si Block, buyer of modern furniture at Hecht's, treasurer, and Ray Hegl, associate secretary of MMA, secretary.

Israel's Fate

By Sumner Welles

Flaws In The Bernadotte Plan

THE BRITISH and American attempt to stampede the United Nations into immediate adoption of the Bernadotte plan for Palestine was fortunately blocked. But the narrow margin by which the Assembly's Political Committee defeated this manuever emphasizes the urgency of the need for a just and final settlement.

The failure of the United Nations to show itself capable of establishing an independent, secure and viable Israeli state diminishes confidence in its authority, increases doubt that justice inspires its proceedings and deprives the survivors of the European mass murders of hope for the future.

So long as uncertainty enshrouds the fate of Palestine the acts of violence that are due to that very uncertainty will help the sowers of hate to stimulate anti-Semitism here, and be advanced as reasons why this country should disinterest itself in the fate of Israel.

The present situation can only incite Arab imperialists and Jewish terrorists to renewed aggression. It tempts both the Soviet Union and the Western powers to intervene in Palestine as a strategic move in their contest for control of the Near East.

Count Bernadotte rightly saw that the Palestine problem, as he said, was "a spark capable of setting off a mightier conflagration." By accepting the task of mediator he served the highest interests of humanity.

YET THE British government is disingenuous in claiming that his assassination constitutes any valid reason for the approval by the United Nations of his plan for Palestine.

The government of Israel is wholly warranted in rejecting the Bernadotte recommendations. The insuperable obstacle to their acceptance is the proposal to take the Negeb from Israel, and to reduce the territory of the Jewish state to less than one half of that allotted to it by the Assembly's partition resolution of a year ago.

Were this proposal to be accepted, a basic feature of the original partition resolution would be nullified, for Israel would then be unable to provide new homes for more than a handful of refugees.

If a Palestine solution is to prove lasting, Israel must become a prosperous and a contented nation. With Israel deprived of the agricultural and mineral resources that the Negeb affords, of its port on the Red Sea, and of its opportunities for resettlement and for expanding development, the new state cannot even be viable.

The Negeb proposal represents the latest in the long series of attempts made by Mr. Bevin, with the support of the British Foreign Office and Imperial General Staff, and of the State Department and National Security Council in Washington, to restore British hegemony over the Near East. By the cession of the Negeb to Trans-Jordan, Britain would obtain the use of that territory for her own military and economic purposes.

IF ANY major power is now permitted to monopolize this strategic area, the peoples of Palestine can have no assurance of real freedom and there will be scant likelihood of peace in the Near East.

Secretary Marshall's indorsement of the Bernadotte plan affords further cause for dissension between the Soviet Union and the United States. It provides new and powerful motives for the growth of anti-American sentiment in Israel.

The United States was chiefly responsible for the Assembly's approval of the partition resolution of last November. Time and experience have demonstrated that this Government was wholly justified in the official statement it then made, "that this partition plan . . . offers the most practicable and most just present solution of the Palestine problem." They have confirmed the wisdom of its further declaration that this partition plan represented "a decision which comes very close to being law."

Yet, in line with its sorry record of the past 11 months, the United States now again ignores what is so recently considered "the most practicable and most just present solution" for Palestine. It spurns a resolution which less than a year ago it terms a "decision which comes very close to being law." And under the guidance of those military influences now primarily responsible for American foreign policy, the United States supports Mr. Bevin in his insistence that Israel's boundaries be revised not for the sake of economic stability, not for the sake of justice, not for the sake of peace, but solely to suit Britain's strategic plans.

WE ARE WITNESSING the same tragic spectacle as that seen in the League of Nations in the early thirties, when Britain and France placed momentary expediency above collective security by refusing to repress aggression. That subordination of the permanent interests of all peoples to what were so mistakenly considered national interests destroyed the League of Nations and made the second world war inevitable.

There is presented a great challenge to some courageous and far sighted spokesman for the lesser powers, like Herbert Evatt, to arouse the smaller countries in the United Nations to the need of making their impartial judgment prevail over all efforts of the great powers to further their selfish interests at the expense of the long-term interests of humanity.

By demanding both in the Political Committee, as well as in the Assembly, that the original partition resolution be upheld and by insisting upon its enforcement by the Security Council, the lesser powers can strike a mighty blow for the United Nations and for future peace.

13c W, M & A District Fare Is Asked by PUC Official

Cash fares of 13 cents, and tokens at 3 for 35 cents, were recommended yesterday for intra-District rides on buses of the Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis lines by the Public Utilities Commission's executive accountant, V. A. McElfresh.

These rates, equal to those recently authorized for the Capital Transit Co. by the PUC, would represent an increase of 3 cents over the present cash fare, while the tokens now cost 3 for 25 cents.

The new Capital Transit rates, authorized for October 31, may be automatically delayed under announced plans by the Committee for Consumer Protection to seek reconsideration.

In the WM&A case, the accountant's recommendation came at the third and final PUC hearing on the company's request for a straight 15 cent cash fare for District rides, with no tokens.

McElfresh said that, according to his estimates, a 12-cent cash fare would produce sufficient revenue to pay the bus company a "fair return" of 8 per cent on investment, even if the higher fares caused a 10 per cent decline in passengers.

However, he was recommending the 13-cent fare and the token plan, he told commission members, because he believed it desirable to maintain the same fares allowed Capital Transit, which has a transfer arrangement with the WM&A.

PUC Chairman James H. Flanagan said a decision in the WM&A case should be ready "within a month."

The accountant's contention that District operations of the line, which also serves points in Maryland, should be allocated 20.33 per cent of general operational costs, contrasted with statements of company officials, who had used an allocation figure of 24.58 per cent.

Drop in Revenues

District operation of the bus line produced $13,562 less during the year ended June 30, 1948, than required to produce an 8 per cent return, according to the accountant. J. W. Tanner, WM&A treasurer, had estimated that D. C. revenues should be increased by $88,405 a year, for a 9 per cent return.

Under his proposed rates, the company would receive revenues of $212,440 from its District operation in the current fiscal year, McElfresh estimated, assuming a 5 per cent "normal" decline in passengers. a 10 per cent decline due to the higher fares, and a 65 per cent token use.

McElfresh said he would not recommend a provision for return of income over the 8 per cent return, similar to that imposed on the Capital Transit Co., because of the small amount involved and the difference of opinion over allocation of D. C. operation costs.

Yesterday's hearing in the board room of the District Building failed to draw any members of the public. The case for the company was conducted by James P. Donovan, while Asst. Corporation Counsel Lloyd B. Harrison handled the PUC case.

Welsh Society Hears Homeland Often Hard Put

No one is actually suffering from want of clothes in Wales today, David Powell Jones, president of the St. David's Society of Washington, said last night, "but many persons are wearing patches on patches."

Jones, who has just returned from a two month's visit to his birthplace, spoke at the first meeting of the year of the Welsh group at St. John's Parish Hall, 821 16th st. nw.

Often large families who do not require all of their clothing ration coupons will trade for food coupons of small families who are hard put to outfit themseves on their issue, he said. The basic food ration will prevent starvation, he said, but "no one will get fat on it."

Shift to Buyer Market Noted In Four Fields

By S. Oliver Goodman

Four major industries in the Fifth Federal Reserve District have shifted from a seller to a buyer market during the past summer.

In its October monthly review the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond indicated that the price adjustments will not be drastic and probably won't last long.

The bank's report listed the following adjustments:

Cotton Textiles—Prices of some cotton goods and yarns have shown "considerable weakness," although these prices are still higher in relation to prewar prices than are other commodities.

Bituminous Coal—Off-grade coal, which had been in heavy demand before the summer "now is practically without a market," while some of the better grades "require considerable selling effort."

Hosiery—A few producers of women's full-fashioned hosiery reduced prices recently, despite a 7 per cent rise in the price of nylon yarn.

Adjustments to lower demand, said the bank's review, are more likely to take place in production than in price. Some manufacturers in these fields may cut their production instead of reducing prices.

The cotton textile industry ranks as this region's largest employer, with bituminous coal second. Lumber and hosiery industries also are larger employers.

Other highlights of the bank's review:

Department store sales in the Fifth District in August were 8 per cent above sales in August, 1947. Wholesale trade in most lines was greater this year than last. Construction contracts awarded in July were 39 per cent ahead of awards in July last year, and debits to individual accounts in Fifth District banks were up 18 per cent in August from a year ago. Retail furniture trade also rose in August by 17 per cent over August, 1947, trade.

SAFEWAY SALES: Safeway Stores, Inc., reported combined United States and Canadian sales of $93,586,760 for four weeks ended October 2, an increase of 4.9 per cent over same period last year. Sales for the 40 weeks ended October 2 were reported at $971,572,681, or 16 per cent higher than same 1947 period.

ODD LOTS: Advance reservations indicate 700 will attend the seventeenth annual meeting of the National Association of Mutual Insurance Agents at the Shoreham Hotel October 18-30 . . . Kaiser-Frazer Corp. yesterday assembled its 300,000th auto since starting in June, 1946 . . . Daily Bond Buyer estimates that more than a billion dollars in State and local Government bond issues will be voted upon next November 2 . . . Washington banks and building and loan associations will be open as usual today, but the Washington Stock Exchange will suspend in observance of Columbus Day.

RECORD RATE: The magazine Steel said the present rate of steel production if maintained throughout the fourth quarter would establish an all-time record for three months' output. "Conservative estimates now place production for the entire year at 87 million tons, a peacetime record, and the third largest annual output in history," said the magazine, with larger production seen only in the war years of 1943 and 1944.

WANTS COMPETITION: One of those who would like to see real competition once more in the auto industry is James D. Mooney, president and board chairman of Willys-Overland. "We've lived so long in this 'steam-heated' era," he says, "that a blast of cool air would be welcome."

EARNINGS: Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., reported net income of $6,948,012 for fiscal year ended August 28, 1948, equal to $5.69 a share, compared with $12,371,154 or $10.12 a share in preceding 12 months. Other earnings statements:

Lou Says: 'Give Credit to Bearden'

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Boston, Oct. 11.—The hush that has descended on Boston tonight is not to be mistaken for the quiet culture of these parts. There's nothing to cheer about, since 3:17 p. m., when Mr. Tommy Holmes, a Brooklyn native who summers here, flied out to left field to bring an unhappy conclusion to Boston's World Series.

POVICH

Boston's fondness for literature will be ebbing somewhat, too, as of today. Certain authors like Eddie Stanky, Billy Southworth, Jeff Heath and Johnny Sain are no longer best sellers, and the city's newspaper publishers will be dropping their by-lines as of tomorrow, and their ghosts will return to news reporting.

The high art of ghost writing was revived somewhat furiously these couple of weeks in Boston, ever since the Braves clinched the pennant. One ghost, writing his own baseball story alongside the article he had ghosted for a Braves' infielder, publicly quarreled with the view he had expressed under his client's by-line, declaring "I can write better stuff than that guy."

The published works of the Braves' preseries heroes will go out of circulation pronto, but ghostwriting is nothing new to a World Series. Christy Walsh started it way back in the early 20s, if I remember rightly, with articles by such clever authors as Babe Ruth and John McGraw, which the newspapers grabbed up greedily.

The Washington Post went for it, too, years ago, until a managing editor named Norman Baxter suddenly decided brightly that maybe the World Series should be covered by baseball writers with writing time on their hands. He swept the wires clean of the ghost-written pieces and to heck with the opposition's claims to having the series covered by every famous name in the land.

As I remember it, Baxter not only ditched the ghosted stuff but proclaimed publicly in a four-column ad that his newspaper would have no more of it. The ad read something like this:

"Mary Roberts Rinehart, Aimee Semple McPherson, Col. Charles Lindberg, Charles Coe and John McGraw will not cover the World Series for The Post. Baseball writers will. Reach for a Post instead of a ghost."

The ghost writing reached a frenzy back around 1928, when the Yankees and Cardinals were playing their World Series, and a battery of $60-a-week writers were turning stuff out for the syndicates under the names of almost every important ball player on the two clubs.

It was a long haul from New York to St. Louis in those days, and the ghosters, usually working baseball writers who were picking up an honest buck on the side, gave short shrift to their stories by-lined with names of ball players.

The nightly poker game was just about to start in the train's diner after the dinner hour, when one writer diligently batting it out on his portable begged the gang to save him a seat.

"I'm not going to be long," he announced. "Just about 30 minutes while I finish off By Jim Bottomley, By Frankie Frisch, By Waite Hoyt and By Tony Lazzeri."

Lou Boudreau wrote no articles for the papers during this series, but the ghost of Boudreau will be with the Braves for a long while, you may be sure. He made only one hit today, figured in only one run, but his master minding licked the Braves this afternoon.

The most important move Boudreau made was a half hour before game time, when he announced his lineups. Walter Judnich wasn't in the Indians' batting order. Thurmond Tucker was installed in center field by Boudreau, and Larry Doby was moved into right.

Boudreau was doing it for defensive purposes, in tribute to Tucker's greater ground-covering ability than that of Doby and Judnich. And it paid off in the first inning when nobody but a Tucker could have caught Torgeson's Texas League pop fly that evolved as a double play. And Tucker saved the Indians' scalps in the second inning with a drifting catch of Rickert's liner, and in the eighth he was there to catch another line drive by Rickert with the bases full. Any one of these blows could have beaten the Indians. Foresight is better than hindsight in any league.

Pick-the-Winners Lineup 2d Week

THIS IS THE second week of The Washington Post's Pick-The-Winners football contest. It will be conducted weekly through November 20.

This week's list of games looks difficult. So put on your thinking caps. Remember, this is a contest of skill, designed to reward those who know their teams and are students of the game. Follow accounts of the teams, study the scores each week, then make your choices of the winners.

The winner of each weekly contest will receive two (2) tickets to the Army-Navy game in Philadelphia, November 27, and an all-expenses paid trip to the big game for two persons.

The person submitting the most accurate entry each week also will receive four (4) tickets to a major college or professional game in this area. This game will be selected by The Washington Post and announced well in advance of the game.

Each contestant will select the winner (or tie) of each of 20 games listed.

A twenty-first (21st) game is listed on which the "Probable Score" will be given by each contestant.

Tribe Beats Braves, 4-3, Takes Series

Braves' tying run stranded at that point after Lemon got in trouble.

In the ninth, though, Bearden was wild. He worked the count to three and two against pesky Eddie Stanky before issuing that fellow's third walk of the game with none out. Ryan was moved in to run for Stanky, and he was the victim of Hegan's rifle throw tto Joe Gordon, who covered first, on Sisti's feeble pop bunt that evolved as a double play.

Bill Voiselle, the giant right-hander who had figured only as a relief man in the previous games, was Manager Billy Southworth's starting choice, and neither he nor Lemon was working with much assurance despite the fact they turned in a pair of scoreless innings at the outset.

Voiselle pitched a single to Larry Doby and hit Boudreau on the back with a pitched ball to put men on base with one out in the first inning. Gordon whacked a vicious liner to Rickert, and Dark threw out Keltner to get Voiselle out of trouble.

Tucker Makes Fine Catch

The Braves raised a first inning threat themselves when Alvin Dark laid down a bunt along the third base line and beat it out with one out. And then Centerfielder Thurmond Tucker, a substitute new to the series, saved Lemon's hide with a racy catch of Torgeson's short fly.

Dark, underestimating Tucker's ground covering ability, was on his way to third base when he was doubled up at first.

Lemon invited trouble in the second inning after Elliott led off by beating out a spinning grounder near the box. With a palpable balk, he moved Elliott to second. It was a grammar-school boner with Lemon making a motion to throw to first base and then changing his mind when he saw Robinson standing off the bag. Tucker came to his rescue again with a running catch of Rickert's liner and Lemon got out of the inning.

Dale Mitchell and Lou Boudreau contrived a run for the Indians in the third inning, very simply. Mitchell simply doubled to left to open the inning and, after Doby flied out, Boudreau simply dropped a double to right. Tommy Holmes got a desperate edge of his glove on Boudreau's ball but couldn't clutch it.

The Braves bounced right back in their own inning with a threat to get an even bigger inning. Stanky walked and was sacrificed to Voiselle. Holmes whipped a single into left but the ailing Stanky couldn't score from second and, out of deference to Mitchell's arm, held up at third with one out.

The Indians' second double play of the first three innings collapsed that rally. Bearden snatched Dark's smash into the box, routed it to second where Boudreau forced Holmes and threw to Robinson for the double out.

Elliott, the home-run hitter of yesterday, was varying his tactics today. In the fourth with one out, he beat out his second infield hit, a grounder that Lemon couldn't handle. With two out, Lemon walked Salkeld, and the Braves got the tying run when Mike McCormick lashed a fiery single through the box.

Lemon didn't get out of further trouble unttil after he walked Stanky to load the bases. Gordon eased the tension for him by grabbing Voiselle's grounder for the last out.

Gordon Cracks Out Homer

Lemon settled down in the fifth, sixth and seventh, holding the Braves to one hit, but Voiselle was in deep trouble in the sixth and the Indians wrenched two runs out of him to go in front, 3-1.

Joe Gordon started it, grandly, and somewhat surprisingly. An .077 hitter in the series to that point, with only three hits to show for his 20 trips to the plate, the old Yankee surfaced in Gordon and he bashed a homer over the 337-foot sign in leftfield.

The Indians weren't through, though. Tucker walked with one out, and Robinson moved him to third with a single to right on the hit-an-run play. The Braves yielded a run when their double-play machinery failed, in contrast to the efficiency of the Indians. On Hegan's smash to Elliott, Robinson was forced to second, but Eddie Stansky's throw for a double play pulled Torgeson off the bag and Tucker trotted home.

Spahn was on the scene in the eighth, and the Indians drew a quick bead on the pitcher who had shut them out with one hit for 5 1/3 innings the day before.

Gordon's liner was caught by Rickert in left field, but Keltner got his second hit of the series, a single off Spahn's glove. Tucker and Robinson followed with singles to right, and the Indians improved their lead to 4-1.

They got no more out of the inning because the Braves foiled what looked like a Robinson-Tucker double steal, Spahn catching Robinson off the bag with Tucker finally being run down at home.

Tommy Holmes answered the pleas of the 40,103 with a single to center that opened the eighth, and Lemon was wavering, it was obvious. Dark's smash was barely caught by Doby in deep center, but Earl Torgeson rapped a double to right that moved Holmes to third. Boudreau tolerated Lemon no longer, after he walked Elliott to fill the bases with one out.

With the three tying runs on base, the Braves Field clamor was record-breaking. Bearden moved in from the bullpen to take over for the Indians. Pinch-hitter Clint Conatser rapped him hard but the result was a long drive to Tucker that scored Holmes and moved Torgeson to third. Phil Masi was the hero of the inning. He doubled high off the left field wall to score

NOBODY GOT IT—Earl Torgeson, Boston's first baseman, twists up across Cleveland's dugout in a futile try for a foul hit by Bob Lemon in the second inning of the final World Series game yesterday. Umpire is Bill Stewart. Sundry fans also went for the ball. Everybody missed. Note the ball in upper right-hand corner above Torgeson's outstretched arm

He Won Flag, Then Saved Series Title

Boston, Oct. 11 (AP).—A tired Lou Boudreau was the last of the victorious Cleveland Indians to make the dressing room here today and all he wanted was "to get home."

He looked over at reporters and with one eye cocked said "let's get going I want to get home."

"Don't give me the credit; I didn't do anything. It was Bearden," Boudreau told well-wishers.

"This was a team victory all the way and don't think these Braves weren't tough because they really were. But I guess you'd have to say Bearden is the boy who did it. He won u the pennant in the play-off to get us into this, and now he has saved it for us."

It was a frenzied scene in their riotous dressing room.

"Yowee, we made it," roared the sweating Bearden, his brown eyes crackling with excitement. "Give me a kiss, Lou."

"Aw, go away," he grinned uneasily, "that stuff is for National Leaguers."

"They don't feel like kissing over there," Bearden yelled, pointing toward the silent dressing room of the beaten Braves. "Give me a kiss, you big lug."

Joe Gordon, Kenny Keltner, Jim Hegan and Lemon weren't so bashful. They fell to like women at a sewing circle nd Boudreau blushed as they gathered him in.

Someone asked Bob Lemon about the eighth inning when he was lifted for Bearden.

"Oh, I was tired; no doubt about that. Lou did right in taking me out," said Bob Lemon in the Indians' happy dressing room.

As the crowd began to thin out, Manager Boudreau took command again.

"No ballplayers leave the room," he yelled. "No ballplayers leave the room. We're going to have a meeting."

"What are you going to do now, Lou?" a vistor asked. "Plan your strategy for next spring?"

Central High Wins, 14-0, Takes Lead as Western Bows, 7-6

Shipley's Placement Is Eastern Margin

By the narrow margin of Bernie Shipley's placement kick in the second quarter, Eastern nosed out Western, 7-6, yesterday at Western, and dropped the Red Raiders out of a first-place tie with Central in the Interhigh Football League championship race.

The touchdown march, which gave Shipley his chance to convert, covered 87 yards in 19 plays with Quarterback Dominic Adriani gaining 20 of the yards on the ground, and 27 more through the air. His last pass for 6 yards, to End Joe Viqueria, scored.

Western struck back swiftly, going 59 yards in three plays just before intermission. Quarterback Wade Hubbard uncorked a beautiful 43-yard running pass to Buddy Jones on the Eastern 16. Dick Casey, on a wide left-end sweep, carried to the 1. And Hubbard crashed over left guard to score.

Pantos Runs Wild Against Coolidge

Central's Vikings moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Interhigh League by beating Coolidge, 14-0, yesterday at Central.

The Vikings have a record of three victories and no defeats.

Once again it was Jimmy Pantos who set the pace for Central. He set up both scores and converted both extra points by placement.

The Vikings scored the first time they got their hands on the ball as they drove from their own 49 to the Colt goal in 10 plays, with the running duties being divided between Pantos, Terry Gregory and Jack Wert, who went over from the one.

The second score came in the final quarter on a march of 56 yards. The large ground gainer in that series was a 34-yard pass from Pantos to Bill Dunker that carried to the Coolidge 19. Two plays later Terry again plowed over from 1 yard out.

Coolidge's lone chance came midway through the final period when they went 59 yards to the Viking 21. Pantos intercepted Benny Duvall's pass there, however, and the drive was stopped.

Torgeson and move Elliott to third with the tying run.

But the rally expired on Mike McCormicg's smash into the box which Bearden collared with one hand for a pitcher-to first put out.

Spahn, after his rough eighth inning, settled down magnificently in the Cleveland ninth. In succession, he struck out Bearden, Mitchell and Doby, running to four his consecutive strike-outs for the day, and keeping the Braves in the ball game.

Tatum Orders His Terps To Beat Duke

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Jim Tatum, who took orders when he was in the Navy, issued one yesterday.

He commanded his unbeaten Maryland football team to beat Duke's undefeated club when they tangle Saturday at Griffith Stadium.

"Duke is a fine football team" he told his huskies when they mustered for practice, "but we can beat them and it is a must that we do."

This will be the sixth meeting between the Terrapins and Blue Devils with Maryland still seeking its first triumph.

Duke, after a slow start which saw the Devils held to a tie by North Carolina State and Tennessee, whipped Navy decisively Saturday. "We are catching them when their offense has reached its peak," Tatum told his Old Liners.

The Maryland offense also gained momentum from week to week. With their striking power concentrated at right halfback when Lu Gambino filled that slot, the Terps had to shift their attack when Gambino was ruled ineligible.

Tatum thinks it's clicking now. The Terps rolled up 1300 yards in its first three games. Defensively, the club is also an improvement over the 1947 team. Richmond, Delaware and V. P. I. were held scoreless and restricted to less than 800 yards.

"But we've got to forget that and concentrate on whipping Duke," Tatum added. "That's our big game."

Quarterback Vic Turyn bruised a muscle in Saturday's 28-0 victory over V. P. I. and missed yesterday's practice. He'll be back today

Hoya's Baronowski Breaks Collarbone

Georgetown's footballers prepping a little too hard for their game against Tulsa this Saturday, yesterday sent their ace tailback, Babe Baronowski, to the hospital with a broken left collarbone. He suffered the injury when tackled during a scrimmage against the second team, and will be in a cast for six weeks.

Lions Open Here Tonight

The Washington Lions inaugurate the American Hockey League season at 8:30 tonight, when they are host to the champion Cleveland Barons at Uline Arena.

The Barons return to the scene of their last regular season loss. They gained the playoffs last year by winning 28 straight games, and won the postseason round robin by winning eight and losing two against Providence and Buffalo.

Among the Baron standouts who will play are Pete Leswick, 1947 all-league right winger, and Bob Solinger, left winger, who received the Dudley Garrett Award as outstanding rookie of last season.

In the nets for the Lions will be Paul Gauthier, formerly of the Les Canadiens. Starting at defense will be Bud Foley and Phil Vitale. Kenny Schultz will play center, flanked by wingmen Larry Archumbeault and Win Mousseau.

Sutton Cup Won By Mrs. Dennis

Mrs. Lloyd Dennis won the 36-hole Mrs. R. N. Sutton Cup at the Washington Golf and Country Club yesterday with a net of 166. Her scores were 95-99—194-28—166.

Low gross went to Mrs. Charles E. Egenroad with 87-92—189.

Second low net, Miss Ann Reh, 98-101—199-30-169; next, Mrs. H. H. Goodman, 98-100—198-28-170; Mrs. M. Hale Deneen, 93-97—190-20-170; low putts, Mrs. R. N. Sutton, 31-24—55.

Where to Secure Terp, G. W. Tickets

Tickets for Saturday's Maryland-Duke game at Griffith Stadium may be purchased at Fairway Sports Shop (1400 G st. nw.), Griffith Stadium, Bethesda Sports Mart (7012 Wisconsin ave., Chevy Chase), and Ritchie Coliseum, College Park.

Tickets for the George Washington-Kansas game at Griffith Stadium, Friday night, can be bought at Lisner Auditorium on the G. W. campus and Griffith Stadium.

Kansas Tough For Colonials Friday Night

Another of Kansas University's good football teams, such as tied for the Big Six title the past two years, will be on view for local collegiate fans Friday night when the Jayhawks tangle with George Washington at Griffith Stadium at 8:30.

The Kansans, victors in three of their four outings (the fourth was a 14-13 loss to Texas Christian), will present 14 lettermen from the 1947 Orange Bowl team which was tripped by Georgia Tech, 20-14.

In Halfback Frank Pattee, a 180-pounder who can do almost anything asked of him with a football, the Jays boast an adequate replacement for their graduated All-America, Ray Evans.

They're playing under a new coach, J. V. Sikes, but the T-formation installed by former coach, George Sauer, now at the Naval Academy, is functioning with mid-season smoothness.

Friday's argument will be the fifth between the teams since 1933, the last a 6-0 triumph for G.W. . in 1940. In all, the Colonials have whipped Kansas three times, the Jays' only triumph coming in the initial meeting by a 7-0 count.

Because of its high ranking in the Midwest, Kansas will be favored to win by a wider margin than any other of the Colonials' foes this year.

The Colonials are coming uninjured off one of the country's bigg st upsets last Saturday, when Andy Davis and company draped a 20-12 thumping on the Cavaliers of Virginia.

Southworth Feels Bad, Too—

Dejected Ed Stanky Moans 'Cleveland Not Best Team'

Boston, Oct. 11 (AP).—The most dejected figure at the end of the 1948 World Series here today was the Boston Braves' most crackling sparkplug—Eddie Stanky.

Stanky came in off the field, seated himself in front of his locker, put his head in his hands and brooded wordlessly for almost a half hour. He felt too low even to remove his cap or shoes.

Finally, the "walking man" turned to neighbor Tommy Holmes and snarled, "Cleveland's not the better team."

And then of course there was Billy Southworth a two-time loser in four World Series tries over the past seven years.

Southworth was a forlorn figure as, head down, he slowly walked into his office in the depths of the Braves Field grandstand.

"We didn't get one break after the opening game," Southworth explained. "Just one would have won for us today. Take that ball Phil Masi doubled against the left field wall in the eighth. It dropped dead. Nine times out of 10 it would have taken a long rebound and if it did today I would have been able to send Bob Elliott home with the tying run."

Tnen he brought up the name of Sibby Sisti, another Brave who had little cause for celebration.

"Take our side of the last inning," Billy continued. I regard Sisti (the pinch-hitting who popped into a double play to kill off the Braves' last chance) as the best man in our league at advancing a runner to second base.

"Sibby has done a marvelous job bunting this year. I suppose the lad is entitled to one pop-up every so often."

That every so often just happened at the wrong time today.

'Skins Blame Selves for 10-7 Loss

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

There is a game with the Philadelphia Eagles coming up Sunday at Griffith Stadium, but yesterday's talk around Redskin headquarters centered around last Sunday's 10-7 loss to Pittsburgh . . . Mostly the 'Skins blamed themselves for the last-minute field goal that beat them—"We shouldn't have let it wind up so close!"—but the officials, a decision to pass with 2 yards to go on fourth down, and even the murky Pittsburgh weather were being panned.

Actually the officials called 24 penalties, breaking the National Football League mark by 2 penalties, but few will ever know what the twenty-fourth was for or whom it was against . . . On the last play of the game the head linesmen got into the handerchief-throwing, then decided to forget the whole thing when everybody walked off the field and left him . . . Everybody, that is, except Redskin Owner George Marshall, who romped onto the field and got only a roasting from the Pittsburgh press for his pains . . . Marshall's explanation of his unprecedented appearance was that, with feeling running so high, he thought he might cool some of the hotheads among the Redskins with his presence out there . . . He remembers when the great Ed Justice punched Referee Halloran some years ago.

After taking a step-down to a tie for Eastern Division honors, the 'Skins will almost certainly get in the also-ran column with a loss to Philadelphia Sunday . . . The coleading Steelers meet Boston, which rates as almost a lock for Pittsburgh . . . All of which recalls the fourth-period pass that failed against Pittsburgh Sunday . . . The Redskins needed only 2 yards from the Steeler 35, the score was tied at 7-7, so it was obvious they were trying for a victory . . . If a tie would have satisfied them, they'd have punted and let the last 55 seconds on the clock run out . . . As it turned out, Bob Nussbaumer caught the pass from Baugh, ran it toward the sidelines, and fumbled out of bounds AHEAD OF THE FIRST-DOWN MARKER . . . It was ruled an incomplete pass and three penalties later the Steelers were ready for their important field goal from back of the Redskins three.

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Laurel, Md., Oct. 11.—The Bobanet Stable's King Midas continued to have the golden touch here today.

The son of Heliopolis charged down the outside of the stretch to win going away. In a tight photo for second, G. C. Hunt's Blue Holly took the measure of Christiana Stable's Mark Up.

Orcele, installed the favorite by a Monday crowd of 8,000, was fourth in the field of ten 3-year-olds competing in a six-furlong sprint named the Walter Reed.

King Midas, racing with Tenabob as his stablemate, returned a $10.20 mutuel to his backers and stepped the three-quarters of a mile in 1:13 2/5, the fastest of the meeting for the sprint route. Incidentally, the racing strip was in fast condition for the first time in days.

King Midas Comes On

Orcele, Mark Up and Coyote battled along for the lead in the early stages as King Midas trailed. In the stretch Blue Holly rallied and wore down the leaders. King Midas had swung very wide into the final straightaway and did not appear to have much chance when he developed momentum and fairly shot across the line on the extreme outside of the track.

Apprentice B. Civitello was aboard King Midas, who was accounting for his second straight victory of the meeting.

A disqualification, the first of the session, came in the fifth race, the Monument Purse. Two foul claims last Saturday and one today in the fourth race had not been allowed.

Trump Heavy Second

However, E. B. Ryan's Trump Heavy had his number taken down after getting home ahead of Mrs. E. H. Augustus' Battle Cry in a thrilling photo finish. Mrs. E. Dupont Weir's Scarlet Thorn was third in the sprint.

Jockey R. J. Martin made the objection against Apprentice Arthur Monteiro who rode the winner. Martin maintained, and it was obvious, that Monteiro's mount, Trump Heavy, carried him out through the stretch.

Trump Heavy, with odds of 25-1 showing on the board, was placed second with Battle Cry moved into the winner's slot, much to the delight of the favorite players who collected a mere $3.80 mutuel. The race was for maiden 3-year-olds and the winner was clocked in 1:14 3/5 for the 6 furlongs.

Monteiro found the race costly from another angle. He was suspended for the remainder of the meeting (he can ride out his engagements tomorrow) for "impeding Battle Cry in the stretch."

Gonzaga Beaten, 13-6, By Anacostia

Unleashing a crushing second-half ground attack, Anacostia's Indians downed Gonzaga's high-flying Eagles, 13-6, at Anacostia yesterday before 1800.

A 64-yard drive paced by "Bama" Burt and Bob Mitchell which began the third period ended with Mitchell's off-tackle plunge from the 2. Neil's placement was good.

A Hogan-to-Nolan pass was good for 74 yards and Gonzaga's only score, in the fourth period. Burt cracked 6 yards for the second Indian tally late in the game to end a drive set up by a Hogan pass intercepted by Kershbaum.

Anacostia	0	0	7	6—13

Friends Beaten, 14-13

The losers' missed conversion was the difference yesterday as St. Albans eleven nosed out Sidwell-Friends, 14-13, on the losers' field. Roger Kingsbury scored both the winners' touchdowns on passes from Bob Shorb, once for 40 yards and again for 15.

St. Alban's	7	7	0	0—14
Friends	0	0	0	7—13

Touchdowns—Kingsbury (2), Groome, Brown. Points after touchdowns—Kingsbury, Shorb, Meyers.

Bassler, Foxwell Win Pro-Am Golf

Baltimore, Oct. 11 (AP).—Charlie Bassler and Stpart Foxwell of Rolling Road carded a best-ball score of 65 today to win the Middle Atlantic P.G.A. Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament at the Green Spring Valley Hunt Club.

Bassler, pro at Rolling Road, shot a two-under par 70, and his amateur partner carded a 76.

The best round of the day, a 68, was shot by Ralph Beach, Suburban Club pro.

Spencer Overton of Rolling Road and Eddie Johnston of the Country Club of Maryland tied for low gross in the amateur sweepstakes with 73's.

One on the Aisle—

U. N. Day Unreels Six Films Here

By Richard L. Coe

FILMS ARE A NATURAL for United Nations Day, and plans are afoot to show some U. N.-sponsored pictures here Thursday and Friday, October 21 and 22. . . . United Nations Day itself, October 24, this year happens to fall on a Sunday, the first year that world-wide citizens' committees will be linking forces to show their backing of U. N. independent of governmental proddings. . . . Inevitably, the great force of the movie world is working with this citizens' movement, with the Motion Picture Association's Eric Johnston as chairman of the subcommittee on motion pictures. . . . . Thursday and Friday of next week there will be three daily showings of a free program of six official United Nations films in the Interdepartmental Auditorium, at 1:30, 4 and 8 P. M. . . . Although classes will not be dismissed in the District schools, youngsters will be encouraged to be special guests at the 4 o'clock showings. . . . Four of the six pictures have been shown to special groups here, "The People's Charter," a two-reeler which describes th many purposes of U. N.; "First Steps," "Maps We Live By" and "Clearing the Way." . . . Two have been recently completed, "Searchlight On the Nations" and "Highlights of the U. N. War." . . . As with all U. N. activities, the big problem lies in having to spread a limited supply over a pack of territory. Shortage of prints is the chief reason these pictures don't get around more; perhaps reluctance of individual exhibitors may be another. . . . But in this case, shortage of prints is the prime problem. . . . However, when you consider that these pictures Washington will see next week will be showing all over the globe through United Nations Information Offices, you get an idea of the scope of this world-wide union on the part of private citizens. . . . So make a date with yourself to see these films next week.

FRANCES STARR, if her Kalorama rd. neighbors are wondering where she is these days, is being tempted with a leading role in Vinton Freedley's next production . . . This is the N. Richard Nash play, "The Young and Fair," and if things go as Mr. Freedley plans, Miss Starr will have the important role of the schoolmistress . . . The Washington actress last appeared here, in New York and on tour as the mother in "Claudia," and she'll confess to you, in that charming way of hers, that every night round about 8:30 she stirs with that curtain-time feeling . . . Last summer she played another schoolmistress up in Maine, Ogunquit's "The Corn Is Green." . . . "The Young and Fair" is penciled for a mid-November opening in New York, and if Miss Starr takes up the Freedley offer, this admirer will be on hand.

"KING LEAR" will open its two-week run Friday night at Catholic University as the drama department's first offering of the season. . . . The CU group this year opens earlier than usual because its guest director, Basil Langton, is scheduled to start rehearsals shortly in New York for the new Paul Vincent Carroll play . . . Jim Waring, who appeared last season in "Kingdom of the Blind" and "Bride of Darkness," has been chosen for the demanding title role, with Teddy Kinsey as Cordelia . . . Nick Wandmacher will play the fool, Lyn Hurley will be Regan and Noami Vincent the Goneril . . . Of all Shakespeare's plays, Lear probably is the hardest to produce . . . In the skilled hands of England's Langton, who did so well by 'Heartbreak House" last summer, this promises to be at least an interesting evening . . . Further information from MIchigan 6000, extensions 358 or 359.

CALLING TECH ALUMNI: Didja know there's a Tech Alumni Association aborning? . . . To rush it along, some folks from out thataway are plotting a benefit musical revue, for which all talented Tech alumni—and alumnae—are sought . . . There'll be tryouts in Room 130, Tech High, the nights of Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 18, 20 and 21 . . . One of the cheer leaders of the movement is Eleanor Maddox, who was Miss Tech in her schooldays and this year was runner-up as Miss Washington . . . If you can't get to the tryouts or want further information, try writing Miss Maddox at 1715 West Virginia ave. ne.

THE WASHINGTON Film Council resumes its meetings tomorrow at 12:30 at the New Athens Restaurant, 1741 K st., where Glen Burch, executive director of the Film Council of America, will speak on "The Film Council as a National Force" . . . Reservations for the luncheon meeting may be made through Mrs. Marian Jarnigan, REpublic 4142, ext. 6073.

12 D. C. Men Pass Draft Examination

Names of the first District men to be drafted next month as part of Washington's 55-man November quota were released yesterday by local Selective Service headquarters.

The men, 12 in all, were those who passed preinduction physical and mental examinations the first three days of last week, when 26 were examined. Names of 1-A draft registrants who have taken subsequent examinations, 19 of them yesterday, were not available.

Frank D. Norton, deputy District draft director, said the 12 men "will form the vanguard of the November quota." They will probably be inducted "the first week in November," according to Lieut. Col. Walter S. Welsh, manpower division chief.

Most of the men who have passed the examinations already have received "Certificates of Acceptability" from draft headquarters by mail, Norton said. In most cases, men not accepted will be notified later, when they will also receive their new draft classification.

The District's 15 draft boards, located at 19th and D sts. nw., will inform men whether they passed or failed the predraft examinations provided they visit the boards in person. Results are not available for several days after the physical and mental tests are taken.

William M. Mumaw, 2457 Tunlaw rd. nw., grocery store clerk; Jesse S. Bowen, 1331 22d st. nw., driver; Leonard L. Lewis, 1827 Kalorama rd nw., laborer; George H. Barnes, 1863 Kalorama rd. nw., messenger

Aurelio B. Collado, 3115 Quesada st. nw., salesman; William I. Lee, jr., 1624 S st. nw., bartender; Charles A. Reese, 1727 Massachusetts ave. nw., chief clerk; and Quintin A. Hill, 1763 Willard st. nw., junior clerk.

Postlude

Miss Winston Uses Wrong Medium

By Paul Hume

Shirley Winston, who sang last night at the Phillips Gallery, has a voice of natural beauty.

Her song recital showed, at almost every point, however, the result of extremely injudicious training. If we have ever heard a true mezzo-soprano, Miss Winston is one. Yet she chose to sing classic arias and Lieder in keys designed for sopranos. Thus much of the time it was impossible to assess properly the true timbre of her voice.

This same fact was the chief cause of consistently unpleasant quality, bad intonation, and even poor diction. Unless a voice is correctly supported by a constant supply of breath, the tone will neither charm nor remain firm. If we labor this point it is because Miss Winston sang so handsomely last spring at the National Gallery where the greater part of her role lay in the medium reaches of the voice.

Her ambitious program included familiar songs of Brahms, Strauss, Handel, Mozart and Pergolesi. There was also a commendable number of unfamiliar works of Menotti (sung too fast), Chanler, and Mary Howe. Vocal problems together with lack of understanding of their style made it impossible for Miss Winston to bring home some fine songs of Ernst Bacon.

Out of the recital came two clear facts: that Theodore Schaefer played some of the finest accompaniments we have heard from him. His work in "Ruhe meine Seele" of Strauss and Chanler's Children was flawless. The entire recital displayed his brilliant supporting style.

The other fact is that Shirley Winston has an unusual voice which someone has told her is a soprano. If she wants to be a really fine singer she will cultivate the mezzo quality of the voice and let that be the dominant characteristic of her work. There is no reason with her natural equipment why she should not become a real artist.

Clawed Creatures

Bones Found Of 60 Million Years Ago

Fossil remains of clawed creatures who may have been a root in the family tree of present hoofed animals have been dug out of western Wyoming, Dr. Charles L. Gazin, reported here yesterday.

Dr. Gazin, Smithsonian Institution curator of vertebrate paleontology, said he dug up the 60,000,000-year-old bones this summer in the badlands section near Green River.

Visualizing them from their skeletal remains, he described them as sheep-like, grass-feeding mammals who roamed the land during the Eocene geological period. He said he had dug up three skeletons with "reasonably good" skulls in his summer pickings.

The creatures, classified as Meniscotherium, are not new to paleontologists but good specimens are rare, Dr. Gazin said. Though not a direct ancestor to the present day horse and other hoofed animals, they represent extinct strains of the earliest forms of that broad group of verterbrates.

All animals of the Meniscotherium types have been extinct for millions of years, according to Dr. Gazin.

Auto Parker Using Wrong Meter Warned

Robert W. Wilson, 3656 Park pl. nw., unintentionally gave another motorist a nickel's worth of aid but received a traffic ticket himself in a parking meter mixup.

The incident wound up happily for all concerned, however, when Wilson, who had placed his nickel in the wrong meter was let off with a warning yesterday. He explained he put the coin in the meter at his rear wheels. Regulations call for the deposit to be made in the front meter.

A total of 84 others received warnings and two were granted cancellations, it was revealed in a police report of traffic ticket adjustments covering October 3 to 9, released yesterday.

George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor was another who got off with a warning for overtime parking. Meany told police he became tied up in an important conference and couldn't get away to move his car.

Falls Church Asked to Annex Housing Area

Builders of a projected 48-lot housing development lying largely in Fairlfax County want their subdivision to be annexed to the City of Falls Church, the city council learned last night.

Only 1½ lots of the new development, to be called Poplar Heights, now lie in Falls Church proper.

The development is situated on S. West st., near the Washington & Old Dominion Railroad tracks. The council last night approved the plat of the proposed 15-acre subdivision as submitted by the builder, the Larchmont Corp.

Following council approval, City Attorney LaRue Van Meter said the builders had told him they wanted the development to be part of the city so that governmental jurisdiction over it would not be split.

If the city does not move to annex the area, the builders told Van Meter, they themselves would petition Fairfax Circuit Court for the action.

Van Meter said he had no idea how this particular action, if taken, would affect the city's contemplated annexation of 1 square mile of adjoining Fairfax County land.

The Larchmont Corp. already has built two subdivisions—Larchmont and Oak Haven—both within the city limits of Falls Church.

To further its over-all annexation plan, the council agreed to meet at 8 p. m. Wednesday with City Planning Expert Dr. Harland Bartholomew of St. Louis.

They will ask him to try to determine whether major annexation is feasible and what the job would cost.

Negro Locomotive Firemen Appeal

The United States Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., was asked yesterday to unravel a snarl of litigation in two Federal Courts over racial-discrimination charges made by Negro locomotive firemen.

The Negroes charge that valuable promotion rights have been denied them by the Railroad Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Seaboard Air Line Railroad.

Charles H. Houston, Washington lawyer, asked the Appeals Court yesterday to decide that Federal Courts in Virginia are powerless to stop the firemen from taking their case to the District of Columbia for trial.

The case first arose last year when a Norfolk court enjoined the brotherhood from carrying out a rule which allegedly refused employment to Negroes on Diesel locomotives, which were becoming popular on the railroads.

Then, early this year, Judge Alexander Holtzoff of the District Court here was petitioned to grant an injunction denying the brotherhood and railroad power to carry out a system known as a "forced promotion rule" on the grounds that it was discriminatory.

At this point, the brotherhood went back to the Norfolk court where a judge enjoined the Negroes from proceeding in Washington, Houston said. The judge ruled that the Washington case was merely an outgrowth of the case his own court had decided.

Because they feared contempt-of-court proceedings in Norfolk, the Negroes complied with the order of that court and voluntarily dismissed the suit they had brought in Washington, Houston said.

Yesterday's action was an appeal from the Norfolk court's decision. If successful, the Negroes will come back to Washington to reinstate the injunction suit here, it was said.

Throughout the litigation, the railroads and brotherhoods have denied discriminatory practices. They claim the promotion system they use at present may, in effect, be more favorable to Negroes than to whites.

Hyattsville Gets Parking Meters Today

Parking meters will be installed in Hyattsville at 8 a. m. today after much dispute and are expected to be in operation by noon, except in Queens Chapel Manor Shopping Center.

Operation of 170 meters was authorized last night when the City Council voted 6 to 1 for adoption of a meter ordinance providing for fines up to $25 for violations, with $1 as the standard penalty.

The ordinance, prepared by City Attorney Nicholas Orme, jr., was opposed only by City Councilman Henry J. Hellman. Councilman Thomas E. Arnold, long an opponent of the plan, was absent because of illness.

Barber's Body Found Floating in Eastern Branch

The body of a man identified as Jack Samuel Wrenn, 51, a barber of 1728 P st. nw., was found floating in the Eastern Branch of the Potomac near the Benning rd. bridge shortly after 7:30 a. m. yesterday.

Following an autopsy, Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District coroner, issued a certificate of death by drowning.

Wrenn's body, when discovered by James Washington, 1730 E st. ne., apparently had been in the river three days, the coroner said.

That's DYNAFLOW!

One of the big reasons for Dynaflow* success is that—from the moment you take over—you just do what comes naturally.

So, to "make ready," you start your motor—and it's plain common sense that your car should be in neutral.

Once your motor is purring, you flip a little direction lever to the "Drive" position—and forget that such things as low, second and high gear ever existed.

Your foot on the gas treadle makes you go—at any speed from 1 mile an hour to as many mph as the law allows.... That's all there is to it.

All, did we say? Well, not exactly.

There's the thrill of completely commanding a mighty power plant, such as you've never had before.

There's a sweetness to the whole "feel" of the car that's beyond anything in normal driving experience.

There's a smoothness to the ride that even the folks in the back seat are going to talk about.

How come this driving magic?

Buick engineers have found ways to make spinning oil do tricks it has never done before.

They've arrived at a whole list of new principles for the transmission of power—a new pump, a true turbine, a new supercharging assembly—which our friends of the press have been good enough to call "the biggest advance since the self-starter."

Why be a holdout? Sample Dynaflow for yourself. We'll be glad to arrange a demonstration—and beyond that, you can place an order, with or without a car to trade.

Tune in HENRY J. TAYLOR, Mutual Network, Mondays and Fridays

The Federal Diary

Truman and Dewey Pledge Full Support Of Civil Service

Both major party candidates for President—Governor Dewey and President Truman—yesterday placed themselves on record in favor of strengthening the Federal Civil Service. Their positions were revealed in letters to the AFL's National Association of Letter Carriers which opened its convention in Miami.

Governor Dewey took the occasion to answer indirectly the Democratic charge that he would abolish Civil Service if he is elected. Wrote Dewey in part:

"A new Administration, in my judgment, will advance the dignity and opportunity for careers for Federal Civil Service employes and will most certainly recognize and accept their fine service to their Government, regardless of political affiliation."

The President took an obvious crack at Dewey in his letter, which said in part:

"I know that there are those who say they would do away with the gains and benefits we have made in the Federal Civil Service under the merit system, especially in the appointment and promotion of civil servants . . . I am determined that our career system shall hold the gains we have already made, protect the workers who have made it their career, and continue to go forward through positive planning for the good of the employes and the Government alike."

In his letter, Dewey recalled the time when he was a Federal district attorney. He wrote: "For three years it was my great pleasure to administer a large Federal office in New York and I found the quality of service by the Federal Civil Service employes to be superb. I am looking forward with great pleasure again to working with the Federal Civil Service, for which I have the same very high regard which I hold for the army of devoted and loyal civil service employes of the State of New York."

Dewey's letter to William C. Doherty, president of the carriers' union, also said:

"There is a place and need for Federal employe organizations such as yours to work out constructive solutions to the many personnel problems which face the Federal Government as the Nation's largest employer. The high esteem in which the members of your organization are held by our citizens is a tribute to the letter carriers' tradition of constancy, courtesy and courage.

"We who occupy positions of public trust must recognize our responsibilities in maintaining in Federal and State governmentts a career civil service system which is the keystone of successful government. In the State of New York I have endeavored over the years, in the public positions which I have occupied, to strengthen the State civil service structure. In our State government the civil service employes, through their associations, work closely with the administration in the development and strengthening of our salary schedules, rules and laws for the protection of the employes. I will look for and count on such assistance from responsible Federal employe organizations."

In his letter, President Truman made a vigorous defense of his employe loyalty program, saying in part:

"You know and I know, because we are familiar with the record of facts, that there is no more loyal group than those who work in the Federal service, despite the attempts of those who have tried to create the false impression of guilt and dishonor.

"This record shows that the Federal Bureau of Investigation has found the loyalty of 99.7 per cent of all Federal workers to be not even questionable. The remaining three tenths of 1 per cent represent every single instance where the FBI found any shred of unchecked loyalty information about any Federal employe. These few cases follow the established procedure of the loyalty program and the record shows that the large majority are loyal Americans.

"I have been insistent that the loyalty program, which I established, be strictly followed so that the rights of the individual against malicious accusation and unfounded attack will be protected to the fullest. I am determined that Communists shall not work for the Government and that our vigilance shall be unremitting, but I will always to the utmost of my power defend the rights of all our citizens, not only employes, against violations of personal security which our Constitution guarantees. I know that I have had the support of your great organization in this resolve from the very beginning."

Gang of Safe Crackers Smashed, Police Say

Quartet Believed Responsible for Score of Lootings Here in 5 Months

A safe-cracking gang believed responsible for a score of safe lootings here in the last 5 months has been smashed, police announced yesterday.

Four yeggmen, under arrest, admitted to seven of the crimes involving a total loot of $3000.

The Midas-touch in reverse was evident in one job when too-liberal use of an acetylene torch turned $125 in currency into ashes after the men had worked doggedly for hours to get to the loot.

The men, all held for the grand jury on housebreaking charges are: Lewis R. (Rick) Dixon, 27, of 1224 6½ st. nw., Milton V. (Slim) Dorsey, 21, of 1117 5th st. nw., George (Rock) Williams jr., of 419 K st. nw., and David (Peanuts) Mitchell, 20, of 1316 6th st. nw.

The gangsters made their getaways in a minister's auto appropriated by Dorsey who served as chauffeur for the clergyman during the day. Police declined to identify the cleric.

Robberies Listed

Police say the gang admitted cracking safes at the following establishments: Seven-Up bottling plant, 1325 Kenilworth ave. ne.; Pepsi-Cola bottling plant, 901 17th st. ne.; Goodrich Tire Co., 443 I st. nw.; Briggs Meat Packing plant, 11th and E sts. sw.; Washington Woodworking Co., 912 4th st nw.; Cooke Paper Co., 59 Pierce st. ne. and the Capital Club Ginger Ale Co., 750 10th st. se.

The men apparently were not of the smooth, effortless Jimmy Valentine or Raffles school of safe-cracking. They did things the hard way, battering the safes open with whatever implements they found handy, police said.

It was an effort to lighten their labors with an acetylene torch that led to their arrest.

After a back-breaking all night job of hammering open a 2000-pound safe at the Pepsi-Cola Co., only to find the compartment empty, the yeggs decided there must be an easier way to make a dishonest dollar.

Acetylene Torch Stolen

So, according to their statements to police, they stole an acetylene torch from the Bagwell Garage at 1314 9th st. nw.

They used the torch on a box in the safe of the Briggs plant so enthusiastically that when the lid was raised they plunged their hands deep into the ashes of what was once $125 in legal tender.

In the meantime, Detective Sergts. Irving Lubore, Richard E. Meissner, and Samuel Russell had received a tip that Dixon had been seen loitering about the garage from which the torch had been taken.

Working through picture identification, the detectives picked up a suspect—only to find he was Dixon's twin brother.

Finally "Rick" Dixon was arrested last week. His arrest in turn led to the apprehension of the other three.

Morris Market Owner Reports Theft of $1500

The theft was committed between 10 a. m. Saturday and 10 a. m. Monday, Friedenberg said. The yeggs entered by breaking a window in a rear door, he reported.

The school had been scheduled to be sold to the highest bidder at an opening yesterday. Officials in the surveyor's office said bids were to be of an informal nature. They urged bidders to submit their proposals by the close of business on Friday.

4 New Polio Cases Bring Total to 206

3 Are Washington Residents to Boost Year's Figure to 109

Four new cases of polio were reported to the District Health Department yesterday, bringing the total for Greater Washington so far this year to 206. At the same time last year, 46 cases of polio had been reported for the area.

Of the new cases reported yesterday, three are Washington residents, making the total for the city 109, as compared with 19 for the same period of 1947. Nearby Maryland and Virginia has had 97 cases so far this year.

Get Holiday

Pupils Enjoy Smoldering Coal Pile

The 530 students of Oak Street School in Falls Church, enjoyed an unscheduled holiday yesterday because of a smoldering coal pile in the school's basement.

Coal gas fumes were first detected by a painter, working in the school, according to W. T. Woodson, superintendent of Fairfax County schools.

Workman started removing the coal last night to reach the smoldering part, believed to be near the front of the 100-ton pile. The Bureau of Mines is investigating, but the smoldering is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion, Woodson added.

Several weeks ago, the Herndon High School had to be closed for the same reason. About 75 tons of coal were removed, before the source of the fumes was reached. The coal there is now being put back a little at a time, Woodson said.

Meanwhile, the Oak Street School Parent-Teachers Association announced that a meeting, scheduled for tonight, will be postponed to October 19 because of the fumes.

Boy, 8, Caught After Escape From Cell With Friend, 12

He was being held by Fairfax police yesterday while they sought the 12-year-old companion who had shared the adventures with him.

According to police, the pair's Odyssey began Thursday when they stole a motor-bicycle in Baltimore, put-putted it over to Washington.

On Saturday, Fairfax Policeman John Wahl spotted the two underaged drivers, questioned them, and took them to headquarters until their parents could come.

Fairfax police kept the two in the dispatcher's enclosure under the eye of the officer on duty. But Saturday night, when the dispatcher was busy, both boys slipped out and escaped.

When police broadcast a lookout for the pair Sunday, Warrenton police called that they had them. Abashed, Fairfax brought the boys back, this time lodging them in a jail cell for safekeeping.

About 1:30 p. m. yesterday, unknown to the jailers, both boys wriggled through the hole in their cell door through which food is passed, and escaped again.

Boy, 4, Is Injured By Automobile

A 4-year-old boy was seriously injured yesterday afternoon, when he was struck by an automobile in the 500 block of E. Howell ave., Alexandria, a short distance from his home.

The boy, Michael Butler, 506 E. Bellefonte ave., was admitted to Alexandria Hospital with lacerations of the head and fractures of the right arm and left leg. According to police, he was struck by a car driven by William P. Curtis, 1109 15th st., S., Arlington, who was not charged.

Income Tax Cut Foreseen In Maryland

Law Reads 2½%, But State Finds 2% Is Enough

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 11 (AP).—Maryland citizens may find it hard to believe, but pleasant to take, when they make out their State income tax returns next year.

Chances are, an official said today, the forms will say the tax must be paid at the rate of 2½ per cent of earned income, when all the State really wants is 2 per cent.

How It Came to Pass

Last year the General Assembly passed a law increasing the rate on earned income from 2 to 2.5 per cent, and that on corporate income from 1.5 to 4 per cent, effective on money made this year.

When the State totaled its revenues last June 30, it found a surplus of some 20 million dollars. Fiscal experts began studying how to relieve the taxpayers.

Last week the Board of Revenue Estimates recommended forgetting about the higher levy on an individual's income. Governor Lane said he agreed: Leave it at 2 per cent.

That's What Law Says

But the 2.5 rate is still a law. The General Assembly would have to pass another bill to prevent the increase.

Meanwhile, the printer has to go to press, so the forms will be ready for distribution the first of the year.

"They have to be printed in accordance with the law as it stands," McCusker said.

"I expect one of the first things the Legislature will be asked to do in January is to amend the law to keep the tax at 2 per cent. Then we will have to depend on publicity to inform the taxpayer how to make out their returns."

Hume P-TA Meets Tonight

Dr. E. R. Drahelm, president of the Arlington County Council of the Parent-Teacher Association, will discuss the proposed Arlington County school bond issue at a meeting of the Hume School P-TA tonight at 8 o'clock at the school, 1801 South Arlington Ridge rd.

New Offers Fail to Please Phone Locals

$1 to $5 Boosts Are Taken Under Advisement by Union Officials

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. yesterday made new wage offers to the two principal unions here. Officials took them under advisement.

Mrs. Mary Cannon, president of Division 50, Communications Workers of America, reported, following conferences in Hotel Washington, that the utility had offered: $2 weekly increases to operators making $43 or less; $3 for operators earning more than $43; $1 weekly boosts for cafeteria workers; $2 for cooks; $1 and $2 for restroom attendants; $2 and $3 for clerical workers.

"We're thinking about the offer," she commented, "but we don't like it." The last offer, rejected September 23, provided $2 boosts for most workers.

Glenn Watts, president of Division 36, CWA, said plant workers were offered increases ranging from $1 to $5. He said the proposal was "taken under advisement—but we are endeavoring of course to get them to make a better one." He said the offer was not up to standards set by other industries.

Both unions will resume wage talks today at 10 a. m. Under current contracts, wage negotiations should be completed by midnight Friday.

Montgomery Group Renews Charter Assent

Renewed support of the proposed Montgomery County charter was voted last night by the Montgomery County Civic Federation meeting in the Bethesda Elementary School.

Federation support of the charter was voted last spring but on the suggestion of Walter McClenon, of the legal and legislative committee, the group composed of 62 civic bodies last night restated its position. The vote was almost unanimous.

Committee Appointed

At the same time, Washington I. Cleveland, leading charterite, reported that the county charter committee had appointed a nominating committee to submit possible candidates for a charter council if the home rule government is approved in the November 2 election.

Cleveland invited the federation to consider submission of possible candidates, but the body took no action last night.

Short and Long Sessions

The amendment, to be voted on also on November 2, provides that beginning next January the Legislature would meet for 90 days in odd years and 30 days in even years.

The lawmakers would be limited to budgetary and fiscal matters during the short term, except for bills necessary "in the general public welfare" or those designed to meet "acute emergencies."

SE Businessmen Favor Sales Tax for School

The Southeast Businessmen's Association last night passed a resolution repeating its stand in favor of a District sales tax to provide funds for a new Hine Junior High School.

The group also recommended by resolution more attention to prosecution of parents involved in "flagrant violations" of laws governing juvenile delinquency.

Raid on Negro-White Dance Is Protested by Wallaceites

The Progressive (Wallace) Party of the District yesterday protested to President Truman and the District Commissioners a police raid on a Negro-white dance of Wallace supporters here Saturday.

Seven persons, arrested in the raid on charges of lottery or liquor law violations, were granted continuances of hearings until October 19 and 20.

The arrests were made at a dance sponsored by the United Negro Allied Veterans of America, in Laborers Hall, 525 New Jersey ave. nw., after police undercover men bought whisky and "chances" on a raffle of liquor. More than 35 policemen participated in the foray.

The number of policemen participating was stressed by the Progressive Party in a telegram to the District Commissioners which said in part:

"We note that Major Barrett has given as a reason for the high crime rate in Washington that he does not have enough police. We should like to call you attention that . . . he used nearly 50 police to break up a veterans dance on the pretext that certain individuals were selling liquor without a license and holding a raffle . . ."

In the telegram to Mr. Truman, the party cited a raid several days ago on a private home where a number of white persons and one Negro had gathered. Police had declared they had received a report of a shooting at that address.

[Both Maj. Robert J. Barrett and Assistant Supt. Floyd E. Truscott were in New York attending a meeting of police chiefs when the dance was raided.]

Acting Police Supt. Robert S. Bryant yesterday refused to comment on the telegrams except to say an investigation was under way into the raid on the private home.

Slated for a hearing October 19 on liquor charges growing out of the dance incident are Walter E. White, 23, of 1313 49th st. ne., Shirley Windfield, 23, of 2327 Virginia ave. nw., Bernard C. Campbell, 29, of 1007 15th st. se., Winston C. Edwards, 30, of 2914 Sherman ave. nw., and Sidney Goldreich, 25, of 3812 Florence dr., Alexandria.

Edwards and Goldreich together with Edmund S. Majchrzyk, 24, of 516 2d st. nw., and Frank E. Trusclair, 27, of 2911 Sherman ave. nw., were also charged with lottery law violation. Their hearing was continued until October 20.

Hatcheries Lag In Filling Orders From Delmarva

Refused, Kin Say

Suit Filed On Bequests By Hrdlicka

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

Anthropologist Ales Hrdlicka's desire that the bulk of his estate be used to further his lifelong work may never be realized, it was learned yesterday.

A District Court suit was filed yesterday by his heirs, who say that neither the American Academy of Sciences nor the Smithsonian Institution cares to use the $47,000 he left them. His wishes are too restrictive and impractical, the suit declared.

The heirs, including the widow, Mrs. Mina Hrdlicka, 1650 Harvard st. nw., asked the court to decide what should be done with the $47,000. Organizations willing to comply with Dr. Hrdlicka's wishes should be found, or the money should revert to the heirs, the suit stated.

Dr. Hrdlicka, who was associated with the Smithsonian Institution before his death in 1943, devoted much of his life toward tracing the origin of the American Indians and in determining and describing the typical American of modern times from the anthropological viewpoint.

A building at 2848 Connecticut ave. nw. was given in trust to the National Academy of Sciences to use its $90-a-month income to (1) publish every 30 or 40 years a "somatic survey (measuring bodily characteristics) of the present white population of the United States and (2) to study in collaboration with Russian scientists, the origin of the American aborigines.

Gift to Smithsonian

A building at 2951 Upton st. nw., which also rents for $90 a month, was given to the Smithsonian to keep one tenth of the proceeds and to send the rest to the authorities in Hrdlicka's native town, Humpolec, Czechoslovakia, to be used for educatitonal insttutons there.

A lot at 3628 Connecticut ave. nw., which has garages on it renting $15 a month, was given to the Smithsonian to use the proceeds for republication of the scientist's works, which are scattered in numerous publications throughout the world.

According to J. E. Bindeman, attorney for the estate, the academy and institution would find it overburdensome to make the collections involved, keep track of the funds and account to the District Court, which has jurisdiction.

Since the portion willed to his widow amounted to less than her dower rights, she disaffirmed under the will. By law, she then received a one-third widow's interest in the personal property and for the rest of her life will receive one third of the receipts from the real estate which was entrusted to the academy and institution.

"There is no doubt," Bindeman said, "that Dr. Hrdlicka was a great man and a profound thinker. But he did not know the fine points of making a will. For that reason, it may fail."

Broiler Production, Spurred by Cheaper Feed, Is Kept Down By Lack of Chicks

By V. R. Montanari
Post Reporter

Poultrymen of the Delmarva Peninsula—who produced 35 to 40 per cent of the Nation's broilers—are trying to increase their supply of chicks so fast that hatcheries cannot keep up with their orders.

In turn, hatchery men in the three-state Eastern Shore area are unable to get eggs they need from their New England, Pennsylvania and New York sources because these sources just don't have enough hatching eggs.

Though their dilemma seems to bring up again the question of which comes first, the hen or the egg, poultrymen maintain the problem goes back beyond either of the two, to the grain the chickens eat—and more specifically to the price of the feed.

Incubator Eggs Rise to $1.20

"Most of us are running four to eight weeks behind on orders from broiler producers for baby chicks." The Washington Post was told yesterday by Walter Spearing of Salisbury, Md., owner of a large hatchery in the heart of the poultry area.

"It's the old law of supply and demand," he explained, "—a big demand for our chicks from poultrymen who have seen the price of feed go down in the past few weeks, and a small supply of laying eggs, probably 10 per cent less than last year." Incubator eggs are $1.20 a dozen now, against about 90 cents last year.

Why the small supply of hatching eggs? Because less chicks were put out to make "layers" last January, February and March, when both the price of feed and the Government's forecasts of continued high feed prices discouraged poultrymen, said Spearing.

Hot Spell Partly Blamed

"Last winter," said Spearing, the Government asked poultrymen to cut back and start less baby chicks and layers. They did, and now it takes time to rebuild their flock — about three weeks to hatch the eggs, if you can get them, and about 12 to 13 weeks after hatching to produce broilers."

Also contributing to the situation, said Spearing, was the extreme heat spell at the end of August, which killed millions of chickens and "threw surviving hens out of production."

Wade H. Rice, Department of Agriculture extension poultryman at the University of Maryland, said if eggs had been available, the 1,492,000-chick production during the week ending October 3 in the Delmarva Peninsula would have been doubled.

With production steadily rising, Rice voiced a warning that by March or April, "broilers will flood the market, and it's a good thing they can't get all the eggs to hatch that they want. They're always overdoing this."

Boon to Housewife Seen

Rice agreed that high feed prices, in relation to poultry prices, had kept poultrymen last spring from "putting out young chicks which would be laying eggs right now." Poultrymen also were selling broilers rather than keeping chickens for laying, he said.

Spearing who did not gree that overproduction would result from the present feverish activity on the Eastern Shore, despite steadily increasing flocks, said cold-storage poultry in the area is only half what it was last year.

"If the Delmarva Peninsula turns out as many broilers as they plan to be planning to produce," he declared, "it will be a good thing for the housewife. She will get a quicker benefit from lower grain prices that way than is possible with any other type of livestock."

$800,000 Drive Opened for Replacement Of 88-Yr.-Old N. Y. Ave. Presbyterian Church

A drive to raise $800,000 for a new New York Avenue Presbyterian Church was launched last night at a dinner at the National Guard Armory.

Details of the proposed church, to be erected on the site of the present building at 1301 New York ave. nw., were presented to more than 1350 members and friends of the church at the dinner.

Speaking at the event, Dr. J. Hillman Hollister, moderator of the Presbytery of Washington City and pastor of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, said the greatest encouragement would come from "thinking, working, and suffering" that the vision of the new church could be realized.

Marvin Predicts Success

Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, said the task of building the new church would be realized by careful plodding and urged the members not to become discouraged in working toward the $800,000 goal.

There is no excuse for a downtown church building unless it is going to serve the downtown area, Dr. John W. Rustin, minister of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church asserted. "If we let the downtown area go to hell the whole city will go to hell," he declared.

The new structure is designed to resemble the present building, which was completed in 1860. It will contain six, instead of the present four, floors, and floor space will be doubled.

1500 in Sanctuary

The new sanctuary will seat 1500 persons, and a large assembly room on the ground floor will seat 400. The present sanctuary seats 1100, and many worshipers each week must hear the sermon over a public address system in auxiliary rooms.

Sunday school space will be greatly increased, a children's chapel added, and the church will contain a kitchen and dining room facilities.

Brakeman Dies At Home After Fall From Car

James F. McNally, a 39-year-old Washington Terminal brakeman, was found dead in bed by his wife yesterday, five hours after he returned from work, police said, in a "semiconscious condition."

His wife, Mrs' Lavinia H. McNally, of 3654 Warder st. nw., told police he was brought from work at 9 a. m. by several men who said they were employed at the terminal.

She said they told of having "had a few drinks" and of stopping at a service station on the way to buy gas. They said McNally, in getting money out of his pocket to pay for the gas, fell out of the car and apparently injured his head.

Mrs. McNally told police she put her husband to bed when he arrived home, believing his condition was attributed to drink. She went into his bedroom at 2:45 p. m. and found him dead.

Coroner A. Magruder McDonald will perform an autopsy today.

Mr. McNally leaves, besides his wife and two children a brother, William McNally, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Sommers, all of Washington.

Kalorama Group Tables Move to Quit Federation

The Kalorama Citizens Association last night tabled a resolution introduced by its secretary asking that the group withdraw from the Federation of Citizens Associations.

The move, presented by Mrs. Sylvia Wubnig, touched off a heated debate after it charged the president and executive board of the Federation with supporting real estate covenants "completely inconsistent with the public policy of the United States."

Mrs. Wubnig's resolution also accused the Federation of having "acted to limit the right of member associations to choose their own officers without fear of reprisal by the Federation."

She said officers of the Federation had authority to determine whether persons in affiliated associations were "subversive" or not and could limit their privilege of holding office.

Allow Child to Choose Party Dress

Let the child decide for herself what shade her new party dress will be. After all, a party dress is a happy dress and she will be far happier in a color of her own choosing than one you may decide is more practical, for children react very quickly to colors. The dress will mean as much to her as the party if she thinks it is lovely.

These Are Good for You

Don't stress the point that spinach, carrots, red beets, etc., are "good for you" when fixing the child's plate. These words seem to take the flavor right out of the vegetables. Use some other method of interesting the youngster or, better still, fix his plate and say nothing at all about what is on it.

How to Keep Gloves Fresh, Smart Looking

We all enjoy the smart colored kid gloves and yet milady whose hands perspire must take a little extra precaution if she would have the gloves with her very long. Just take time to dust a little talcum powder into the gloves before donning. It will take up that small amount of perspiration and keep the gloves from absorbing it and thereby rotting the leather.

Living Together Amiably

When you begin to feel that each member of the family is out of sorts, unkind and selfish, it is time to take an inventory of your own habits and traits. This "all out of step but Jim" attitude usually comes back to the complainer and anyway it won't hurt to search yourself and see if perhaps that is where the fault lies.

The Young Helper

When teaching your young daughter how to do housework, make it as attractive for her as possible. She will be much more interested if she has her own brightly colored apron, house dress, etc. She might even have her own set of dusters and cleaning necessities; then she will feel what she is doing is really important.

Mary Haworth's Mail

In Few Days' Association Following First Meeting, Man Falls in Love With Best Friend's Sister; Should He Declare Himself in Letter?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Recently my best friend's sister was home for a short vacation from her work in another city, and during her stay with her family I was their house guest for a few days also, and in that time I fell in love with her completely, although this was the first time we had met.

Edith is the personification of the ideal girl I had always dreamed of finding; and while I did not tell her of my feelings, I believe she is aware of them. When she was saying goodby at the end of her vacation she asked me to write to her, which I shall certainly do.

Now, the problem is: When I first write to her, should I tell her how I feel about her, which of course I would like to do; or should I wait and tell her later, as the correspondence develops?

I have misgivings on both counts. I am afraid that if I follow my impulse and express my feeling right off, she may believe I am rushing things; and yet, on the other hand, if I wait, I fear she may lose interest. What do you think? Please advise me. E. B.

Hasty Love Letters Sometimes Regretted

DEAR E. B.: In all probability Edith is aware of your feelings. The gentler sex usually is very perceptive in this respect; so much so that even a romantically inexperienced girl who happens to catch the fancy of a swain too bashful to do more than gaze at her from afar, may read his feelings as accurately as if he had spelled them out.

We find many instances of the sort in literature, and none more appealing than the story of Priscilla Mullins, saucily prompting the smitten but stymied John Alden, "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" when he was purveying, in line of duty, a marriage offer from his chief, Miles Standish. John took up the challenge, married Priscilla and they produced 11 children, history says.

Now, to directly answer your question, I should think it gauche and ill-advised, not to your credit, to open correspondence with a love letter, inasmuch as you didn't initiate the subject face-to-face. And I feel it my duty to remind you that a pen in the hand of an infatuated male is an instrument of folly, potentially; and when he barely knows the lady who has dazzled his senses, the chances of his making a fool of himself on paper, to his lasting chagrin, are incalculable, if he "writes his heart out."

Key Correspondence to Honest Interest

AT THIS TIME you are intoxicated with the belief that Edith is the personification of your dream girl, which is a quite different state from loving her realistically on a knowledgeable basis of tested congeniality and sympathetic aware acceptance of her imperfections. That type of love might develop on further acquaintance; your hunch that she tallies with your ideal might prove correct; but beware of impetuous premature conclusions and commitments to that effect.

In asking you to write, Edith was speaking in somewhat the spirit of Priscilla Alden, giving encouragement to your evident longing to establish a confidential exchange with her; and it seems to me an appropriate first letter would begin where you left off in saying goodby.

Tell her what has been going on since, how much she is missed by you, what your winter schedule of work or study is to be; that the question of "when do you see her next" seems to be uppermost in your mind these days, and you intend to keep working on the answer to that one; and meantime will she please keep you posted on what she's doing. That ought to hold her interest, if she feels as you do. M. H.

Do You Spare Your Baby From Fears?

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

All babies hiccup some of the time. They seem to be placidly unconcerned about it, and it shouldn't bother the mother much more. It stems, so we are told, from the partial regurgitation of some of the soured food in the stomach.

The moment food goes into the stomach it is attacked by digestive juices which begin to reduce it to a fluid so that it may leave the stomach in rhythmical waves. Babies spit up very easily. Some of this acid fluid coming up in the throat may be irritating enough to cause the baby to hiccup. The simplest remedy is to give baby a generous drink of water.

Nervous Reactions

Mothers notice that the baby jumps, with hands flying above the head and chin trembling. Immediately they label him as nervous. It's too bad. He doesn't deserve any such reputation.

Babies are startled enormously by loud sounds. This is a fear reaction and even the newborn shows it. He won't continue to react this way once he has become accustomed to the ordinary noises of the household; though for a long time he may dislike the blaring, shattering sounds to which he may be exposed.

It's smart to spare him the fear engendered by loud noises. This does not mean that parents have to go tiptoeing around the room and talking in hushed voices when the baby is asleep.

Also, it doesn't mean that you should try to make him immune to loud sounds by treating him to the noise of a turned-up radio; or to door banging, dishes rattling, shrill doorbells or phones or other unnecessary noises which can make the home a place of din and clatter.

Give Baby Warning

Strange people coming suddenly into the baby's range or vision may cause these fear reactions, too. Speak before moving in on the baby, and give him some inkling of your presence.

These are not only kind ways of acting toward the baby, but they prevent him from attaching to pleasant incidents such as bathing, eating, etc., the fear reactions he gets from noise and fright experiences. This is called conditioning and connects the nonfear-making to the fear-making situation because they happen to come at the same time.

Formal Notes

Do not use gaily tinted stationery to answer formal notes, it is in poor taste. A soft ivory tint or plain white should be used for these letters. So much scenic stationery is on the market these days, and a great deal of it very attractive, but it should be used for informal notes exclusively.

Cold Facts on Preventing and Curing That October Cold

By Ida Jean Kain

SOME say October is the cold-catchingest month in the year; more women than men catch cold; and folks under 55 are more susceptible. Alas, very few "facts" about the common cold are backed up with scientific evidence. Being optimistic, did you ever try to pin a scientist down on a few cold facts?

However, you may be cheered to know that while they won't back up your pet cure, they are working on the cause—better still, on the prevention and cure of the cold. And if and when they finally dig out the answers, we may still live happily ever after.

In the mentime, if you get your feet wet, don't let them stay so if you can possibly help it. It's staying wet that does the chilling—or so it seems. And regardless of the controversy about drafts, why stay in one and chill the body surface? Keep out of hot, dry, stuffy rooms, too. Cold germs appear to thrive there.

AND give folks the sniffles the cold shoulder. It seems that the best ounce of prevention is to stay away from the cold virus. That has its difficulties, however, since the most infectious time may be when the other fellow is first coming down with it. If you make the mistake of shaking hands with anyone who has a cold, wash your hands quickly. And you can put it down as a positive fact that kissing anyone with a cold—blonde or brunette—is hazardous. Science says so.

It's almost as bad to be in the path of a-choo-oo . . . sneeze. The cold victim releases tiny droplets containing the germ into the air every time she sneezes . . . or coughs.

And, here it comes, don't overeat. There is abundance evidence that too many sweets, pastries, bread and starches in all forms lead to colds and overweight. Plenty of fresh fruits and green leafy and yellow vegetables, and dairy products are supposed to be good cold-resistance fare. Keep your diet high in vitamin A. While it is not a panacea for colds, vitamin A is believed to be a factor in building up resistance to respiratory infections.

But if you feel a cold coming on, willy-nilly, the best treatment, bar none, is rest in bed. Even science goes so far as to admit that a cold seems milder if a person rests. So go to bed . . . a few hours' rest is worth all your pet theories put together.

Gesundheit!

Healthful Food for School Lunch

Many healthful food builders can be disguised in the paste for sandwiches and children will get the necessary vitamins without knowing they are eating things they ordinarily do not care for. The spinach may be chopped finely in with the chicken and meat, and the lowly carrot may go along through the food chopper unnoticed. In this way the child's lunch may be perfectly balanced with a couple of sandwiches and a glass of milk.

Daughters of Colonial Wars To Have Meeting

The fall meeting of the national officers and councilors of the Daughters of Colonial Wars will be held in the Pan American Room of the Mayflower Hotel Tuesday, October 19, at 10 a. m., with the national president, Mrs. Benjamin F. Buckley, Lexington, Ky., presiding. Plans for the work for the next two years will be discussed and outlined.

Besides the work being done in behalf of the veterans of World War II, the organization is interested in the preservation of old records, documents, and other historical data relating to the history of the United States. Many markers have been placed during the past year at the graves of great men and women who sacrificed their lives for their country during Colonial days.

Following the meeting, there will be a luncheon in the east parlor of the Mayflower Hotel, to which all members are invited.

Many State presidents and national chairmen will gather here from the different States.

Because of many demands on her time Mrs. Ryland C. Bryant, national recording secretary, has resigned from that office. The national president, Mrs. Buckley, has appointed Mrs. Joseph B. Paul as her successor.

On Monday, October 18, at 2 p. m., the District Society of the Daughters of Colonial Wars will entertain at the home of Mrs. Ernest W. Davenport, 1801 Sudbury lane, Colonial Village, Va., in honor of the national president, Mrs. Buckley, the national officers and the State presidents.

The hostesses assisting Mrs. Davenport will be Mrs. William Walton Badgley, Mrs. Brinkley E. Callucott, Miss Luella P. Chase, Mrs. Merle LeRoy Cox, Mrs. Edwin J. Lawton, Mrs. Bertha M. Robertson, Mrs. Livingston Vann and Mrs. Homer King Vann.

Following a short business meeting, Mrs. Arthur C. Houghton, State president of the District Society, will present the guest speaker, Mrs. Henry M. Roberts, jr., honorary president general, DAR. Mrs. Roberts has been appointed executive director of the Three Hundredth Anniversary Celebration of Annapolis, Md., which will take place in May, 1949. She will speak on the "Colonial History of Annapolis."

A report on the progress of the State's historical project will be presented by the chairman, Mrs. Ralph Stevens Pendexter.

Mrs. Houghton will introduce Mrs. Joseph B. Paul as the new national recording secretary of the Daughters of Colonial Wars. Among other distinguished members of the District Society, she will introduce Dr. Margaret H. Sebree, national president, and Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, national first vice president of the National League of American Pen Women.

ECA Progress To Be Discussed At Luncheon

A Marshall Plan-ECA progress report luncheon opens the season's activities for the Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace, today at 1 o'clock at the United Nations Club.

Mrs. Heagerty at Candidate

District convention headquarters will be in the Whitehart Hotel where a reception will be held for all the national convention delegates to present Mrs. Pearl Heagerty as a candidate for the office of national historian, 1948-1949. It will be the first time in the history of the District department that one of its members is to be nominated for election to a national office.

One of the high points will be the election of a new national president to succeed Mrs. Lee W. Hutton of Excelsior, Minn. The two candidates for this office of president of the largest women's patriotic organization in the world (over 950,000 members) are Mrs. Hubert A. Goode, Portland, Oreg., and Mrs. Archie W. Miller of New Cumberland, Pa. Both women have long records of achievement in the Auxiliary and Mrs. Goode is chairman of the Auxiliary's national rehabilitation committee.

Top speakers will address the auxiliary delegates, at the conclave, and leading the list will be Harold E. Mrs. Tillett Hits Dewey Unity Theme

Members of the D. C. Business and Professional Women's Clubs last night called in representatives of the Republican and Democratic parties to discuss the election issues. Occasion was the inauguration of a series of programs observing "National Business Women's Week" in cooperation with the National BPW, which is emphasizing "Use Your Vote in '48."

The all feminine audience heard Mrs. Charles Tillett, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, challenge GOP Presidential Candidate Thomas E. Dewey to clarify his meaning of "unity." They heard Mrs. Lenona M. Rush, member, Maryland House of Delegates, who spoke as a substitute for Mrs. Charles Weis, urge the "gentler sex" to participate in party politics.

Mrs. Tillett told the audience of business women, "I do not consider 'unity,' as promised by the Republican candidate for President, an issue in this campaign. He has taken a firm stand on this mystical spiritual 'unity.' It seems something like mother or home or heaven that is altogether unassailable."

"I hold that when anyone uses the word 'unity,' she continued, "he must be asked immediately 'Unity on whose terms.' Surely the candidate cannot really mean that if a candidate is elected, everyone will henceforth agree with him."

Mrs. Tillet went on, "I hold that in a democracy citizens are united only in their determination to be free of unity . . . unity is not a word for democracy. Unity is a word for totalitarians. People have come to this country through the vear to think, speak, worship and assemble as they please. They fled from unity because it was intolerable."

Hitting at both Dewey and Congress, she averred, "The Republican candidate for President is crusading to unsnarl, untangle and unravel conditions in Washington. I'll tell you what needs to be unraveled, unsnarled and untangled in Washington. They are the conditions brought about because the Eightieth Congress did nothing about housing, did nothing about education, did nothing about the high cost of iving."

Mrs. Tillett said that the Republican Party already has fallen down on its solemn 1946 campaign pledge to raise minimum wages above 40 cents an hour. She pointed out that in 11 States, the estimated cost of a single working woman's budget is estimated at $1460, which includes taxes, but does not include any money for insurance or savings. "A 75 cents per hour minimum wage is the lowest wage on which a single, employed woman worker can support herself," she explained. "Meanwhile, the minimum wage in the United States is $16 for a 40-hour week."

She predicted that the women's vote would decide which party would be elected in November and said this is the time for "every American woman to wake up and recognize her duty, her obligation, and her responsibility."

Mrs. Rush emphasized that each vote counts and deplored apathy among the 400,000 eligible women who had not bothered to register.

"Democracy is dynamic and cannot stand still," asserted Mrs. Rush. "It must go forward or backward. To go forward means that each average citizen must become politically active. In order to keep political machines from becoming corrupt, we must individually work with our party and be alert to the candidates it proposes for office. We should know their qualifications and ability."

Mrs. Rush said that she was proud of the GOP presidential candidate. "He recognizes qualified women and will continue to do so."

Pen Women's National Officers Feted Here

ENTHUSIASTICALLY discussing plans for the Mid-Administration Congress of the National League of the American Pen Women to be held in Los Angeles in 1949, are (left to right) Dr. Margaret Hayes Sebree, Mrs. Lulu Gabel Giese and Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin. The league national officers gathered in Washington yesterday for the first board meeting of the new administrative officers held in the National Press Building

Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin entertained the board members of the National League of American Pen Women at a dinner last night in the Washington Club. The national officers and chairman arrived in Washington yesterday for the first board meeting of the new administrative officers.

The national officers greeted the 125 guests from 15 States preceding the dinner. A Halloween motif with paper witches and scarecrows, fall foliage and red apples decorated the tables and guests told one-minute ghost stories in the after-dinner entertainment.

At the board meeting in the National Press Building, 11 a. m., it was decided that the Mid-Administration Congress would be held in Los Angeles in June 1949 in conjunction with the '49ers Centennial. The biennial convention of the National League will be held in Washington in April 1950.

Preceding the board meeting, Mrs. Lulu Gabel Giese, national historian and president of the Pittsburgh branch entertained members at a breakfast in the Willard Hotel with Dr. Margaret Hayes Sebree, national president, and Mrs. Marvin, national first vice president, as guests of honor.

Secretary Tobin Cites Progress In Civil Rights to NCNW

By Genevieve Reynolds

Approximately 200 alert delegates to the National Council of Negro Women's 13th annual conference yesterday heard Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin and Miss Frieda Miller, Chief of the Women's Bureau, declare that real progress is being made in the Civil Rights program. The conference is being held in the Interdepartmental Auditorium, Department of Labor.

"While much is yet to be achieved in the struggle to make the rights which the Constitution guarantees to all citizens a reality for the Negro," declared the Secretary, "progress is being made—more slowly perhaps than we might wish."

Referring to the Supreme Court's decision outlawing restrictive covenants based on race or creed," he said, "To you who suffered long and bitterly because of restrictive covenants, I need not spell out how far-reaching the effects of this decision will be. Suffice to say, it runs with the temper of the times.

"Many factors are responsible for this progress and not the least is the work of organizations like yours," he continued.

Secretary Tobin also cited progress in the field of education but warned that there is still much to do. "And so you Americans who have struggled under crushing handicaps and have acquitted yourselves and your race with dignity and courage move on to ever widening horizons," he exhorted. "The work of groups like yours is never done."

He advised the delegates to "go back to your communities and work for greater opportunities for people of color in the United States."

World Understanding

Miss Miller congratulated the group on the theme of its conclave, "World Citizenship Through Human Understanding."

"I can't say too emphatically that you are on the only road to success when you take the way of human understanding as your guide to world order," she told the audience.

Miss Miller said that we must work for the strengthening of our beliefs and practice of free speech, free association and the safeguarding of individual rights at home and abroad;

"Let us not even in our determined struggle for our international objective, condemn or despise any whole people because we condemn their present purpose and methods," she concluded. "Let us keep it clear in our own and all others' understanding that we are prepared to work in human understanding with all who genuinely demonstrate their devotion to those basic freedoms for which we fought the war and are still fighting."

During the afternoon session delegates passed a resolution to raise funds to purchase a new building that would be open to all races, colors, and creeds. Proposal for a new house was made by Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, founder and president of the council, in her annual report.

Dr. Bethune said individuals would be asked for contributions to the house and reported that over $6000 already had been donated for that purpose.

The council head recommended changing the name of the organization from the National Council of Negro Women to the National Council of United Women. A vote on the question will be taken today — Wednesday.

She called upon the council delegates to work for the removal of segregation in schools and churches so "that we can become just people."

Mrs. Janetta Brown, executive director, NCNW, said that the council had concentrated on the implementation of the civil rights program suggested by President Truman.

She announced that the National Council of Negro Women has been asked to supply a roster of its qualified women to hold national jobs. "Recently we had a request for a qualified Negro woman who is an experienced social worker to represent the United States at a forthcoming Pan American social welfare conference," she said.

Highlight of tonight's session will be a "One World Concert" in which representatives of various legations and embassies will participate.

About Planning *Teen-Age Party

We have recently moved to a new community and my daughter, who is in school winters and away at work in summers, has not been able to meet any of the people here, nor has she been able to see the ones at our old home which is 12 miles distant. She will be home soon and I would like to have a reception or an afternoon tea while she is here. I have thought of asking our friends from our old home to come from 2 to 4 and our new neighbors from 4 to 6 as the two groups are strangers and would not mix so well. What do you think of the plan? I should like to have things quite simple with no receiving line. Would a reception or tea be best and what would be best to serve? There will be quite a crowd in the course of the afternoon and I would like to serve something that would be nice, but not too much trouble. Please outline a tea or reception I might give.
E. M.

I would suggest that the best hours for such a party be 3 to 5 for the first group and 5 to 7 for the second. In this way, there will be no conflict with other plans your guests might have for the early afternoon hours. For refreshments, I would suggest you serve tea or coffee at one end of your dining room table and at the other end have a fruit punch or some similar drink which might be more enjoyed by your daughter's friends. With the beverages, have large plates of sandwiches, cup cakes, nuts and mints. If the party is to include both teen-age boys and girls, I would suggest that you not have tiny tea sandwiches and cakes, but more hearty sandwiches and larger cakes. Arrange the table upon which the refreshments are served with a lace cloth, flowers and candles. If the guests are predominantly a mixed crowd of teen-agers, it would be nice to provide a record player for music and even room to dance if you have it. But whether they dance or not, the music from the record player will get the party off on the informal basis which teen-agers most enjoy.

What is the best method for cleaning an ecru lace tablecloth. It is of rayon and cotton.
M. K.

Your lace table cloth can be very satisfactorily washed by placing it in a washer or washing it by hand in mild soap suds with the temperature of the water just warm to the touch (about 120 degrees F.) Run the washer for five minutes and then rinse thoroughly in two or three rinse waters. Lace tablecloths have a tendency to shrink, so if you have a curtain stretcher of the right size it would be ideal to dry the cloth on. If no stretcher is available, place the cloth over the clothesline, stretching it both lengthwise and widthwise. This will help it to dry evenly. Repeat the stretching several times during the drying process. When dry, press without dampening, being careful not to stretch the cloth at the center fold.

A carrier pigeon has taken a fancy to us and we have been feeding him for the past week. His message band carries the number "1810." He has an aluminum band on the other leg. Whom should I notify of this bird's presence?
R. L. M.

Althought the Signal Corps has no pigeons of its own now, it keeps a list of this country's carrier pigeons, their numbers and owners. If you will telephone Maj. Charles Harris, Republic 6700, extension 73671, he can tell you who owns "1810."

Can you tell me where I might find the necessary materials for making hats (patterns, etc.)?

One local shop that carries an extensive stock of hat-making supplies—crinoline foundations, braid, feathers, fabrics, flowers, etc.—can be telephoned at National 8322. Patterns for fabric hats can be purchased in the pattern sections of most department stores.

I would like to know how I might get glue out of a cotton dress. I've already tried nail polish remover to no avail.
A. H.

Glue can usually be removed from washable material by soaking the spot in warm water. If it's a stubborn stain, boiling is sometimes necessary (but, of course, shouldn't be attempted unless you're sure the dress will not fade). If the stain is known to be casein glue, soak it in cold water. Another method of removing glue is to sponge the spot with water, then with acetic acid (10 per cent solution) or with white vinegar. Rinse well.

PETUNIA!

The pup unravelled
A sleeve in one sitting;
From now on, I betcha,
I tend to my knitting!

Good idea, Petunia—and here's another. Keep two corks in your knitting bag, and put them on the needle tips when you stop knitting in the middle of a row. Saves dropped stitches!

STUFFED PEPPERS are a reliable specialty for a cool fall supper, with their vivid color and deliciously different taste. Here's a new recipe with a corn meal stuffing that's really grand eating. Buttered red beets and French bread are good companions for this dish.

STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

¼ pound bacon, diced
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
1 cup enriched corn meal
3 cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce (optional)
1 cup grated sharp cheese

Wash peppers, remove tops and seeds. Cook in boiling water five minutes; drain. Cook diced bacon in frying pan. Remove bacon and cook onion and celery in same drippings until transparent. Add corn meal, water, salt, pepper and parsley to onion-celery mixture. Cook 10 minutes, stirring frequently until mixture thickens.

Fold in cooked bacon, Worcestershire sauce and cheese, mixing until cheese is melted. Fill peppers with corn meal mixture; sprinkle with paprika if desired. Place in shallow baking pan. Cover bottom of dish with hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Cook It This Way . . .

Lamp or beef stew is good seasoned with catsup or chili sauce, garlic and paprika as well as salt and pepper.

Cook diced carrots and celery together and season with salt and freshly-ground pepper. Combine with a medium cream sauce and serve hot. Use any of the liquid remaining after vegetables are cooked for part of the milk required for the sauce.

Peel tomatoes and cut off stem ends. Cut each crosswise in four parts, but do not cut through bottom. Spread tomato wedges apart and fill with a fish, meat or poultry salad for a luncheon dish. Garnish with mayonnaise and parsley and serve on salad greens.

For Sunday night supper, serve a corn pudding (made from canned or quick-frozen whole grain corn), creamed spinach, baked tomatoes and broiled crisp bacon strips. Accompany by lots of hot biscuits or corn muffins.

Steam pieces of frying chicken before broiling, then serve with broiled apricots and sliced sweet potatoes. Accompany this main dish with a tossed green salad mixed with French dressing and serve cheese and crackers for dessert.

DECORATING BY CODE: Miss Dorothy McCabe, stylist for Waverly Fabrics, shows how the code system in the new Fabriganza fabrics works. It all adds up to simple way of selecting upholstery, draperies and slip covers that will make a stunning combination in the same room.

The stripe in this picture is mint green, lipstick red, and gray on a textured Willowood fabric. With it, Miss McCabe advises using a solid reversible satin that picks up the mint green of the stripe, plus chartreuse and a touch of flamingo on a gray background.

Miss McCabe will lecture on the fabrics and interior decorating in general this afternoon at 2:30 in the drapery department at Lansburgh's, where the new materials are making their premiere. In the picture above, she wears a dress of blue Fabriganza fabric in an Adam stripe.

Decorating Hints

Beauty vs. Functionalism Need Not War in Home

By Ann Pringle

I'D LIKE to strike the word "functional" out of every decorating writer's vocabulary—if I didn't use it so much myself. It's a squat, uncompromising, vaguely forbidding word. Judging from the reaction of some people I've used it on in my own strictly unscientific poll system it suggests something useful but necessarily ugly. It's a pity, because some of the most beautiful things in the world are functional and I can't think of another word to describe them as well.

Actually, a functional piece of furniture is just one that does a job for you. If it's a job you don't need done, then the piece con be as functional as Grand Coulee Dam and still be utterly useless in your house. All of which leads, in a roundabout way, to the subject of useless, or relatively useless pieces of furniture, and whether, to be in tune with the times and the modern architects, you should send them all to the nearest second-hand store.

I don't think so, any more than I think people shouldn't eat chocolate eclairs or wear diamond bracelets, if they like them and can pay for them. To stretch a point, anything that looks pretty, or makes you feel good, performs a justifying function.

THE STRICTEST of modern designers say—as far as I've been able to figure out what they say—that furniture is designed to perform a function, and that its beauty is inherent in good performance. But what of beveled edges when straight ones would do as well? What of tapered legs and polished brass bardware? Obviously beauty of form is important, too. The thin dividing line, where beauty ends and mere decorative ugliness takes over is, in my opinion, where the form loses all relation to the function.

My own feeling is that almost every home is large enough and almost every life broad enough, to fit in a few things that don't do anything except look beautiful. The meeting point of structural beauty and practical performance will vary in different pieces, according to their function, even as economy of writing style varies in a writer like Hemingway as opposed to a writer like Proust. How closely your own idea of beauty tallies with your standard of satisfactory performance is a strictly personal matter, and one that's worth thinking about.

The Gift of Fish

When your neighbor gives you some fish from his catch and you do not wish to use it until next day, sprinkle it liberally with salt and wrap it in a piece of muslin wrung out of vinegar. Rinse under cold water before cooking.

When Eggs Are Stiff

Egg whites are whipped enough when they will "point." If you lift the beater out of the mass a piece of egg white will hang from it and decrease to a point in size. If you are a braver nature and belong to the old school, you will turn the bowl upside down and if the whites stay put, they are done.

A Hard Rule on the You

If you are going to make it a hard and fast rule that the child finish everything on his plate, be sure that the servings are not too large. You are catering to a smaller stomach, you know.

Picnic Spoons

One housewife keeps a package of picnic spoons in her medicine closet. She uses them for measuring when her youngsters have a contagious disease. There is no danger of transferring the germs after the dose is given as the cardboard spoon may be burned immediately.

A Though for the Nurse

Did you know one can buy little paper stars that are coated with luminescent material that glows when the light is put out? They would be a vast help to the mother of the nervous child who always fights for a light in his room when going to bed. Paste some of these stars on the ceiling of the nursery and the interest will do away with the fear.

Becomes Bride Of Red Sox Star

Bachrach

Miss Emily Alberta Frederick became the bride of Dominic Paul DiMaggio of the Boston Red Sox yesterday in St. Paul's Church, Wellesley, Mass. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Andrew Frederick of Wellesley Hills and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DiMaggio of San Francisco, Calif.

The Red Feather Lady May Call Today

A friend may call on you today
To ask of you a gift.
And if you are the sort I think
You'll give this friend a lift.

She'll tell you of a blinded man,
Or of an orphaned boy;
A widow with her little brood,
A home where once was joy.

If she appeals to you, my friend
Please do not let her down.

PIED TYPE DEPT.

Nothing delights a newspaper reader like a typographical error which turns a prosaic sentence into something funny.

We all know that errors can be minimized, but never completely eliminated. So we accept the usual "shrdlu etaoin" lines with patience and understanding.

Ed Burch of the WMAL newsroom caught that one. Mrs. E. A. Miller, jr., of 3535 S. Wakefield st., Arlington, Va., prefers an ad in our morning contemporary which offers a "reclining chair, was $16.95—now $44.88."

Duane W. Stewart of 3618 Valley dr., Alexandria, Va., wonders about our own reference to the "Young America Junior Feader." He figures it's probably a new device for feeding kids.

Richard E. Doughty of 1238 W st. se., is partial to our report of the football game between the Cleveland Browns and the Buffalo Bills. The Browns won, 42 to 13, but the line score in the early editions looked like this:

Buffalo	0	13	0	0	—13

The list has no end. George A. Reynolds of 2220 Bryan pl. se. wants to know, "What is a 'hixup?' " and the answer is obvious. A hixup is a mixed-up "mixup."

Helen L. Williams of 318 George Mason dr., Arlington, Va., catches our afternoon contemporary in an old pitfall—a reference to the "Untied" States.

Paul Muse of the Manassas (Va.) Messenger joins the fun by sending in a Washington Post sports item which refers to the start of the "7948" football season.

But Mrs. Alma Cooper of Manassas evens the score by catching the Messenger in an advertisement which speaks of a "Six-room house for sale, with bath on 23 acres of land."

And so it goes. A. B. Crammatte of 1103 Trenton pl. se. gets a chuckle out of a grocery ad which includes two pictures—one to illustrate the price of apples, and the other for the price of cantaloupes. As you might expect, the illustrations were reversed.

This could go on indefinitely, but for practical reasons, it won't. G. R. Simcox of 262 N. Barton st., Arlington, Va., wonders why our afternoon contemporary waited until long after Labor Day to run an ad for a hardware store saying that the store would be closed for that holiday.

C. S. Trimble of 1443 Holly st. nw., wants to know why this column last month spoke of an "effectionate" puppy.

Since District Liner Trimble was the only one alert enough to catch it, I'll tell him why: Because that was the afternoon I played golf, instead of staying at my desk and reading proof.

And Mrs. M. Wilker of 911 C st. ne., is curious about the ad in our morning contemporary, which offered:

"House slippers, leather—4 yards for $1."

FOR CAB RIDERS ONLY

Did you know that the PUC's taxi regulations provide that you can demand a receipt from a cab driver if you wish?

It's a handy thing to keep in mind if you ever think you're being overcharged. The law says that the hacker's receipt must include such details as his name, badge number, fare charged, passenger's destination and point of pickup.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Pretty 2-year-old mother cat and four playful kittens, 6 weeks old." (Woodley 0764, Extension 113.)

LIFE IS LIKE THAT

For the sake of the record, perhaps I ought to tell you about the troubles I had with yesterday's "parallelogram" item.

I wanted to reproduce our contemporary's m i s s p ellings. But our printers are men of little imagination. They think there's only one way to spell a word, and by golly they were going to "correct" my mistakes.

So it took a good bit of time and effort to get them to reproduce the incorrect spellings, but we finally made it.

Then I wrote a headline for the item, and said something about "Reporter, Pony Suffer Parallel Ailments." I should have known better.

THAT was the "parallel" that came through "paralell." We caught it just in the nick of time.

ALMOST AS GOOD

People who don't have enough money to make a down payment on a used car will have to be content with something cheaper and order a new one.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK. — Deems Taylor sent one of his books to a Met. Opera official, and inscribed it "To . . ., under whose rough exterior beats a heart of stone" . . . Jim Gude, of the Stix-Gude agency, was explaining his specialization to Betty Elder of the Associated Press. "We represent commentators—Raymond Swing, Ed Murrow, Bob Trout—only men like these news commentators." Miss Elder nodded "I get it—Flash Peddlers."

Gary Davis, the American expatriate who became a world citizen, has been granted an extension until December 31 by the French government. On that date he will have to leave or be deported. Davis will pose a novel problem to the deportation experts. He must be deported to the last place from which he came—in his case the Palais de Chaillot in Paris, which is U. N. territory. But by December 31 the U. N. will be gone, and the Palais de Chaillot will be French territory again. Davis has received many movie offers, but spurned them all. "To say that I miss the United States and my association there is to say that a man misses his own heart," he wrote his father last week. He added that he would like to return to this country to lecture for World Federation, but only if he could be admitted here as a world citizen.

Allyn Ann McLerie, who won show-stealing notices in the Philadelphia run of the new musical, "Where's Charley?" wears a hair-switch onstage. The braid is made of her mother's hair, which was cut 22 years ago.

The Eddy Duchin-Peter Lind Hayes-Mary Healy combination has made the Waldorf's Wedgewood Room again one of the most popular spots in our town.

Typical of the day is the conversation overheard between an 11-year-old boy and his 8-year-old brother. The younger one sighed: "I wish nobody'd ever have to die. In fact, I wish that all the people who ever were born were alive today." His brother scoffed: "Ridiculous. Don't you realize that Yankee Stadium then would have to hold 300,000 people?"

During his campaign tour the President would rise at 5:30 in the morning, and tell his audiences and the weary, sleepy newspapermen "I live farmers' hours: Late to bed and early to rise" . . . Richard Strout correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor, registered a protest about these early morning sessions. The President indicated that he would follow the same routine on the rest of his campaign tours. "Mr. President," Strout finally told him, "you have a despicable habit of hard work."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ferguson Cool on Tucker Probe

By Drew Pearson

When Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan first came to Washington, he was widely acclaimed as the great prosecutor. This reputation now is sadly tarnished.

Ferguson

For though Homer heads one of the most important investigating subcommittees of the Senate, it begins to look as if he runs in the opposite direction when either he or his friends get their toes slightly stepped on.

After Senator Thomas of Oklahoma wrote Ferguson a letter threatening to expose certain extracurricular activities, Ferguson promptly dropped the Thomas probe. Ferguson, of course, denies this, says he still is investigating. And here is something else he will doubtless deny, too:

In the spring of 1947, the Senator from Michigan had a young army of sleuths digging into the Preston Tucker automobile scandal. Word from the Ferguson committee was that sensational developments were just around the corner. A big story would develop.

But it never did. Ferguson dropped the whole thing. His sleuths closed up the Tucker books and went on to other things. It was quite mysterious.

Big G.O.P. Politician

No adequate explanation ever was given, but here are some interesting facts which took place in May and June, 1947, just as Ferguson dropped the Tucker probe.

At about this time, Mrs. Dudley C. Hay, popular, efficient former Republican National Committeewoman from Michigan, and her husband were paid $17,850 by the auto man being probed by Ferguson—namely Preston Tucker.

Mrs. Hay has been a friend of Ferguson's. She was at that time not only GOP committeewoman, but secretary of the Republican National Committee and had long been influential in Michigan politics.

Mrs. Hay made five trips to Washington during May and June, 1947, just at the time Senator Ferguson seemed about to begin public hearings of the Tucker corporation.

Records of the Statler Hotel show that she registered there from May 9 to 11, and on May 10 called Ferguson's secret phone number, Ordway 3085. Not many people had this private number.

Mrs. Hay came back to Washington, May 15-16, and again the hotel record shows she called the Capitol several times. She returned on May 31, remaining until June 5, and on June 1 called Ferguson's secret number twice.

On June 11, Mrs. Hay came back again, remaining until June 13, during which time the hotel records show that twice she called Ferguson's private number. Tucker was in Washington at the same identical time.

Whether or not Mr. and Mrs. Hay were employed by Tucker to do this job, the fact is that the Ferguson probe of Tucker suddenly stopped.

At that time the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Justice Department also were investigating Tucker and they reported that Ferguson's agents were so busy at the Tucker plant it looked as if the Senate probe would get started long before the Government could finish its work.

That was one year and a half ago. Meanwhile the Ferguson probe never has come off. The Justice Department is shortly calling a grand jury in Chicago to get to the bottom of Mr. Tucker's activities—but, for reasons best known to the Senator from Michigan, he changed his mind about this situation. The investing public has 20 million dollars at stake.

Banks Shun G. I. Loans

Unless banks start loosening up on home loans to veterans, Congress may take these loans away from private enterprise and put the Government in the direct loan business.

This was threatened the other day in a blunt, but unofficial, warning to the financial trade by Wisconsin's G. O. P. Senator Joe McCarthy, vice chairman of the Joint Congressional Housing Committee.

But even as McCarthy took his stand, the Federal Reserve System was sending out notices to member banks to cut down on home loans as a deflationary measure. This will virtually put an end to G. I. loans, since banks have been turning down most veterans anyway in favor of loans with higher interest rates.

In many cases, this has been a deliberate squeeze play to force up the interest rates on G. I. loans. An increase from 4 to 4½ per cent is permitted by law, provided it is approved by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Veterans' Administration or Federal Housing Administration—whichever agency guarantees the loan. This new provision in the law was inserted this year by Congress to encourage banks to make G. I. loans. It has had the opposite effect.

Note—One thing Senator McCarthy overlooks is that the Eightieth Congress deliberately knocked out the provision passed by the Democrats whereby the RFC guarantees G. I. bank loans 100 per cent. Immediately after this guarantee was removed, banks started vetoing veterans' loans.

Merry-Go-Round

The Army caste system is so strict at Camp Kilmer that privates can't receive incoming long-distance calls. Col. Harold R. Duffie, the commanding officer, flatly denied this to the Army, but forgot to tip off his telephone operators. They still give the same stock answer to anyone calling privates—which is to write a letter, send a telegram or, in case of an emergency, get in touch with the Red Cross—anything but talk to him . . . Democratic Publicity Director Jack Redding is asking for a $5000-a-year raise, but the White house won't grant it. Real truth is the White House would like to get rid of Redding . . . the Labor Committee for Truman and Barkley has offered $2000 in prizes to unions that bring out the most voters to the polls November 2.

The letters I save

When I have answered letters I . . . Destroy them one by one . . . Because when my replies are mailed . . . My duty has been done . . . And letters merely clutter up . . . What little space I own . . . With messages that mean no more . . . Than how the winds have blown . . . But now and then some envolope . . . Is filled with friendly lines . . . That mean a great deal more to me . . . Than oral words or signs . . . A narrative of warmth and cheer . . . And just a bit of praise . . . To keep my old umbrella up . . . On disappointing days . . . And that is one I treasure and . . . I never would destroy . . . Because its every sentence is . . . A source of endless joy.
